U. S. BUNTING COMPANY WITHDRAWS ITS BID

On U. S. Flag Bunting Owing to Haggling of Secretary Daniels of the Navy—No Contract Yet Awarded

Early this year the navy department at Washington asked for bids on bunting for the manufacture of United States flags and the lowest bids were made by foreign manufacturers, and it was believed that the contracts would be awarded them. Immediately a storm of protest was raised throughout the country against such a proceeding, and a resolution was introduced by John J. Gilbride, a young democratic representative from ward 4 in the Massachusetts legislature and passed by a roll call vote as being unwarranted, unpatriotic and improper. The next lowest bidders were the United States Bunting company, and the New England Bunting company, both of this city. The contract, however, was not awarded to them by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, but held up for the reason that the two concerns are alleged not to be two separate organizations. The United States Bunting company, then made a public statement to the effect that there was absolutely no collusion between the two companies, and that they did not know or seek to know the New England Bunting company's figures, also that it was a fact that their figures were higher than the English bid, due to the great difference in wages. Since that statement made last June, no further action has been taken, and last week, the United States Bunting company withdrew its bid, and the reason given was that prices had advanced recently from 5 to 7 per cent. which led to this decision.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE

DANIEL O'DEA WAS THE JOHNNIE ON THE SPOT THAT PUT OUT THE BLAZE

Although he is not a full fledged fireman and has no intentions of becoming one, Daniel O'Dea, an employe of the Lowell Automobile Co. in Appleton street, played the part of a fireman last night and extinguished a fire in a bed at the lodging house of G. W. Sheridan, 66 Appleton street. Shortly after 10 o'clock last night a fire was discovered in a bed in a house. An alarm from box 28 was sounded, but before the fire fighters reached the building, O'Dea armed with an extinguisher rushed to the house and put the blaze out. The damage was small.

NAMUR, 45 MILES FROM BRUSSELS, FALLS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—It is announced that Namur, capital of the province of Namur, 45 miles southeast of Brussels and strongly fortified has fallen before the Germans.

The fortifications of Namur and Liege formed the finest examples of the work of the famous Belgian military engineer, General Alexis Brialmont. The defensive works of Namur were not so strong as those of Liege, but the position of the city was much better for military purposes.

The forts are nine in number, the four most important being St. Heribert, Audoye, Suarlee and Cognele while the connecting forts of less strength are Dave, Maizeret, Malonne, Marchevolette and Emines.

All are protected by hardened steel domes, generally eight of them in each fort and the artillery consisting of modern heavy disappearing guns is very powerful.

TRIBUTE TO LATE POPE

Delivered by Mgr. Supple at Pontifical Mass Yesterday — Many Priests Attended

All of the local Catholic pastors and most of the curates attended the pontifical mass for the pope at the cathedral in Boston yesterday. There was a very large attendance of clergy and laity.

The mass began at 10 o'clock, and just before that hour a long line of priests marched slowly from the vestry, moving through the chapel of the blessed sacrament into the main auditorium. Following them came the monsignori, who took their places in the sanctuary, and last came the clergy who were to assist at the service.

Bishop Anderson was assisted by the Rev. Philip J. O'Donnell, pastor of St. James' church, as assistant priest; Mgr. John B. Peterson, president of St. John's Seminary, Brighton, as deacon, and the Rev. William H. Finigan of the Cathedral as master of ceremonies.

Absolution was pronounced by the Rev. Arthur J. Teeling of Lynn, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Denis J. O'Farrell of Roxbury, the Rt. Rev. Edward J. Moriarty of Jamaica Plain and the Rt. Rev. Mgr. George J. Patterson of South Boston.

In his eulogy "The Pope of the People," Mgr. Supple delivered a very eloquent discourse taking for his text:

"His remembrance shall be sweet as honey in every mouth. He directed his heart toward the Lord and in the days of sinners he strengthened Godliness." Ecclesiasticus xlix. 2-4.

He said in part: "A great pontiff is gone. A saintly life is come to an end. Surrounded during life by the love of the peoples of the earth for the gracious personality which stamped and gave character to his whole career, in death Pius X is encircled with the sorrowing tributes and grateful remembrance of the nations of the world.

Pope Loved America

"We are participants in a special way in this universal mourning. Pius X. loved America and her free institutions. He was an ardent admirer of her well-ordered liberty. He loved to dwell upon the vision of her hospitable shores receiving all the peoples of the earth. He looked upon her as the land of the promise. He never tired of praising her for the freedom of opportunity which the church enjoyed to carry out her salutary mission. He was America's sincere friend and well wisher. He gloried in prophecying the reign of religion and law within her borders. Speaking of the historic occasion of the conferring of the cardinal's beretta on our own beloved cardinal archbishop, he did not hesitate to apply to America the word of the prophet Isaiah, "but the Lord shall arise upon thee and His glory shall be seen upon thee."

Special Debt of Gratitude

"But Boston owes to the dead pontiff a very special debt of gratitude and her tribute to his memory should be one of particular regard and affection. He loved the see of Boston and its beloved cardinal-archbishop.

"Two great-hearted men met for the first time about one year after Pius X. had occupied the throne of the Fisherman. Both were men of wide outlook and broad vision. Both were ardent champions of the church's cause. Both were types of robust and virile mould. Both faced situations with undaunted courage and sublime confidence. This likeness of character brought them at once into sympathy with each other and each conceived a wonderful liking for the other.

"When the following year the holy see determined to send an embassy to the imperial court of Japan, Pius X., breaking with all precedents, selected an American in the person of our present illustrious cardinal-archbishop, then bishop of Portland, as his special envoy. On his return from a great diplomatic triumph the Holy Father promoted him to be the coadjutor archbishop of this see, to which he succeeded as archbishop shortly afterward.

"The confidence of Pius X. in the new spiritual chief of Boston made him particularly interested in everything that was being done for the progress of the church. He took a keen interest in following the great movements of organization of which we have been the witnesses. When the time came to create new cardinals, impelled by his admiration of the steady progress of the church among us, but more because of his special affection for our beloved archbishop and his appreciation of his signal ability, by an act of his supreme power he conferred historic importance upon this see by raising it to a footing of equality with the great metropolitan and cardinitial bishoprics of Christendom.

"He was of the people and was preeminently the pope of the people. He was well prepared for his mission. He lived among the people all his life as a priest and bishop and his great heart went out to them to help them in all their wants.

"The faith of Pius X. will ever remain an example to the world. It was simple, sincere and strong. He stood firmly on the divine foundation of revealed truth. The word of God was to him sacred and inviolable and the traditional teaching of the church the providential bulwark of the faith. Novelty in doctrine is always heresy and modernism in religion is a pretence and human conceit without warrant of adequate foundation. His rich and fruitful life bears ample testimony to the depth and sincerity of his faith. Gracious by nature he was like a wall of adamant when there was question of tempering with the divine deposit of truth. The school of modernists who sought to introduce new rules of interpretation of the holy scriptures and of the dogmas of the faith which would divest them of their supernatural character found in him an invincible foe. The honest soul of Pius X. saw through all their devices. His insight was too keen to be deceived. He saw clearly that these men were attempting to substitute human inventions for the divine landmarks of religion, and standing on his throne of power with one blow he killed modernism in religion forever. He has become the benefactor of the human race by this defence of its most precious heritage and will be known to all posterity as the strong defender of the faith.

"What was the secret of his strength and character? He has himself told us in the deeds of his pontificate. Foremost among the titles which posterity will bestow on him is the Pope of the Blessed Sacrament. In this centre and source of spiritual strength and holiness Pius X. found the food that nourished his great soul and made him magnanimous, gracious and strong. So convinced was he of this that he sought in every way to extend this blessing among the people. His regulations concerning frequent and daily communion, his relaxing of the law of fasting in the case of the sick who wished to receive the Holy Eucharist, his law enjoining the giving of Holy Communion to children once they have reached the years of discretion, his approval and support of the great Eucharistic congresses—all these things plainly indicate his mind and point to his great solicitude that the faithful should be encouraged to eat frequently of the Bread of Life, in which he himself found his fortitude and consolation.

"And now the great heart that ever beat for the people's welfare and for the peace of nations is stilled. The man of peace unable to bear the sight of fraternal slaughter has gone to his reward. Long shall his memory live among the people. No one who has had the privilege of meeting him can ever forget the gracious amiability of that presence."

At St. Anthony's church tomorrow at 8.30 a. m. there will be a solemn high mass of requiem for the late Pope, Pius X.

There will be a solemn high mass of requiem for the late Pope Pius X in St. Peter's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

30,000 GERMANS ATTACKING MILINES

LONDON, Aug. 25.—4.15 a. m.—A despatch to the Times from Ostend, sent today, says that thirty thousand Germans are attacking Milines, a Belgian city, 13 miles southeast of Antwerp. Skirmishing is general in northwest Flanders.

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED NAMUR HAS FALLEN

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The official war information bureau says:

"It is announced that Namur has fallen. It is not yet known definitely here whether the fall refers to the town or the forts or to both."

The above despatch was filed in London Monday afternoon and received in New York this morning. Its transmission was probably delayed by the censor.

GREAT BATTLE IN PROVINCE OF HAINAUT

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Express from Ostend says:

A great battle has been in progress in the prince of Hainaut on the southern frontier of Belgium since Friday evening. French and British troops have been engaged in desperate conflicts north of Charleroi and Fleurus with Germans who crossed the Meuse at Huy.

Saturday French troops which had spread from Lille met the German right in East Flanders.

Desperate fighting between outposts took place at Oudenarde and Renaix. The losses were heavy on both sides Monday. Twenty-five thousand Germans have been surrounded between Courtrai and Anseghem, a town six miles west of Oudenarde. Fighting was progressing Sunday at Peronnes, between Mons and Pinche and between Wategem and Oudenard.

GERMANS WIN FIRST GREAT BATTLE

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The German army has won the first great battle of the great war. All along the 100-mile front of battle the allies have been driven back, not slowly and stubbornly, but so swiftly that the defeat seems so catastrophic that it might better be termed a rout.

SAW SOLDIERS SHOT DOWN BY THE DOZEN

PARIS, Aug. 25.—A traveler who has come to Paris from Charleroi was a witness of part of the fighting at that place. He has related his experiences to a reporter of the Petit Parisien as follows:

"I was at Fore, 15 miles from Erquelines. This region is covered with a thick growth of trees. From where I was stationed I could see passing for hours column after column of German infantry. They were subjected to a veritable hurricane of iron from the French artillery and they went down by the dozen.

"At Solere Le Chateau I saw a German aeroplane brought down by a well directed shot and I was told that another such machine had met the same fate at Norles."

Other War News on Page Two

"YESTERDAY DAY OF BAD NEWS AND MORE MUST FOLLOW"—LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 25.—"Yesterday was a day of bad news and we fear more must follow," the Times says today in an editorial article on the fall of Namur. "In the first phase of the great battle," the paper continues, "the Germans appear to have won ground all along the line save in the area held by the British. We were prepared for the ebb and flow of the conflict but not for the fall of Namur. We have to face this situation with unshaken confidence. We have to remember that the battle is not yet over. The Germans have not yet burst their way through to France. We have to remember that this is only the first great encounter of a war which, plainly, is destined to be a long one. For the allies it is a phase; for the Germans it is vital. They are dealing their blows with tremendous vigor; but the issue in Belgium still hangs in the balance, in spite of the unfortunate events at Namur. Whatever be the upshot Great Britain and her allies will face the outlook with dogged determination and continue the war until the spirit of Prussian militarism is routed out of Europe."

ALLIED FLEET WRECKED CATTARO FORTIFICATIONS

MILAN, Aug. 25.—5.10 a. m.—A news despatch from Cattaro says that all of the fortifications there have been destroyed by the allied fleet. The Austrians did not have time before the attack to strew the gulf of Cattaro with mines.

VIENNA TO BE PUT IN STATE OF DEFENSE

PARIS, Aug. 25.—6.20 a. m.—A Fournier's agency despatch from Rome says that an official message from Vienna states that Emperor Francis Joseph has signed a decree ordering the capital to be put in a state of defense.

Travelers from Trieste state that the Austrians are concentrating for the defense of the Adriatic at Pola and Sevenico. The population of the latter have been sent inland. All the Austrian fleet has been assembled in the Fasana canal at Pola.

"WILLIAM II, EMPEROR OF EUROPE"

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Handelsblaad says that since Monday no Germans have been in Brussels. Arrivals from Liege state that many houses there were burned last week. German soldiers have inscribed on the walls of the city "William II, Emperor of Europe."

GERMAN CAVALRYMEN CLOSING IN ON ALLIES

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Central News circulates a despatch from Paris saying that an official communication given out in that city declares that German cavalrymen belonging to an independent division are operating on the extreme right and on the extreme left of the position of the allies.

$4,000,000 TOWARD WAR INDEMNITY PAID

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Times from Flushing says that $4,000,000 towards the war indemnity of $40,000,000 demanded of the city of Brussels by the Germans already has been paid.

It is reported that the Germans in Brussels blew up a trainway station because the directors of the street railway refused to grant certain requirements.

GERMAN ZEPPELIN FLIES OVER ANTWERP

FIRST ACTION OF ENGLISH TROOPS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—4.03 a. m.—The French correspondent of the Associated Press says the British troops came into action for the first time on Friday and Saturday. It was only an affair of outposts and scouting but interesting because of the light it threw on the exhausted condition of the German advance guard.

The correspondent continues:

Detachments were scouting in the country to the westward of Brussels and south as far as Charleroi. Exhausted though the German cavalry were known to be as a whole their success lay in continued rapid advance and it was obvious that they would push on at the first possible moment.

So while the Belgians were sullenly falling back toward the north the English cavalry were busily employed feeling for the inevitable German advance while the French horse, foot and artillery came up from the south and west.

GERMANS WIN FIRST GREAT BATTLE—ALLIES FORCED TO RETREAT

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Kaiser's armies have gained a material victory in the great battle on Belgian soil, and today finds the allies in retreat and the invaders pushing down across the French frontier.

This is taken as the explanation of the announcement of the French war office, which declared that while the allies had held their own against the Germans on the extreme west of the battle line, they had been forced back to "covering positions."

The allies are resting on the advanced lines of the French border defenses, it is believed.

All day yesterday there were conflicting rumors of the progress of the mighty struggle, and great crowds await patiently in front of the newspaper offices for some authentic announcement.

There came from Berlin by way of the United States the report of a great victory over the French at Neufchateau, where a German army under Grand Duke Albert of Wurtemburg had been battling three days with the army of the republic.

This was supplemented by an announcement of the official news bureau that the English, who had taken the offensive in front of Mons, were merely holding their own; and again, later in the day, came news from Paris indicating that the French were throwing their reserve forces into lower Belgium and calling upon the English to send aid from the western wing.

Serious Reverses

It was not until late evening that the setback for the allies was officially admitted by the Paris war office. In this, the first real test of strength between the combatants, the Germans have shown their power, and are sure to push their campaign with increased determination.

The French announcement of yesterday afternoon, which gave the first inkling that things were not going well for the allies, read:

"The general engagement continues today with desperation. Already both sides have suffered serious losses.

"Our armies had absolutely taken the offensive between the Moselle and Mons, in Belgium. A general battle is now being fought in Upper Alsace, upon the Vosges mountains, and along the river Meurthe. The main body of troops is under the command of Gen. Pau. These forces hold the front heretofore indicated.

"An army from the north of Wavre is approaching Neufchateau, and is attacking the German forces which have defiled through Luxemburg and are now upon the right bank of the Semois.

Severe Fighting in Ardennes

"Another army from the direction of Sedan has crossed the department of Ardennes and is engaging the German army corps which has been proceeding between the river Lesse and the river Meuse.

"A third army corps from the neighborhood of Chimay is advancing to attack the German right between the river Sambre and the river Meuse. This third army is supported by an English army which has come over from the vicinity of Mons.

"The movements of the Germans who sought to pass our left wing were followed step by step, and their right now finds itself attacked by the left wing of our army, which is working in conjunction with the English.

"From this side the battle continued vigorously for more than 24 hours, the field extending over the remainder of the front."

Russians Won Great Battle

The long promised Russian invasion of Germany has begun, and already the Czar's troops have fought a great battle and are reported in possession of cities on three important railroads leading into the heart of East Prussia.

The Rome correspondent of the Central News has telegraphed that a dispatch received in the Italian capital from St. Petersburg has gone to the headquarters of the Russian army, which has taken the offensive in full strength.

If affairs on the French border are as serious for the allies as is believed, Russia will be looked to for a powerful effort that shall serve as a diversion and compel the movement of German troops over from the French to the Russian boundary.

FALL OF NAMUR GREAT BLOW TO ALLIES—GERMANS TO MARCH ON PARIS

LONDON, Aug. 25. 5:10 a. m.—Commenting on the fall of Namur before the Germans the Times says it is one of those inexplicable events which makes war the gamble that it is. That Namur should have fallen in two days will require a deal of explanation, the Times adds.

The Times military expert says that it is too early to say that the line of the Meuse south of Mezieres must be abandoned but the outlook is not favorable and the development of the situation in the next few days will be watched with legitimate anxiety. He continues:

There are reports that the townspeople and even the garrison of Namur were less well disposed than the men of Liege to offer a strenuous resistance and so bring upon their town the punishment meted out by Germans to Liege. There is undoubtedly some slight feeling among the Belgians that they have not been adequately supported by the allies and that they have borne the whole brunt of the war in the north but we cannot believe that the Belgians did less than their duty and we expect to hear that they were attacked by overpowering numbers.

The possession of Namur was vital for Germany and it was a fine stroke for the Germans to have rushed the place under the eyes of the allied armies. We still hope and believe that our counter-offensive in the north is only postponed and not abandoned.

Reviewing the general situation, the Times military expert points out that the allies in Belgium are meeting the full shock of the German army. He says that it is essential for Germany that she should deal a paralyzing blow in this quarter in order to gain time to detach troops to resist the Russian attack on the Prussian frontier.

Commenting on the loss of the Belgian stronghold, the Chronicle says:

The news today is decidedly bad. It adds that if the allies losses have been heavy "we may yet see before long the Germans march in earnest upon Paris."

Namur is a fortress of great strength which its defenders could possibly hold several months.

BRITISH, RUSSIAN AND FRENCH EMBASSIES FLYING JAPANESE FLAG

TOKIO, Aug. 25—10 a. m.—The British, Russian and French embassies are flying the Japanese flag as symbolic of the alliance. Vice-Admiral Tomosaburo Kato has been appointed commander-in-chief of the first squadron.

Vice-Admiral Sadakichi Kato, commander of the second squadron, and Rear Admiral Touchiya, commander of the third squadron.

Contradictory reports are in circulation of a battle between British and German warships but there has been no confirmation.

The German ambassador, Count von Rex and staff are completing arrangements for sailing on the steamer Minnesota for San Francisco.

CARDINALS AT ROME

PREPARATIONS FOR APPROACHING CONCLAVE—CARDINAL FARLEY EXPECTED TOMORROW

ROME, Aug. 25.—In preparation for the approaching conclave to elect a successor to Pope Pius X the printing bureau of the Vatican is getting out maps which are to be distributed to the cardinals showing each one where his apartments are to be located.

Owing to their feebleness several of the cardinals will be permitted to occupy rooms in the rear of the Sistine chapel obviating the necessity of climbing stairs to the chapel twice daily and to cast their ballots. Other cardinals have been notified that they may celebrate mass in their own rooms instead of going every morning to the Pauline chapel.

Cardinal Farley, archbishop of New York, has reached Milan from Switzerland. He is expected at Rome tomorrow. The condition of his health is excellent.

The hope is entertained here that the American cardinals, Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell will succeed in reaching Rome in time for the conclave. It is felt that insomuch that they are outside the influences of the European war they will be able to bring an impartial view to the election of the new pope.

REPORT RUSSIAN VICTORY

Defeat of Three German Army Corps in Northeastern Prussia Converted Into Rout

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg says:

The German defenses in east Prussia is based on four parallel and strongly fortified lines running north and south. Each is supported by natural obstacles. The foremost three lines are distinct groups of numerous lakes. The fourth and strongest defense line is the Vistula river, extending from the Russian frontier to the Baltic. Outside these defense lines the Germans have on the northeast the very strong fortress of Konigsburg with fortified advance positions at Libau and Tapiau.

The foremost three defense lines are extensively fortified. There are important and permanent fortifications at Allenstein and Boyen and the whole is filled with lakes, leaving only comparatively narrow defiles for the advancing troops. The country is full of fortifications partly provisional and partly field works, most of which are armed with heavy guns. A frontal attack would be a very difficult task.

The Vistula, from 500 to 1000 yards wide, is guarded by six fortresses.

A man entitled to rank among the first as an organizer of victory is compelled to remain far from the battlefield. He is Gen. Soukhomlinoff, the Russian Kitchener, who is now reorganizing the Russian armies. Through him the armies have been irreproachably equipped and the spirit of the men is the same as the spirit of the nation.

Defeat of Germans in Russia

The defeat of three German army corps in northeastern Prussia was converted into a rout by the timely arrival of another army coming from Warsaw in the rear of the enemy's position. The Warsaw army, which was very powerful, completely turned the German position at the Mazur lakes and while extending its operations over a wide front westward, headed towards Allenstein. The German 20th army corps thus became a nut between stout crackers.

In Galicia the theatre of Russian strategy will be on a level with the victorious plan adopted further north. The Austrians in Lomberg probably will be taken in a similar way.

The Austrian force retreating from Vladimir, Volhynski, Russia, 17 miles from the frontier towards Sokal in Galacia, Austria, probably has been cut off. Grand Duke Michael, the emperor's brother, has returned from abroad and is going to the front.

The Russian embassy in London, while pleased over the victory at Gumbinnen, states that it feels bound to warn the English press not to exaggerate the consequences of the victory.

GERMAN PRISONERS OF WAR UNDER GUARD OF ENGLISH SOLDIERS IN PORTSMOUTH

This is one of the first actual war pictures to arrive from England since the conflict began. It shows a group of captured German reservists taken from a German liner at Portsmouth being marched through a street of that city under guard of armed English soldiers. They are held as prisoners of war.

WILL FIGHT TO FINISH

Germans United to Defend Fatherland Against Attack of Jealous Powers, Says Ambassador

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—"My wife is with the Red Cross at Munich," said Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to the United States who arrived here yesterday on board the Noordam from Rotterdam, "and my son is with the emperor's guard. All my secretaries have gone to the front and I regret that I was not able to see active service myself.

"From the emperor to the lowest unskilled workman in the fatherland Germany is united to defend herself against the frivilous and unwarranted attack of jealous powers. The German people will fight to a finish and will be victorious in the end. At the outbreak of the war, he continued the English cut the cable to this neutral country for the sole purpose of preventing the truth from coming here. There was no excuse for that act, except for the desire to deceive the people of the United States as to the true conditions of the war. But I believe Americans will prove themselves fair enough to weigh carefully all the news that comes from English courses. The calling of the Japanese into the European quarrel shows one thing above all else. It is that England does not feel very safe. The Japanese will doubtless take Kiao Chow; sheer weight of numbers assures that. But by the end of the war Japan will have the supremacy of the Pacific, a thing she has striven for during many years.

"When the true story of the assault on Liege is told Americans will have a far different opinion than that gained from the colored account from Belgian, French and English sources."

The ambassador denied reports that the German crown prince had been wounded by an assassin in Berlin. Moreover, he added, the crown prince had never been wounded before Liege for the simple reason that he was not at Liege but in command of troops at the fortress at Metz.

"The last great German victory I heard of before leaving Berlin," said the ambassador was one at Metz by the army under the crown prince."

Of the reported Russian invasion of East Prussia, Count Von Bernstorff said: "The reports of the penetration by a Russian force are probably true. That part of the German frontier is not heavily fortified. But the Russians will never cross the Vistula."

Fifteen corps of the Austrian army, each comprising 40,000 men, are now on the Russian frontier of Austria, Count Bernstorff said. In Germany, besides the last line of reservists, 1,300,000 men upon whom the government had no claim for military service had volunteered and were enrolled in an army for home defense.

CHANGE IN THE STATUTE

RELATIVE TO THE SETTLEMENT OF ESTATES—ONE YEAR INSTEAD OF TWO

STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Executors and administrators who are appointed after the first of next month must, under the new law, finish their duties within one year, instead of two years, as has formerly been allowed. This change is made by chapter 699 of the new acts and resolves bearing the title "An Act to Provide for Accelerating the Settlement of Estates."

There are several phases to this provision of the present law all of which are cut in half by the new act. For example, an executor or administrator before could not be held to answer to an action by a creditor of the estate which was commenced within one year after his giving bond. This one year is cut down to six months.

Again, if the executor or administrator does not within a year have notice of demands against the estate which authorizes him to represent that the estate is insolvent, he may, after the expiration of the year before the debts are due and not be personally liable to any creditor. In both cases the one year has been changed to six months.

Further along in the old law it provided that an administrator or executor should not be held liable unless an action was commenced within two years from the date of his bond. This has been changed to one year and the provision added that "the court may allow creditors further time for bringing actions, not exceeding two years from the time of the giving of his official bond by such executor or administrator, provided that application for such further time be made before the expiration of one year from the time of the approval of said bond."

Another section of the old law provided that if no assets came to light after the expiration of two years, the administrator or executor should account for them and apply them in the same way as if they had been received within two years. This also is changed by one year.

The time for bringing action against the executor or administrator is now limited to one year in place of two.

Again it is provided that a creditor shall have one year instead of two to present claim to a probate court provided such claim does not accrue within the one year period. If the court decided it is a just claim it can order the executor or administrator to retain sufficient funds to meet it.

GOLD TO NEEDY AMERICANS

BERLIN, Aug. 24., (via London, 2 p. m.)—Henry S. Breckinridge, assistant secretary of war at Washington and ten officers from the American cruiser, arrived in Berlin Sunday morning on a special train from Holland. They are bringing gold coin sent over by the American government for the succor of needy Americans in Germany.

Under the guidance of an attache from the American embassy here the special train made fast time, considering the state of war. It took only 13 hours to come from the Hague. The usual time for this journey under present conditions is 33 hours. The rapidity with which the trip was made is explained by the fact that the railroad authorities attached the special train to the car of a high German official who was coming to Berlin.

WERE ARRESTED AS SPIES

MR. AND MRS. HUNTINGTON CONFIRM REPORT—BOTH SEARCHED BY GERMANS

LONDON, Aug. 25, 2.55 p. m.—Archer M. Huntington, president of the American Geographical society, and Mrs. Huntington, who have arrived in London from the continent yesterday confirmed the story of their arrest as Russian spies in Germany.

They left Carlsbad two hours before the receipt of the declaration of war with Russia, traveling by motor car to Nuernberg. When they reached there they were taken to the police station, where they were retained from 8 o'clock in the morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Huntington were obliged to move their clothing which was searched. Their papers also were ransacked and their car, which was of French make, was commandeered. The Huntingtons were then set at liberty and allowed to remain in Nuernberg under police surveillance. Later their French chauffeur and valet, who is an Englishman, were made prisoners of war. The Huntingtons remained in Nuernberg until Aug. 18, when they took a special train to Amsterdam. From Amsterdam the journey to London was completed without further trouble.

"So far as I could see," Mr. Huntington said today: "All Germany is enthusiastic over the war. The people clearly wanted it and they had no doubt whatever of its immediate success. I saw signs on military automobiles such as these: "William, emperor of Europe;" "William, king of Russia," and "On to Paris."

Among the out-of-town relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Clement Paquette and Joseph Paquette of Marlboro. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Augustin Graton, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Joseph Albert.

DEATHS

ONLY "NEUTRAL" PASSENGERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Fifty Germans and Austrians were yesterday refused passage on the Italian steamship Stampalia due to sail Wednesday for Naples. Agents of the liner Laveloc announced that they had received orders from their home office to permit only Americans, Italians or persons belonging to a neutral country to engage passage on its ships until further notice.

BILE AND BILIOUSNESS

Bile is manufactured in the cells of the liver. It assists digestion and prevents putrefaction in the intestines. Bile is necessary to life but excess of bile is poisonous.

The effects of excessive secretion of bile and failure to eliminate it from the blood, which is also a function of the liver, are white-coated or brown-furred tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, indigestion, headache, lack of appetite, constipation and weariness.

This is a condition popularly called billousness and points directly to the need of something to regulate the liver. For this purpose the claim is made that Pinkiets, the new laxative, are greatly superior to old-fashioned liver medicines which over-stimulate the liver and, when their use is stopped, leave the liver more torpid than before. That over-stimulation debilitates the liver is as certain as anything known in the science of medicine. Pinkiets are tiny, sugar-coated pills, dainty to take, easy in action and they do not upset the stomach nor cause griping. Given a thorough trial they really correct chronic constipation.

Your druggist sells Pinkiets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free

WON FIRST; THEN LOST

Local Team Captured 6-4 Contest But Lake's New Pitcher Beat Them in Second Game

Lowell and Manchester split another double header yesterday, as on Saturday, the first game going to the locals and the visitors coming into their own in the second contest.

Matty Zieser was on the mound for Lowell in the first encounter and Teed, the spit-ball pitcher formerly with Lynn, was trotted out by Fred Lake. Although the locals were outhit by Manchester their blows were more timely. Errors by both teams were costly.

In the first half of the ninth Manchester scored one run and pushed men around to third and second with two out. With Reed at bat and a hit meaning a tie score, King was sent in to relieve Zieser and struck out Reed with his wet offering. The final score was 6-4.

First Inning

Manchester looked dangerous for a few minutes in the first inning but gilt edged support of Matty pulled that gentleman out of a bad box. Kane singled to right. Sweatt lifted a high foul fly which Kelly got under. Ziezer fielded Torpey's grounder and with plenty of time to make the play threw low to Dee with Kane safe at second and Torpey arrived at first. Dee got Reed's hard grounder and a double play resulted McCleskey taking the throw at second forcing Torpey and sending the ball ahead of Reed to the first station. No runs; one hit, one error. Lowell was easy in the second half. Swayne lifted a fly to Kane in short centre. It was a matter of inches on McClesky's out on a slow roller that Sweatt fielded. Greenhalge sent a fly to Kennedy. No runs; likewise hits, also errors.

Score: Lowell 0, Manchester 0.

Second Inning

With two gone in the second Ziezer gave the first pass. Ostregren flied out to Swayne in deep centre and Kennedy was called out on strikes. Ziezer walked Spier who went to second on Mattie's wild pitch. But Kilhullen closed the inning with a fly to Stimpson. Runs, hits, errors, six.

Stimpson led off for Lowell with a spanking single to left and then proceeding to second on the first ball pitched to Dee. He got away with it.

Teed uncorked a bean ball which caught Shorty on the forehead, the force of the blow knocking him to the ground but he was able to take his place in a few minutes at first—all jokes about solid ivory are barred.

Fahey hit a slow grounder along the first base line that the Manchester pitcher fielded. Fahey had the throw beaten to first but it was unnecessary for Tedd shot the ball way over to the first base bleachers allowing Stimpson to score, Dee to take third and Fahey going to second. It was some heave. Kelly smashed a hard grounder at Teed and went out at first while Dee was safe at third. Teed stopped the ball because he couldn't side-step it and if he didn't it would have stopped him. Teed then walked Wacob and the bleachers warmed up and broke forth in exclamations of joy and other things of a delightful nature. Ziezer scored Dee with a sacrifice fly to Kane but the ambitious Fahey went out on an attempt to make third after the ball was caught.

Two runs; two hits, and one error.

Score: Lowell 2, Manchester 0.

Third Inning

Teed slapped a single past Ziezer into centre field at the opening of the third. At this point the wet descended, not as the gentle dews from heaven, but a fine down-pour of rain and the audience betook itself to a dry corner under the roof, while the bleacherites got choice seats without settling and everybody went through his jeans to see if he still had his rain-check.

The game continued right along and Ziezer then hit Kane, the next man up, and the bases became full when Sweatt bunted successfully along the third base line. Torpey lifted a fly to Stimpson, but Teed wouldn't take a chance with Stimp's wing and clung to third manfully. A moment later he came home when Fahey's fumbled Reed's grounder. Dee ran into short left and captured Ostergren's fly and McCleskey shut off the visitors' chances to score again when he made a fine catch of Kennedy's fly in short right. One run, two hits and one error. In Lowell's half Spires got two put-outs, the Manchester third baseman took Swayne's foul-fly and then chased back after McClesky's high flier. Greenhalge made the third out with a fly to Kane. Nothing doing on the runs, hits and errors.

Score: Lowell 2, Manchester 1.

Fourth Inning

Lowell scored again after Manchester had gone down in order. Spiers was out on a short fly to Stimpson. Kilhullen put up a fly which Greenhalge consumed and Teed groundered to Kelly who didn't have to exert himself. Three ciphers in the runs, hits and errors.

Errors by Torpey were responsible for Lowell's tally. After Stimpson had flied out to Kennedy, and Torpey had gobbled Dee's fly Fahey received a life on the Manchester short stop's boot of his grounder. Kelly then hit to Torpey and the latter threw high to Ostergren, allowing Fahey to score and Kel to reach second. Wacob then flied to Torpey who was a pretty busy man in that inning. One run, no hits, two errors.

Score: Lowell 3, Manchester 1.

Fifth Inning

Manchester got busy in the fifth and tied up the score. Kane was the first man to face Ziezer and Mattie gathered his pop fly when he attempted to bunt. Sweatt, the gentleman with the hot name, slapped the ball to left on the line and Stimpson couldn't reach it, Sweatt making second. Dee hooted Torpey's grounder and Sweatt went to third. On a double steal Sweatt slid across the plate and Torpey made second. Ostergren brought Torpey home with a wallop to left centre which Stimpson kept down to a single by diving headlong for the ball and holding it up. The session was over when Ostergren attempted to pilfer loin second. Wacob's throw getting him by yards. Two runs, two hits, one error.

In Lowell's half the local crew did nothing but go out. Zieser popflied to Ostergren and Swayne was out on a grounder to Torpey. Sweatt and Ostergren put the kibosh on McCleskey. No, no, no.

Score: Lowell 3, Manchester 3.

Sixth Inning

Kennedy was the first performer in the sixth and he foul-flied to Kel. Swayne sent Spiers back to the bench when he held his fly to short centre. Kilhullen was a cinch for Dee and Kelly. Three more ciphers. Greenhalge struck the fence in left field; that is, the ball did, for a two-bagger. It looked as if the ball was going over the top boards, but it didn't. Stimpson then dropped a Texas leaguer near the left field foul line and Greenhalge went to third. Dee spanked one of Teed's offerings to the left field fence for another double, Greenhalge crossing the plate and sending Stimpson around to third. Stimpson scored and Dee went to third on a passed ball by Kilhullen, Teed's saliva offering slipping from the catcher's mitt. The next move that Teed made was to wallop Fahey in the ribs. Dee tried to score on Kelly's grounder to Sweatt, but went out at the plate, while Fahey went to second while Kelly was safe on the initial bag. Fahey attempted to pull off a double steal, but Kelly was thrown out at second. Wacob was a patient waiter and hence no loser, getting his second pass. Wacob and Fahey pulled off a double steal, the Lowell third baseman crossing the plate for another run. Kane made a wonderful catch of Zieser's long fly to left centre and the inning was closed. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 6, Manchester 3.

Seventh Inning

And then the lucky seventh. Zeiser struck out Teed on three pitched balls. Kane hit out a short one to centre, but long enough to be safe, Sweatt was a victim of strikes. Kelly made a fine catch of Torpy's foul-fly. No runs, one hit and no errors.

After getting two strikes on Swayne Teed wounded the Lowell center-fielder with one of his spitters but Swayne went out a moment later trying to steal second. McCleskey then singled to right. Greenhalge hit into a double play when he groundered to Sweatt, Torphy's throw to Ostergren cutting off the batter. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score, Lowell, 6; Manchester, 3.

Eighth Inning

Dee drew forth a big hand when he ran into short centre and pulled down Reed's fly with his gloved hand. It looked like a sure base knock. Ostergren drove a single through Dee but was forced at second when Matty fielded Kennedy's grounder and threw to Dee. Kennedy in turn was forced at second when Spiers hit to Fahey. No runs, one hit, no errors.

In Lowell's half, Sweatt threw out Stimpson on his grounder toward second base and Torphy preformed a similar operation on Dee's roller. Fahey's bat connected with a single to right. Fahey stole second. Kilhullen throwing the ball to centre field. Kelly closed the inning with a fly to Sweatt back of second base. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score, Lowell 6; Manchester, 3.

Ninth Inning

Kilhullen dropped a Texas leaguer into left for which Fahey made a great attempt, but couldn't field it in time. King went to bat for Teed. King sent up a high fly to Dee. Swayne was waiting for Kane's long fly to left centre. Sweatt drove the ball to left for a single, advancing Kilhullen to second. It was Sweatt's third bingle in the game. Torpey swat the ball along the left field foul line for a double, sending in Kilhullen, while Sweatt went to third. Zieser was relieved at this time and Jimmie Ring ascended the mound. A hit would now tie the score. Reed struck out and the game was over. One run, three hits, no errors.

Final score: Lowell 6, Manchester 4.

SECOND GAME

Weaver and Eaton, a new pitching recruit of Lake's opposed each other in the second game. Manchester was returned a 3—1 winner mainly because Lowell could do nothing with Eaton's delivery. Weaver also pitched good ball.

Manchester scored the first run of the contest in the fourth inning. An overthrow to first by Dee allowed Kane two bases and the centre fielder scored on Sweatt's double to left.

The visitors' other tallies came in the sixth. Kane beat out a bunt along the third base line and Sweatt then picked out a high fast ball and smote it into right centre for three sacks scoring Kane. Sweatt then proceeded to steal home with his club's last score.

Lowell did not send a man across the plate until the last inning. After Fahey had gone down on a grounder to Spires Kelly doubled to left, took third on Wacob's infield out and scored when Weaver beat out an infield hit. Swayne then singled into short left, but that was all there was doing. The score:

These pictures are among the first to reach America from Brussels, Belgium, since the war began. One of them shows a scene in a ward in St. Jean hospital, with Red Cross nurses attending wounded Belgian soldiers. A Belgian officer is inquiring as to the condition of the men. Hundreds are being cared for in this institution. The other picture shows the line of wives of soldiers who went off to war waiting for the daily payment of 50 to 65 centimes (about 10 cents) from the government. The women are paid this amount to help keep them in food while the men are away fighting. It is the "bread line" of war.

PRAISES SWISS LOYALTY

FORMER UNITED STATES SENATOR SPOONER REACHES PARIS WITH FAMILY

PARIS, Aug. 25.—3.20 p. m.—John C. Spooner of New York, former United States senator from Wisconsin, accompanied by his family, came into Paris yesterday from Lucerne, Switzerland. Speaking of his experiences, Mr. Spooner said:

"We changed cars seven times on our way from Switzerland but we arrived without mishap. I cannot speak too highly of the courtesy we received in France as well as in Switzerland. It was very difficult, however, to get money on letters of credit in Lucerne, particularly immediately after the beginning of fighting.

"Americans in Switzerland did not perceive the seriousness of the situation until the night before the posting of the order of mobilization. The patriotism and loyalty of the Swiss to their country has set a fine example to the larger nations of Europe. There are now about 30,000 men under arms in Switzerland as a precaution against the possible violation of Swiss neutrality."

SAFETY FIRST MOVEMENT

The "Safety First" movement inaugurated in this city by the Lowell board of trade is making progress; for it seems that every man, woman and child have taken the advice of this popular organization in the safety first movement. Signs bearing the inscription "Safety First" can be seen on many automobiles and carriages, while a number of children are seen carrying around pennants bearing the same inscription.

Today the board of trade will put up "Safety First" signs throughout the city. The signs are fifteen feet in length and very attractive. One will be placed in Middlesex street over the road near the station, while another will be stretched across Merrimack street near the junction of Central. A third bearing the inscription "Safety First, Go Slow," will be strung across Moody street at the junction of Aiken, one of the most dangerous spots in the city.

PFEFFER OF THE SUPERBAS IS THE BEST PITCHER ON ROBINSON'S STAFF

BROOKLYN, Aug. 25.—The most dependable pitcher that Manager Robinson has is "Hassen" Pfeffer, a young man from whom little was expected at the beginning of the season. Rucker has been in bad condition all season and has shown nothing like his usual form. Pfeffer, with a weak team back of him, is up among the leaders in games won, and as he is a young player he is expected to be even better next year.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LAKEVIEW PARK

Five graceful and pretty young women and two men, billed as the Seven Leedys, are doing remarkable "stunts" on the wire at Lakeview Park this week, having been engaged by the management as the extra out-door attraction at this popular resort. They dance, turn somersaults, carry each other on their shoulders, jump over chairs and perform all manner of seemingly impossible feats on the wire, regardless of how hard the wind blows. The act is one of the kind one sees with the big three ring circus and one of the best of the kind ever presented here. In their handsome blue and purple dresses, the men dressed in satin knickerbockers, they present a neat and pleasing appearance and work with a vim and dash that is characteristic of the "big time" vaudeville performer and another mark may be made to the credit of the management for giving the patrons of Lakeview something new and of a character well worth a trip to this popular resort to witness. The Leedys appear on the open air stage every afternoon at 3.15 and every evening at 9 p. m. during the present week.

At the theatre the usual excellent program of pictures may be seen, five reels of the latest releases including both comedy and dramatic features as well as the mutual weekly, a pictorial review of current events of the day. As the end of the season at this popular resort approaches large crowds are taking advantage of every warm and pleasant day for a visit to one of New England's most pleasant summer resorts.

CANOBIE LAKE

Perhaps it was the splendid weather or perhaps it was the return of the old favorites that made it so but anyway Canobie Lake Park theater was filled to its capacity last evening when the Homan's Musical Revue offered the seventh edition of their big musical show and fairly swept the audience off its feet with a variety of the most original, novel and fascinating numbers that it has been the good fortune of the patrons to enjoy in a number of weeks.

Eddie Dowling, after a few weeks of much needed rest, was there as big and lively as ever, skating, sliding and falling all over the stage in his delight to be back again with the people who have grown so fond of him and with whom he has found it quite impossible not to reciprocate warmly.

Bob Jewett and Ray Pendleton, that clever pair of dancers who have won such a reputation hereabouts, are back too, and are offering one of the best dancing specialties of their entire repertoire, one that won the applause and enthusiasm of the audience last evening in a most positive manner.

Walter Morrison, he with the ragtime voice, had the entire audience swaying to the melodious swing of his ragtime offerings, and while there was an abundance of enthusiasm for all of the numbers in the show, the applause for him was second to none.

Walter Bergeron and Betty Farrington offered something more on the high class order and they, too, were generously applauded, as in fact, all of the acts were, even the chorus girlies being appreciated for their snappy work.

THE OWL THEATRE

"In the Bishop's Carriage," with Mary Pickford and the Frohman Players, was received with enthusiasm at both of yesterday's performances, and the same performance will be repeated today. Miss Pickford as Nancy, has added another laurel to her well-earned reputation. Her impersonation of the little waif of the underworld, who finally wins love and happiness, through a series of mishaps, is marvelous and her winning personality is again displayed at every hand, while her acting disarms any criticism that could be offered. The supporting cast of players, are also to be complimented on the handling of their respective roles. They play with a naturalness that is good to the eye. Among the other photoplays to be shown besides this fine feature today, will be "The Feud at Beaver Brook," a special two-part drama, "In Peril's Path," a Keystone comedy, and others. Vocal selections will be rendered at each performance, while the sliding roof will afford comfort during the hot summer days.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

They certainly do come back, especially when a first class burlesque show comes to town to awaken them and bring them back. Last night at the Academy of Music at the initial performance of the season which marks the return of burlesque to Lowell, nearly all the first-nighters were in attendance, although a few skeptics remained away to hear the verdict of the early birds before taking a chance. It's a good bet they'll all be there tonight or tomorrow for the performance was replete with the real goods, and it recalled the good old days of Harry Morris, Robie and his Bohemians with Edna Aug and Emma Carus, and a host of merrymakers of the "Big Wheel" who in Manager Boody's time packed them away at the Academy. Of course with this show there is an added attraction in the shape, and I say shape advisedly, of Larry Crane, the celebrated Irish magician who first saw the light of day in that romantic part of Ireland known as the "Acre," or to the politicians as old ward one. Like the guy who "shined them up so carefully that now he is the ruler of the Queen's navee," Larry is now the lord of the domain of legerdemain, or something like that, magic, sleight-of-hand, etc. with a native born wit and flow of soft talk into the bargain, Larry can make any old thing disappear but flesh, and he's added a lot of that to his makeup since his last appearance though it doesn't hinder him in the least in his work. His act is the big feature of the show and he is ably assisted by Miss Grace Andrews, a charming blonde who disappears and reappears in several most mystifying stunts. Hermann and Keller had their day but this is the day of Larry Crane and anything that they did Larry can do and also a few stunts that weren't known in their day, while Larry has it on them inasmuch as he is a wit and adds to the enjoyment of his act by his merry prattle. Larry is a member of Lowell lodge, B. P. O. E., and tonight the members of the lodge to the number of 300 will attend and Lawrence will draw upon his fund of wit and humor to give them a little additional entertainment. In the closing burlesque last evening Larry worked up a funny little dialogue playing on the name of Marty Halloran, of the Arlington hotel, who was among the spectators, and it made a big hit.

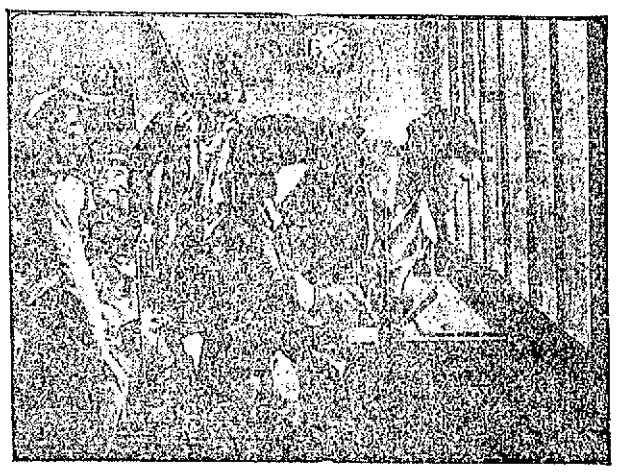

The burlesque company is headed by Richy Craig, a German comedian who scrambles the English language most ridiculously. Craig is much in evidence throughout the show and he is a hit at all times. His specialty between the burlesques is something entirely new to Lowell and was a most attractive offering. With a graphaphone as his assistant he carried on a very funny rapid-fire dialogue and so precise was he in his talk that one would imagine that he were holding a face to face conversation with a companion rather than with a metalic record. The novelty of this act alone would make it a success, but it is not only novel but real funny. Mr. Craig also gives a couple of most acceptable solos on the saxaphone. The opening burlesque entitled: "That Funny Janitor" introduces in the cast, Mr. Craig, Harry Seyon, Dorothy Blodgett, Flo Julene, Artie Lewis, Billie Leonard, Ethel Weston and Tiny Russell and a chorus of 25 young comely and graceful girls. The blizzard-faced beauty of uncertain age who once was invariably to be found in the burlesque line-up was conspicuous by her absence. The costumes were all brand new and very attractive, the dialogue was amusing and clean throughout. Six solos with choruses were given while the finale "I Love the Whole U. S. A." by Miss Dorothy Blodgett, a strikingly comely young woman, and the entire company aroused the patriotic enthusiasm of the audience. In addition to the offerings of Larry Crane and Richy Craig, the olio included Artie Lewis and Billie Leonard, "The Two Hicks" and Harry Seyon and Flo Julene in a comedy sketch. The concluding burlesque was entitled "From Broadway to Atlantic City" including the entire company and was even funnier than the opening sketch. The shows are well staged and elaborately costumed and there is nothing to be seen or heard in the entire production that would offend the most exacting critic. The Crane burlesquers will appear twice today and twice tomorrow.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The Merrimack Square theatre has had many excellent productions by its stock company, but none better than "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," a four act drama now being presented twice daily with great success. It is the production made popular by Douglas Fairbanks. It has all the elements for an enjoyable play, excitement, travel, love, comedy and climaxes following in quick succession. The cast of characters last night was as follows:

Augustus III.....Wm. B. Freeman
Prince Vladimir.....Clifford Hastings
Count Ivan Paulovic.....Arthur Fox
M. De Witz.....Ted Brickett
Col. Nadulski.....C. A. Bickford
An officer of guard.....Robert Lee
M. Frederick, proprietor of the casino
Malcolm Clifford
Reporter on the Borrovina Scimitar
Kenneth Fleming
Anthony Hamilton Hawthorne, an American.....Sam A. Meharry
Rodney Blake, his friend, Senator Thomas Ballard, Kate Ballard, his daughter, tourists
Eugene Desmond, Joseph Thayer
Miss Marjorie Rendel
Princess Irma, Augusta Elizabeth Oberitch, the king's daughter
Miss Eva Marsh
Miss Flo Hardings Smythe, an English governess....Miss May B. Hurst
Officers, Soldier, Officials, Civilians

A young American and his chum are leading characters in the plot. After breaking the bank at Monte Carlo, they visit a supposed kingdom in the south of Europe, where great commotion is caused from the fact that the king is financially "busted." The young American arrives in time to avert a crisis by his timely assistance in meeting the royal obligations. Naturally the American falls in love with the king's daughter and to make possible their marriage the king proclaims his dominions an independent state. The various complications in the development of the plot afford ample opportunity for the introduction of comedy that keeps the audience in a merry state of mind throughout. Sam A. Meharry in the title role did excellent work, proving equal to the varied requirements of his part, whether grave or gay, but mostly the latter. As "Rodney Blake," Mr. Eugene Desmond proved an able comedian, giving excellent support to the leading character. Eva Marsh as Princess Ballard, played the role with dignity and grace. Miss Marjorie Rendel as daughter of a U. S. senator, looking for a rheumatic cure, emphasized her Americanism in a pleasing manner, while the other gentry, Mm. B. Freeman, Clifford Hastings, Arthur Fox, as Augustus III., a prince and count respectively, assumed aristocratic airs with due decorum. Malcolm Clifford as reporter of the "Scimitar," displayed his journalistic proclivities as if he had had experience. The other characters were all very good, and the performance is well worth seeing. If given in a Boston theatre it would have large audiences. It will be repeated afternoon and evening this week.

ROGER PECKINPAUGH IS ONE OF THE BEST MEN FRANK CHANCE HAS FOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Roger Peckinpaugh, shortstop and field captain of the Yankees, is one of the best men Frank Chance has added to the team since he took the management. Peck is playing an excellent game in his difficult position, and he has recently been doing timely batting. He was regarded as a good player when Chance got him from Cleveland, and he has developed rapidly this season. He was the first infielder Chance found that fitted into place. He is deservedly popular with the fans, who treat him fairly when he makes the occasional slip that any player will make.

ACTING MAYOR MAKES A BROAD STATEMENT

Col. Carmichael Declares That All Members of the City Council are Equally Responsible for Attempt to Borrow Trust Funds

The temporary loan broke down. That is why the city authorities wanted to borrow trust funds amounting to $50,000 or thereabout. Acting Mayor Carmichael is of opinion that quite a general misunderstanding exists relative to the proposed loan and he objects, quite strenuously, to any particular member or members of the municipal council being called to account for an action in which all of the members were concerned.

"It has been stated," said Mr. Carmichael, "that the municipal council voted to take the trust funds from the bank. That statement is erroneous. There was no vote taken at all. A conference was held and not a member of the council went on record as saying that he would vote for it, though the members did state that they would approve of it providing the fact was established that the process was a legal one.

"The city was sorely in need of money at the time. You might call it a temporary breakdown in the temporary loan. It was necessary to have money to meet the payrolls and it was suggested that the city might borrow the trust funds in anticipation of taxes for 1914. I do not know who was the first to suggest it, but the authority, of course, rested with the city treasurer. The commissioner of finance, the city treasurer and the city solicitor and, I think, the mayor, talked the matter over before the other members of the council were called in. The matter was gone over quite thoroughly and we were a unit in declaring that we would approve of the transaction providing it was legal.

"I understand that Mr. Stiles talked with bank men and they seemed to think that the scheme was all right, Mr. Stiles tried to borrow money from the local banks but there was none to be had. The first national bank of Boston is agent, so to speak, for the city of Lowell and in order to do what we were trying to do it was necessary for that bank to sanction our action. The loan had to be certificated by that bank.

"The John Davis fund, amounting to $12,500, was invested in Bigelow Carpet stock and the shares were sold at a good profit when the plant changed hands. I did not talk with any of the library trustees, but I understood that they were willing to lend the money to the city. The money would bring them a higher rate of interest than they could get elsewhere and they certainly couldn't get any better security than the city of Lowell. The money, as I said before, was being borrowed in anticipation of taxes for 1914, and that was security enough. The taxes were due October 20 and we were looking for money to tide us over. Every other government has done the same thing and every other city does the same thing. Every city in the commonwealth borrows in anticipation of taxes. Somebody said that the trustees of the public library voted the city the right to borrow the Davis fund, but I am not sure that they took that vote.

"Several days after the city treasurer had decided to borrow the funds word was received from the First National bank of Boston, or their attorneys, stating that they did not believe the city could legally borrow the money. In financing the loan it was necessary to have the authority of the First National bank and when that bank said the proposed plan was not a legal one, that settled it.

"The city treasurer couldn't get a bid on city notes from the local banks, but managed to get a $50,000 loan through the First National bank, independent of the $80,000 funds money.

"Now the money representing the funds in question, has been taken from the savings banks and the city treasurer will invest the money at a much better rate of interest than was paid by the banks, for interest rates have gone up since the war.

"There are people who are trying to lay the blame on certain members of the government and I want to state that that is absolutely unfair. If any blame attaches, each member of the city council should bear his share of it. No one member, or two members of the council were responsible and no one member prevented the loan. The mayor and all the rest of us looked upon it with favor until informed by attorneys for the First National bank of Boston that the transaction was not a legal one."

Larry Crane a Visitor

Lawrence Crane, the Irish wizard, was a caller at city hall this forenoon. Larry blew into town last night with a Siberian wolf hound and today everybody is giving Larry and his hound the right of way. Tom Boyle is authority on wolf hounds and he says Larry has the distinction of bringing the first one to Lowell. The hound looks like a long drawn out good night whisper. He has been explained as a cross between a goat and an imitation dog. He's so thin that Larry can read a paper through him and this remarkable hound, with a predilection for the flesh of the wolf measures about seven axe handles and a broom stick from the tip of his tail to the point of his nose. Larry told a pretty good story about the hound this morning. He said that while coming along Middlesex street the dog began to act strangely. Larry thought that perhaps the climate didn't agree with him. The hound yelped and pulled at the leash. He barked and jumped in the air turn somersaults, back flips, cart wheels and one thing or another, and Larry was just about to call Tom Boyle when he happened to take a peek at the sign over the store where the hound was in action. The word "Wolf" was on the sign and then Larry knew what the trouble was with the hound. Larry, needless to say, is a Lowell boy and a member of the Lowell lodge of Elks. He will be at the Academy of Music tonight, Tuesday night and Wednesday night. Tomorrow night will be Elks' night at the academy and the Lowell Elks will attend in a body.

Chelmsford Street Hospital

There are 405 inmates at the Chelmsford Street hospital at the present time and that is a record breaking number for this season of the year. Supt. Connolly stated today that the attendance this year would be the largest in the history of the institution. Three deaths have occurred at the hospital within the last twenty-four hours, but these, Mr. Connolly said, were deaths that were expected. Asked as to the crops at the farm, Mr. Connolly said that he had the best corn in New England and that the potato crop, too, was a good one.

Granolithic Sidewalk

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

PUPILS OF ELECTRICAL DEPARTMENT RECEIVE SUMMER TRAINING

"By keeping a person, especially a pupil, constantly in touch with his work or study, success is inevitable," said John F. Gallagher, electrical instructor at the Lowell industrial school, when interviewed by a Sun reporter today.

The foregoing statement was made when the scribe questioned Mr. Gallagher relative to his activities during the summer months.

The young instructor, who is very enthusiastic about his work and desirous of helping those who labor under him is one of the busiest men in town at the present time, despite the fact that this is the vacation season. Hardly had school closed, when Mr. Gallagher, realizing that new features were being introduced by electrical experts and being anxious to keep abreast of times conceived the idea of accepting small jobs and having the work done by industrial school pupils who showed an aptitude for advancement. This move proved exceedingly popular and now as well as during the entire vacation period the young teacher may be found wiring a sign or doing some other electrical job.

Today the writer met Mr. Gallagher and several of his boys on Merrimack street. They were all laden with electrical paraphernalia and were on their way to a job. The spectacle caused the reporter to make inquiries and he learned of the commendable work being done by Mr. Gallagher. He said that while practically all kinds of electrical jobs were accepted, none came through competition. "I did not take the contracts to make a fortune," said Mr. Gallagher, "but simply to keep in touch with the work myself and also to be able to instruct the boys along practical lines."

"We have done considerable wiring, installed several motors, connected a number of telephones, erected electrical signs, etc., and in all the work the boys showed remarkable intelligence and I feel that at the present time several of the youngsters could go out and secure good positions at the business. While, of course, they are not experts, another year at the school will fortify them with sufficient training to command good salaries."

Mr. Gallagher has been at the Lowell industrial school for two years and during his incumbency has met with phenomenal success. He was an experienced electrician when he entered the school, and also possessed considerable executive ability, but upon his appointment he did not remain idle but on the contrary, continued to study. He made great progress and added many new features to the electrical department of the school, all of course coming after consultation with Principal Fisher.

Mr. Gallagher put in many extra hours at the school, but did this willingly to accommodate backward pupils or those desiring to stay after hours to finish a certain piece of work. The first season there were only 18 pupils in his department but last year there were 35 who took up the electrical course. With the increased number the young teacher continued his success of the first year and shortly before the end of the season he was rewarded for his efforts by being presented a certificate of efficiency by the state board of education.

He feels confident that his class this term will be much larger than its predecessors and plans to introduce many innovations for the education of the advanced pupils.

Mr. Gallagher is an ardent supporter of industrial education and is of the opinion that in a few years the school will be better patronized and that larger quarters will be necessary. "While I realize," he said, "that the present conditions justify the occupancy of three buildings, I believe that better results could be obtained if but one building were available, and I sincerely hope that in the near future a spacious industrial school building will be erected and I venture to say that such a structure would prove a very profitable investment for the Lowell citizens.

TWO WAGONS COLLIDE

IN THE NARROW PASSAGE OF DECATUR ST., TODAY—NO DAMAGE RESULTED

The absolute necessity of widening Decatur street was again demonstrated this forenoon, when two large wagons collided and became locked in the narrow thoroughfare. Fortunately no damage was caused to the vehicles.

Shortly after 11.30 o'clock the milk wagon of J. Chenelle driven by the owner and a large coal wagon owned by Edward Cawley were being driven through Decatur street in an opposite direction. The thoroughfare is so narrow that both vehicles became wedged between the curb stones. In order to extricate the wagons it was necessary for three or four men to get hold of the milk wagon loaded with milk bottles and remove it to the sidewalk. One of the hubs of the latter wagon was slightly damaged. A man who witnessed the accident made the statement that it would be far better for the city officials to widen this street than to purchase automobiles.

ECONOMY OF CLEAN MILK

That the Massachusetts milk situation is by no means unique is proved by a review in the Providence Tribune which runs over some considerations that are deserving of study both by milk producers and consumers. Throughout this entire section the need for clean and wholesome milk has been borne in on the people consistently and persistently for years and if any of our people have shown a tendency to forget they have been reminded of the importance of the subject by the many legislative laws of recent seasons—laws which too often aroused opposition and engendered confusion without remedying any condition permanently.

The Tribune reminds its readers that the past indifference of many people concerning milk has proved very expensive to the community while the agitation for clean milk, though it may have resulted in a higher first cost, has engendered economy in its widest sense. Milk that is unclean and unsanitary may cause a great loss in money and health while clean milk is not apt to cost any more than the amount one pays the milkman. As the Tribune remarks: "A higher price for clean milk will be cheap insurance against some form of sickness."

In a recent Farmers' Bulletin, the federal Department of Agriculture laid down some simple points that are necessary in the production of clean and healthy milk. Cows must be clean and healthy and kept in clean, well-ventilated buildings; stables must be cleaned frequently, barnyards must be drained adequately and all utensils used in milking and storing must be thoroughly sterilized; those who handle the milk in all stages must be healthy; small-top milking pails must be used; milk must be kept in separate building. The matter of temperature is also most important. Bacteria multiply rapidly when the milk is above 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and therefore the milk should be cooled immediately after milking and kept at a low temperature until delivered.

It is fortunate for Massachusetts that many of these recommendations of the government department have been incorporated into state statutes, but still, laws are never so effective in achieving ends as intelligent co-operation. When milk producers realize that the public demands clean and sanitary milk and when on the other hand the public realizes that the best way to secure it is by patronizing the producer who is modern and progressive we will have good milk invariably and there will not be need for the disappointing and often conflicting state laws that do not achieve their ends.

From the farmers' point of view the most serious element in the milk situation is the increasing cost of production which soars in relation to the public demand and the legislative demand for higher quality. Labor problems have increased the financial burden of the farmer and the cost of feed has become somewhat of a hardship. He is not, therefore, always in the best attitude when the state and the federal government make their demands, but he can better conditions by educating the public to realities. Clean milk is the cheapest milk in the long run and when the public becomes cognizant of realities, most people will be ready to pay a little more rather than run any risks of disease. Just as clean milk is by far the cheaper so dirty milk is dear at any price.

BUSINESS IMPROVING

So far as one may judge from the signs of general industry and from the public announcements of some of the leading financiers and manufacturers of the country, American business is already showing marked improvement and some of the prosperity so generally predicted is throwing its shadows before. Since the war broke out the stagnation of world commerce has resulted in a partial paralysis of business here, but international trade is being restored as much as one may expect; as a result the demand for American commodities is increasing. Henry Clews predicts probable freedom of traffic across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean, two routes which, he says, capture most of the international trade of the world.

The restricted passenger traffic, though a source of anxiety and serious inconvenience, has had little to do with general trade conditions in this country but the affected freight service has had serious results. Now, the first effects are wearing off and the most serious obstacles are being removed. Since the passing of the emergency bill, many ships have been chartered for the American merchant marine service, and the government stands ready to provide trade facilities in case of necessity.

There are two main reasons why American commodities will soon command a ready market in many points of the earth; other nations cannot get along without our supplies and they cannot get them elsewhere. There is a strong demand for American wheat and American cotton in Europe, and England is showing readiness to conquer war obstacles in supplying her necessities with our natural and artificial products. Germany will not be able to secure American goods whether raw or manufactured, but England controls the sea so far and she cannot last long without supplying her needs from this side of the Atlantic. Even the pressing need for war materials will turn a great deal of trade here if the war is prolonged, because the former sources of supply are choked off.

With the opening of an adequate merchant marine service many other foreign points will depend on America for the foods and manufactured products which were supplied by Germany, England and France heretofore. Even should the war come to an end in a short time it will be long before trade conditions become normal and the damage to European commerce promises to be serious and to some degree permanent. This country has not yet fully felt the industrial stimulus which is so generally expected, but it is difficult to argue away the views of those who see a great boom for America in the unfortunate world conditions of the present time.

THE PARK QUESTION

Hoodlumism in parks such as Lowell has had reason to complain of at times during the present season seems to be quite prevalent in many other points, judging from the example of Boston, Lynn, Brockton, Worcester, etc. In all of these places, sundry abuses have drawn out some degree of public protest, and reports from many sections indicate that Lowell is by no means the worst sufferer. Luckily, the increased vigilance of the park department has had beneficial results and if the recently-framed regulations are insisted on by the park and police officials, we may hope for permanent benefits.

A correspondent to the Worcester Telegram recently made references to conditions in that city that are very pertinent in Lowell. Following is an excerpt:

"It has been my pleasure in the past to visit this park frequently, and have always found the conditions there ideal for a restful hour. Today, however, due to the withdrawal of the caretaker by order of the park commissioners, all this has changed. Bums and roudies infest the park, making it a rendezvous for drinking bouts, fights and brawls, and by their disgusting actions and language have driven away the mothers and children who frequent the park. Situated as it is in the midst of a crowded tenement district, Crompton park has in the past been a haven to mothers of the neighborhood, to which they could send their children to play and rest safe from the many accidents and dangers of the streets."

Treating the same subject editorially the Brockton Enterprise asks some pointed questions that reveal the very illogical conduct of park thugs in its true light. It says:

"These park thugs are not people of wealth. The people who habitually visit parks are not wealthy. Why, then, should men and boys of poor families seek to make breathing places impossible for women and children of their own rank in life? Why should they make it hard for their own mothers, sisters, aunts, and in a few instances sweethearts, to get a little pure air and clean and healthful enjoyment out of life? Why do they want to put everything and everybody down to their own dead level of wretchedness and comparative misery?"

When authorities in so many different sections comment unfavorably on this modern tendency, it is time for wise people to pause and ask if the greater liberty of the present is not responsible for the greater license? Boys and young men have always been fun-loving and to a certain extent mischievous but they did not display their evil characteristics as brazenly and as persistently as they do today in those centers where the privilege of public parks has been so much abused.

TRUST FUND REVELATIONS

Commissioner Carmichael does the honorable thing in declaring that the municipal council as a whole is just as much responsible for the unwise juggling of the library and Edson cemetery trust funds as is any member, and the apparent desire of a few members of that body to deny connection with it, is proof sufficient of the unsoundness of the transaction. The citizens of Lowell are very much interested in the fiasco, not necessarily because they feel that there was any dishonesty intended but because the explanations that followed its collapse were far from convincing. The scheme was favored on condition that it was legal. It was proved otherwise and had to be abandoned.

The European war has curiously affected some peoples that are not directly interested in the struggle, and in very different ways. Contrast, for instance, the effect on Belgium and Poland respectively. Belgium has been converted from a peaceful, prosperous and happy country to an enormous battlefield; Poland has been promised, and seems to be realizing much of the liberty for which she has fought tenaciously through weary years. In like manner scarcely a nation or state in Europe but will be affected by the struggle—for better or worse.

SEEN AND HEARD

WHERE PILGRIMS LANDED

My friend, the doctor, is very much in love with Provincetown and when I told him that during my vacation I had visited the first landing place of the pilgrims, he was very anxious to ascertain what I thought of that quaint old town. The doctor, however, was generous enough to keep on telling of his own impressions of the place and they were so much more interesting than my own that I continued to listen, nodding my acquiescence at selected intervals. The doctor drew a beautiful word picture of the fine old fishing town at the extreme end of Cape Cod. He told of living there in a rusty little cottage for weeks at a time subsisting on fish that he himself assisted in catching. He told of the beautiful effect of the moon and stars upon the water; how they showed the way across in silvery streams, and then he launched out on a fishing story. It was a simple story, but the doctor is a splendid embellisher and he made a very pretty yarn of it. He fished at close and break of day and told of the phosphorescent gleam of the nets in the rays of the early morning sun. Yes, indeed, the doctor fairly worships at the shrine of Provincetown and when I had the temerity to mention that I enjoyed the automobile ride "about town" his face took on a sad expression. "Yes," he said, "the town is becoming sophisticated and that will eventually spoil the real beauty of it."

I have no quarrel with the doctor as to his great love for Provincetown and I think that the sail from Boston is simply beautiful. I cannot imagine a finer sail. Fifty miles each way and points of interest everywhere. But the doctor can have the whole of Provincetown for all of me. I would not take the silver hammer from the plush case, but no Provincetown, as steady diet for yours truly. The streets are too narrow and the houses too squatty and, besides, its too far from any place where things are doing. The doctor will tell you that the harbor is a good one, that the boating and fishing facilities are unexcelled, especially deep-sea fishing, and that is all very true. He will also tell you that the chances for recuperating one's health by a sojourn in this quaint old place are so sure that hundreds upon hundreds who are ailing or really upon the sick list, try it and very frequently repeat it, to great advantage. This also is true, yet I cannot share the doctor's love for Provincetown. The sail on the bay from Boston gives one rest, exhilaration and new life and the magnetic influence of the ocean has a revitalizing influence, but Provincetown as a vacation hangout, to me, is absurd.

But when you mention Plymouth, the land of the Mayflower, I'm there with the boost. There is much to see, so much to admire and so much to study during the hours allowed the tourists who take the trip on the steamer, that every minute of the stay is precious. I labored under the impression that Plymouth was a little country village with its wealth of historic features as its only attraction, and was surprised to find a thriving town of from 15,000 to 17,000, with prosperous manufacturing industries. The cordage works at North Plymouth are the largest in the world. Then there are woolen and worsted mills, nail and tack factories, iron foundries and other industries too numerous to mention. Cranberry culture is on an extensive scale, and there are five or six hundred acres of bog annually yielding a crop valued at a half million. These manufactories have replaced the town's former chief industry—fishing, which flourished 50 years ago, when Plymouth boasted of a fleet of fishermen that was unequalled anywhere in the United States. To the tourist Plymouth rock is, of course, the most interesting sight. The rock is in the same position now as in 1620 except that it has been raised about eight feet. It is carefully guarded to prevent unscrupulous relic-hunters from chipping pieces. Then there is Cole's hill, the first burying ground of the Pilgrims, and then Town square, historically interesting, as it was here that part of Plymouth rock rested for nearly 60 years before being taken back to its first site. The Gov. Bradford building marks the site of the first meeting house built in 1648, and the home of Gov. Bradford. Then there is Pilgrim hall, the Myles Standish monument, the William Harlow house, built in 1677, the court house, the Standish house, site of watch tower and various other places of great historic value. If you have time to go but either place, Plymouth or Provincetown, go to Plymouth. That's a straight tip free of charge.

It is difficult to believe now that the French and English who were driven over the Belgian border won all these preliminary skirmishes and battles. Small defeats could be covered up but great ones tell their own story in spite of officially colored cables. Still, one battle or ten will not be decisive in this titanic conflict.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Slowly but surely the German lines were driving the allied forces back across the border. A brilliant charge made by the Uhlans had crumpled an entire battalion of French troops and the German artillery held the British infantry at bay. In the distance a military aeroplane was dropping bombs into the trenches occupied by sharpshooters. The conflict waged for nearly an hour.

An aide-de-camp rode out from the German field headquarters and addressed the general in command:

"The boss says that will be enough for today," announced the aide-de-camp. "Put the cameras in his auto and take them over to Hackensack. And tell the boys to all be here at 8 in the morning. We're going to start the siege of Liege film."

Do you remember the old-fashioned burlesque show that always closed with a "grand walk around" in which every member of the company took part?

A woman blames living expenses on what her husband eats. A man blames it on what his wife wears.

Lots of good people who wouldn't think of touching liquor think nothing of going on a gossip jag.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who wasn't ashamed to wear a big broad gold band that everybody knew was a wedding ring?

If a man invents something that makes the impossible possible and performs miracles, a woman never hears of it for six months. But if some one invents a new way to do up the hair a woman learns all about it the day after it is invented.

Love is what makes a sane man marry a girl who wears a red hat, a purple waist, a green skirt trimmed with yellow, a blue sash and brown stockings, and let her purchase his neckties.

And the high cost of living wasn't so blamed high when a boy would be on his good behavior for six months to get a pair of red-topped boots.

THE NEW LOCHINVAR

O, a new Lochinvar has appeared on the scene,
His steed a wild cycle that drinks gasoline;
He cares not for citizen nor for police,
And a voice calling "Halt!" simply bids him increase
The speed of his racer, the best of its kind,
Till the fast-flying bullets fall lagging behind.

Beware, O ye fathers of maidens, beware,
For this young Lochinvar is as bold as she's fair;
It will not avail that she ride not a wheel,
Love has new devices for him who would steal,
And the maid, though you think not, will go just as far
As the romantic bride of the first Lochinvar.

This dashing young lover will ride to your home
When the hot summer day is beginning to gloam;
He'll swing the fair maiden behind on his wheel,
And away to the parson's for woe or for weal.
You may pull up a mountain or drag down a star,
But you'll ne'er catch the maid and her young Lochinvar.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

GOV. GLYNN'S CHANCES

Gov. Glynn of New York will be a candidate for the democratic nomination, to which he professed indifference a short time ago. He will have no particular trouble in obtaining it. The governor has some things in his favor and there are others which will operate against him. But unless the anti-democratic elements are essentially united on election day his chances of election for a full term will be good.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

JAPAN GOES TO WAR

The occasion of Japan's war on Germany is her British alliance. Its moving spirit is revenge for Germany's ousting her from the Liaotung peninsula in 1895. Its unavowed purpose and probable effect is trade and military advantage.

Americans are not called upon to idealize a campaign so void of any excuse of self-defense. The onslaught of the Japanese in overwhelming force upon an enemy's outpost will win no such praise as the heroic stand of the Belgians for their own homes; it simply shows how the flames of war, once lighted run round the world.—New York World.

FAIR PAPERS

From the exchanges that come to our desk it appears that outside of Manhattan there are many papers which are eminently fair in the present struggle. We advise our readers to patronize no paper that insults their intelligence and their race. We strongly advise them to rally around papers like the Milwaukee Free Press, which is making itself the champion of their cause. The Brooklyn Eagle, one St. Louis, one Albany and one Philadelphia paper likewise deserve special mention in our roll of honor. Space forbids to enumerate all in this issue. We shall, however, add from time to time to the list.—The Fatherland.

NEW BEDFORD'S TAX

The contention that the removal of the $12 tax limit and the restrictions on the purposes for which cities may incur indebtedness are responsible for the increase of $3 per $1000 in New Bedford's tax rate is not borne out by the analysis made by the city treasurer.

The fact is that the increase was caused, in about equal proportions, by the increase in appropriations for running expenses, and by the increase in the debt requirements. The increase due to the state tax is 11 cents, that due to the city tax, $1.50 and that due to the city debt requirements $1.60, the increase on the three items being $3.21 per $1000. The reductions in the county, grade crossing and overlay requirements amount to 21 cents, leaving the net increase in the rate just $3.—New Bedford Standard.

PARK COMMISSIONER CARR SHY $137.50 ON HIS PLAYGROUND CAMPAIGN—PLEDGES NOT PAID

Park Commissioner Henry F. Carr would like to have those contributors who have not made good their promises to his playground fund, to ante up. Henry is $137.50 to the bad, but he says that if he had all the money promised him he would have a balance on the right side of the ledger.

Mr. Carr has issued the following statement:

"Early in the year I endeavored to raise a fund for the summer playgrounds, doing considerable advertising and giving a few concerts and entertainments at some little expense.

"I started in circulation papers asking for funds, and would have met with fair success, had those, who subscribed, paid the amount to which they agreed.

"Possibly, many who pledged themselves to me, contributed to the Salem sufferers and consequently found themselves unable to give anything towards the playground fund.

"Notwithstanding the reverses with which I have met in this very worthy cause, I have placed one teacher on the North common and one on the South common during the summer.

"I hope and trust that those, who pledged themselves to the playground fund, will submit their cheque, that I may be able to settle up the outstanding indebtedness.

"Very truly yours,

"Henry F. Carr."

Park Commissioner.

The outstanding bills contracted by Mr. Carr total $350, and he has on deposit in the Lowell Trust Co. the sum of $91. There was received from concerts on the streets $66.50, while other subscriptions totalled $55. This makes a total of $212.50 with which to pay off $350 indebtedness.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

A celebrated law suit of a quarter of a century ago, involving local firms, was that of Foss & Co. vs. Howe Bros., contractors, which grew out of a contract relative to the construction of the Washington mills, of Lawrence.

Concerning an early feature of the case the old Sun has the following:

"The auditor's decision in the case of C. F. Foss & Co., vs. John F. and Henry C. Howe to recover the amount due or claimed to be due for work as sub-contractors in the construction of the Washington mills of Lawrence, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court, at Cambridge. The auditor awards Charles F. Foss, who is now the only member of the firm, the sum of $30,430.63 with interest from January 27, 1887. The party agreed upon by the plaintiff and the defendants to arbitrate in the matter before the suit was commenced, fixed the amount due at about $18,000. The award of the auditor is not fully up to the claim of the plaintiff which was, including interest and all other accounts in the vicinity of $40,000. George F. Richardson appeared for the plaintiff and J. N. Marshal and F. T. Greenhalge for the defendants.

Officer Molony on Jury

Said the same issue of The Sun:

"John Boyle, John A. McGuire, Henry Pratt and Thomas A. Molony were chosen traverse jurors for the coming session of the superior civil court to be holden in this city on the first Monday of September."

A few evenings ago upon meeting Police Officer Thomas A. Molony, I inquired if he was the man referred to as the juror of a quarter of a century ago. In reply he said: "I am the man, and I remember the session very clearly for I sat on the longest civil case ever tried in Middlesex county up to that time. It was that of Foss & Co. vs. Howe Bros., an action brought to recover for work done on the Washington mills in Lawrence. We opened the case on a Monday morning and finished on Friday evening, just three weeks later. If I remember rightly the jury confirmed the finding of the auditor."

Mellen Wins Boat Race

Last week I referred to Hugh Mellen, proprietor of the St. Charles hotel, as the manager of Jim McCusker, the swimmer, and an athlete and promoter of athletic events himself, 25 years ago. Mr. Mellen was also an oarsman of some prowess and the old Sun tells of a boat race that he won with $100 as the stake, as follows:

"Fourth of July when the four-oared lap-streak boat race was ended there was considerable discussion among the crews as to which had the more science. A couple of challenges were exchanged, but the whole discussion sifted down to an agreement between Hugh F. Mellen and John F. Harrigan to row a single scull race for $25 a side and this was afterward raised to $50 a side. The race came off Wednesday afternoon on the Vesper course on the upper river. Daniel D. Driscoll was referee and starter. The start was made at just six o'clock after considerable time had been spent in getting the boats into line. The water was in fine condition for boat-racing. Harrigan got the best start and exerted himself much to keep the lead for the first half, Mellen taking his work more easily and apparently being in better condition. Harrigan had the Dracut shore and turned the upper stake first in 7 minutes, 30 seconds. The turn was a wild one in both cases. On the home stretch there was a great contest the first half of the distance, but Mellen passed his opponent by earnest and telling efforts and was two lengths ahead when half way down the course, continuing to widen the gap to the close. He won in 15 minutes, 20 seconds."

There were oarsmen galore in Lowell in those days, while most every section of the city had its four-oared crew. Among the crack racers of quarter of a century ago were Daniel D. Driscoll, John Quinn, John Tweed, Jim Walker, Daniel "Doc" Sullivan, Mike Kennedy, Newell Goodrow, "Shaun" McCarthy, John Harrigan, Hugh Mellen, Henry Redmond, Police Officer Jim Boyle and his brother Tom, Herbert Bisbee, who could also play a cornet, and John T. Donehue, who along with being an oarsman used to make racing sculls over in Centralville. And yet today there are many big boys in Lowell who have never seen a single-scull racer.

Another Local Poet

Lowell was never at a loss for poets, good and bad, and quarter of a century ago James Perkinson was the genius who held the boards for I find in the old Sun the following:

"Mr. James Perkinson of this city, poet, musician and bosom friend of John L. Sullivan has written another ode to the champion. Mr. Perkinson asks the Sun to call the attention of his Lowell admirers to his latest roundelay and we do so with pleasure. The verses are great and Mr. Perkinson's success as a ballad writer is assured."

As the old Sun neglected to print the verses I assume that in referring to them as being great, the editor referred to their volume rather than to their quality. Mr. Perkinson antedated Joe Bickford by a few years, but he had nothing on Joseph as regards talent. Oh, those local poets of days gone by, how they did haunt the old Sun office with their effusions, each courting the muse as did Milton in his L'Allegro, in happy, care-free mood:

"Haste thee, nymph and bring with thee
Jest and youthful jollity,
Quips and cranks and wanton wiles,
Nods and becks and wreath-ed smiles."

They carried their effusions to the editorial wastebasket in person in the old days for the worst fate that could be visited upon them was a drop of two stories, via the window or the stairway; but now as they measure the awful distance from the roof to the street floor and then learn with dismay that the editor is to be found on the tenth floor they quietly steal homeward and invest in a one-cent stamp, the more prosperous ones, in a two, and send their sonnets by mail—and they never came back.

Temperance Society Picnic

Says the old Sun:

"St. Patrick's Temperance society picked out a fine day for their picnic at Willow Dale. Wednesday was a delightful day and they were loaded down with friends of the society who helped to make the picnic a success. Everybody had an enjoyable time, the members of the society doing everything in their power to make the events move smoothly. Quite a number joined in the dance in the pavilion where John H. Ring was floor director and Temple's orchestra furnished music. Thomas Connors won the 100 yard dash and sack race. The doughnut race was won by James O'Connor of North Chelmsford. In the tug-of-war which was long and exciting, the St. Patrick's team won against a picked team. James O'Sullivan was general manager."

For many years James O'Sullivan and the late John Ring were the leading spirits of the old St. Patrick's Temperance society and no event was complete without them. Both were forceful debaters and men of executive ability, but from what the old Sun says Mr. Ring had one thing on Mr. O'Sullivan for as floor director, he must have been somewhat of a dancer, although a man of heavy build, while local history contains no mention of Mr. O'Sullivan as a terpsichorean artist. Thomas Connors, who won the 100 yards sack race is former Supt. Connors of the city wood yard where, until the coming of the present administration, he conducted that department, of which the slogan is "Say nothing but saw wood," and the only department in which the superintendent does as much manual labor as his working force—one man, with eminent success. Mr. Connors is a product of the North common and in his more youthful days was a good all around athlete. In justice to James O'Connor of North Chelmsford, now one of Hyde Park's leading citizens, who from his earliest days was possessed of a gorgeous appetite and a build that gave evidence of the fact, it should be stated that the doughnut race was not a contest in which the doughnuts were consumed by the contestants, though had it been he would still have been a top-heavy favorite in the betting. Dr. O'Connor after completing his studies at Allegheny college went to medical school and upon receiving his "M. D." emigrated to Hyde Park where, starting in a total stranger, he has been a success in his profession from the start.

O'Donnell & Gilbride's Outing

The well known firm of O'Donnell & Gilbride was in its infancy a quarter of a century ago, but it had already established a most friendly relationship between employer and employes. I find in the old Sun the following:

"Employes of O'Donnell & Gilbride held a picnic at Willow Dale, Tuesday evening. Several persons not in the employ of the company were invited and all told there was a large and lively party. The company went out on the electric cars at 6 o'clock. John O'Hearn was general manager and at the supper James H. Kelly was toastmaster. There were several short speeches and vocal solos by Misses Nellie and Mamie Gorman. Dancing followed. Four young men got left and were obliged to walk to Lowell reaching here at midnight."

The Sun charitably omits mention of the quartet who hiked it home. Mr. John O'Hearn who at that time was manager of the O'Donnell & Gilbride store and subsequently a member of the clothing firm of O'Hearn and Dowd, located where Mitchell the tailor now holds forth, is now a resident of Ashmont, Mass., and Mr. Kelly is managing with great success the mammoth department store of Dan A. Donahue, at Salem, Mass.

Married in Balloon

Because the sporting editor of The Sun recently made a trip in a hydroplane at Lakeview there are certain people uncharitable enough to put him down as a "nut." But such is not the fact. It was a part of his job and he went through with it all right. It would be interesting to hear their comment upon the following story of a Lowell man, which appeared in The Sun of 25 years ago:

"The most unique event in New Hampshire for a long time and the crowning feature of the four days' state fair in progress in Manchester, the marriage of a young couple in a balloon, took place Thursday afternoon. The driving park, in which the affair was held, contained fully 30,000 people, representing every part of the state, and many were attracted from across the boundary line. The principals were Mr. Joseph F. Boyd, an employe in the Amoskeag mills, and formerly a resident of Lowell, and Miss Addie Brooks, whose father is a blacksmith in Bedford. The groom is twenty-six years old and the bride 21. The ceremony was performed with the couple standing in the basket, Hon. Hiram D. Upton, speaker of the New Hampshire house of representatives, officiating, and the rites were followed by a terse lay sermon on the duties of the husband and wife delivered in the speaker's best vein. Arthur Murphy of this city served as best man and Miss Ida Brooks as bridesmaid. The ceremony was succeeded by cheers from thousands of throats and in the the midst of the demonstration the balloon was set loose, moving skyward slowly, with the bridal couple, Prof. Allen and Hon. Herbert F. Norris aboard. Among the gifts bestowed was an outfit worth $200 from the New Hampshire Agricultural society. Mr. Boyd is a member of Court Merrimack, A. O. F., of this city. Miss Brooks said the presents did not form any inducement to her being married in so public a manner, but she had long desired to make a balloon ascension, and so gladly welcomed this opportunity. Prof. Allen stated that this was the third couple only who had ever made their bridal tour in a balloon, the first occurrence of the kind occurring at Dayton, O., in 1876, and the second at Providence, R. I., in 1888, when 35,000 witnessed the ascension. The balloon used is a new one, of extra large size, capable of carrying 700 pounds weight besides the passengers. It is 86 feet from tip to tip, and contained 45,000 feet of gas.

"The balloon came down at 5 o'clock in Goffstown. The balloon was that used in Lowell last Fourth of July."

Alex. Was Cool

Says The Sun of a quarter of a century ago:

"It was so cool Tuesday evening that Conductor Alex. Rountree had to put on an extra pair of suspenders."

Alex., whose first name is Alexander, I assume to be the present member of the park commission, who with the responsibility of public office on his shoulders, has shifted the old-time galluses for a belt. Commissioner Rountree has proven himself to be a successful conductor of political affairs, having been a member of the board of aldermen and subsequently connected with the park commission. From the reports of some of the meetings of the park board, one would infer that if Alex. were now wearing suspenders he would be more inclined to take them off than to put on an extra pair.

The Old Burkes

Says the old Sun:

"At a meeting of the Burke Temperance institute Tuesday evening it was voted to observe Father Burke's birthday which falls on next Sunday. The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to make arrangements: William A. Hogan, William H. Stafford, John McGuinness, M. J. O'Connell and John H. McNabb. At the next meeting a board of trustees will be elected. The election of a marshal for the Fr. Mathew parade on October 10th was laid on the table for two weeks."

Twenty-five years continuous traveling on the water-wagon is some record and yet if today you were to ask any of the gentlemen above-mentioned to have a drink you would do so without fear of any liability being attached for they're still on it.

THE OLD TIMER.

BOARD OF TRADE TRIP

PROSPECT THAT THE ANNUAL OUTING WILL BE A GREAT SUCCESS

Secretary John H. Murphy announced this morning that all arrangements for the annual outing which will be held Thursday at Nahant are completed and he said he believes the event will be the best ever conducted by the organization. Nearly 100 automobile owners have pledged their machines for the excursion and it is the belief of the committee in charge that over 300 men will take part in the affair. This morning a large batch of handsome pennants were received and one will be placed on each car leaving city hall for Nahant Thursday morning. The pennants are of red and white and bear the following inscription, "Lowell B. of T."

BACK ON THE JOB

The many friends of Clyde McArdle, the popular treasurer of the Merrimack Square theatre, will be pleased to hear that he is back at the box office. He and Manager Carroll are the right men in the right place, and every patron of the theatre under the management of these men may be always sure of receiving courteous treatment.

Mr. McArdle has just finished a 14 weeks' engagement as manager of Lexington Park and yesterday assumed his old position as assistant to Manager Carroll. He made a great hit, not only with the patrons of the park, but also with all who labored under him, and before leaving for Lowell was presented a traveling bag with all the assessories by the employes of the popular summer park. Despite the fact that this was an off year for summer resorts, Mr. McArdle had a most successful season.

Summer Foods as Cause of Dyspepsia

Many Also Get Diarrhoea—What To Do in Either Case

Summer ought to be the months of most perfect health, but owing to contaminated water and milk, unripe fruit, germs and insects the average of health is not good at this time of the year. There is much skin trouble from acid fruits, and much dyspepsia and diarrhoea from cold foods and iced beverages.

The skin trouble is easily stopped by discontinuing fruit for a few days, and by the use of a mild laxative to clean the bowels and tone the blood. The dyspepsia is likewise corrected by the use of a laxative that has combined with it the elements of a digestive tonic. Hence the best remedy to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, as its name indicates, is a pleasant laxative combined with the virtues of pepsin, which we all know is the best cure for indigestion.

Use Syrup Pepsin also for summer diarrhoea. Avoid astringents, physics and cathartics, as they are unnecessarily harsh. Thousands of good American families prefer Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, among them those of Mrs. W. A. Taylor, Beloit, Wis., who finds she can give it to her baby without causing cramps or pains, and Mrs. Wm. O. Richter, Clayville, Va., who considers it a laxative tonic absolutely unexcelled. They know of no pleasanter cure for constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, summer diarrhoea, etc. It is valuable to all the family from infancy to old age. Children like its taste. All druggists sell it at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington st., Monticello, Ill.

SOLDIERS IN LIEGE FORT SLEEPING LIKE LOGS AFTER FIGHTING NIGHT AND DAY AGAINST GERMANS

BELGIAN SOLDIERS WORN OUT FROM FIGHTING AND ASLEEP IN LIEGE FORT

This is one of the first pictures to reach America from the war in Europe. It was taken in one of the forts which surround Liege, Belgium, and which offered such a remarkable resistance to the assault and bombardment of the German troops. Utterly exhausted after continuous fighting for thirty-six hours, night and day, these soldiers flung themselves upon the straw and slept like logs. The picture was smuggled out of the prison by a soldier who was sent with dispatches to Brussels.

FLEE FROM FIRE

All Buildings at Island Park, Portsmouth, R. I., Destroyed by Fire

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., Aug. 25.—All the buildings at Island park, an amusement resort conducted by the Bay State Street Railway company were destroyed by fire early today. Several employes who had sleeping quarters in the upper part of one of the buildings were forced to leave without dressing. The immediate financial loss was not large.

To Peel Off Freckled, Tanned or Muddy Skin

To remove tan, muddiness, freckles, blotches or any complexion difficulty, the best thing to do is to remove the skin itself. This is easily, painlessly and inexpensively done by the application of ordinary mercolized wax, procurable at any drug-store. The wax peels off the defective outer skin, a little each day, gradually bringing the cuticle or second layer of skin to the surface. The pores are unclogged and the face breathes in the life-giving oxygen. The new skin is beautifully soft, clear and white, bearing the healthy glow of youth. Just apply the wax as you would cold cream, only not rubbing it in. In the morning wash it off with warm water. It's the most effective treatment known for a soiled, discolored or aged complexion.

AMONG THE TOILERS

At the Osgood mills, Andover, Mass., several of the departments have been working overtime four nights a week.

Many girls employed at the Lawrence hosiery returned this week from vacations spent at the various beaches.

The Lawrence Manufacturing company baseball team will play the C. M. A. C. aggregation at Spaulding Park Saturday.

The Continental Worsted Co., Providence, R. I., has leased the sewing room at 20 Stokes street, which will accommodate 30 workers.

Many of the union members would like to witness a 100 yards race between Pete Ledoux, president of the Millmen's union and Michael A. Lee, business agent for the carpenters.

The taking over of the Faulkner mills, Billerica, by the recently incorporated, North Billerica company, is good news to the residents of the town.

In North Adams, Mass., it is said that the woolen and worsted business is in fine shape, most of the mills running to capacity. Even better conditions are expected later.

Business Agent Hall, of the Machinists' union, is some disciplinarian even outside of his regular duties. He proved this fact clearly at the outing held Saturday, when he umpired the baseball game.

The plant of the West Boylston Manufacturing company, Easthampton, Mass., is again operating on a six day schedule owing to large orders received. The company until a short time ago had been running but four days a week.

Mike Wrenn of the Bigelow Carpet Co., ran in the 100 yards event at the Bunting games Saturday and although he did not get placed he gave a good account of himself. Mr. Wrenn, who weighs close on to 220 pounds, was placed at scratch.

Frank Burke, of the Lowell Electric Light corporation, will ever hold in mind the memorable ride of the Hinky Dinks to Revere beach. Mr. Burke, who is of small stature, stood his ground like a man, and it is said that he even refused an umbrella when it was offered to him.

New Construction

Treasurer Arthur R. Sharp, of the Hamilton Manufacturing company, of this city, states that the report is incorrect that they are to commence work immediately upon the second section of Mill No. 4, the first section of which was completed two years ago, and is fully equipped with Whitin and Draper looms.

United States Bunting Co.

The United States Bunting company, like all great manufacturers of woolen goods, is awaiting with expectation the outcome of the present dye-stuff difficulty. This important material is most essential and, therefore, affects the woolen mills more than the cotton plants. It is said that there is not more than from four to six months' supply on hand in this country at the present time. The company is running fair at present and in the event of the dyestuff tangle being straightened out satisfactorily the management looks for increased business.

Mill News

The knitting mill, formerly the old Switz Conde mill, at Oswego, N. Y., which it is proposed to take over in the reorganization of the Frisbie and Stansfield Knitting company, will not, it is understood, be operated for the present at least. The mill's electric power will be sold to the Standard Spinning company, whose plant is on the other side of the Oswego river.

The National Crash company, Millbury, manufacturers of tapes, announces that it has issued $35,000 worth of stocks and 20-year gold bonds. It is explained that the money is needed because of the tying up of future orders. It is also said the mill made a profit of $27,000 last year, but that it all went into new machinery.

On Aug. 1, the office of the treasurer of the Arlington mills will be transferred from Boston to the mills at Lawrence, where all the financial and accounting business of the corporation will be transacted from that date.

The Great Falls Mfg. Co., Somersworth, N. H., reports as of April 30 current assets $1,712.50, and current liabilities $44,285, an excess of $1,668,216 current assets, equivalent to nearly $167 per share on the stock, which is selling at $170.

Work of replacing mules at Natick, R. I., mills of R. B. and R. Knight with spinning frames, which has been in progress for some time, is now near completion, these being only about seven pairs of mules left installed.

The officials of the Draycott mills of New Hartford, Conn., owners of the Touraine company of the same place, now undergoing bankruptcy proceedings, have instructed Aaron N. Watson, agent for the trustees, to keep all the help in town by giving them free rent until adjustment of the affairs of the Touraine.

Responsible Positions

Stephen C. Lowe, American and Canadian agent for John Hetherington & Sons, Ltd., Manchester, England, builders of cotton machinery, has handed in his resignation to take effect Oct. 1 next. He has been representing this company for about 14 years. Although Mr. Lowe states that he is not in a position to make any plans public, it is thought he will remain in the cotton trade. He is president of the S. C. Lowe Supply company, New Bedford.

Frederick W. Greenhalgh, who has been connected with the Peace Dale (R. I.) Manufacturing company for 25 years as second hand and 15 years as boss weaver, has left the employ of the company. Harold Taulder, who comes from Yorkshire, England, has succeeded him.

William Richardson, during the past seven years assistant superintendent of Putnam Manufacturing company, Putnam, Conn., has been selected to fill the position of superintendent. This is a well merited advance for Mr. Richardson.

George E. Wooley, who resigned recently as overseer of weaving at the Butler mill, New Bedford, was visited at his home by a number of his associates from the weave room and presented with a purse of gold. Music and a general good time followed and the gathering broke up at a late hour.

W. R. Baldwin, superintendent of the underwear department of the Lebanon mill, Pawtucket, R. I., during the past five years, has handed in his resignation.

F. C. Hall is now assistant superintendent of the Dan River cotton mills, Danville, Va. Mr. Hall at one time was with the New England Cotton Yarn company, department 13, Taunton.

Noyes D. Farmer has resigned from the plant of the U. S. Bobbin and Shuttle company, at Manchester, N. H., where he has worked for over 12 years, the last two as superintendent. His new position will be the supervision of factory accounting for a Boston concern.

James Dunn is now filling the position of overseer of ring spinning at the plant of the Manville company, Georgiaville, R. I.

Loomfixers Held Meeting

Carpenters' hall, in the Runels building, was packed to overflowing last evening when the members of the Loomfixers' union met in regular session. Considerable routine business was transacted and reports from the various committees were accepted as read. Two new members were admitted and one proposition received. Several of the members spoke on the good of the union, while others spoke on attendance at meetings. These talks were listened to attentively by the members and at the conclusion of each speaker's address he was applauded. The secretary reported the union to be in a flourishing financial condition and all members working.

SAFETY FIRST CAR

TO TOUR COUNTRY—NEW YORK SOCIETY MEMBERS PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Pursuing its aggressive campaign for greater safety in motoring, and general use of the public highways, the Safety First society of New York has hit upon a decidedly original and unique idea. This is to be a nation-wide touring campaign with an automobile equipped with reliable devices, which tend to make motoring safe.

Within the next ten days this car will be started on an extended tour of the Eastern states and later continue on through the south and far west. It will carry representatives of the Safety First society, who will use unique methods of preaching the gospel of caution and carry the message of "Safety First" to motorists and other users of the highways along the entire route. The members of the expedition will call on city officials and prominent citizens in each city visited, with the object of inspiring interest and closer co-operation in the cause. In many cases aid and suggestions will be offered by the society's representatives to communities that are interested in co-operating by forming local Safety First societies. Suggestions as to traffic regulations, the eight-foot rule in passing trolley cars, uniformity of speed laws, muffler cut-out ordinances, street cars dimming headlights when approaching automobiles and other precautionary regulations now enforced in numerous cities, will be advocated.

Lectures will be delivered by the society's representatives, and as the tour will be given wide publicity it is hoped that it will directly result in more intense interest in the great national campaign to curb recklessness and to minimize the number of preventable automobile accidents and fatalities.

Such cities as New York, Boston, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Chicago, Toledo and St. Louis have perfected safety first organizations and many more cities are expected to promote similar bodies.

States to be covered by the tour include New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Virginia, Washington, D. C., and later into the northwest and Pacific coast.

That such a campaign will do much of decided benefit to the public at large as well as to the automobile industry in obvious and there is practically no limit to the field of operation.

THE KASINO

Lowell people will make the Kasino their objective tonight, when an exhibition introducing all of the modern steps will be given by Mr. McWilliams and Miss Warner of Lowell, and Mr. Murningham and Miss Callahan of Boston. These artists need no introduction. They have been dancing throughout New England the present season, and their work has been a hit everywhere. Added interest is given the appearance of the quartet tonight by the rivalry existing. The exhibition is to take the form of a contest, and the winning couple will receive a substantial prize. Miner's orchestra will play the music, and there can be no question of the quality of the entire entertainment.

SCHOOL BOARD WILL ELECT 11 TEACHERS

At Tonight's Meeting — Pension Act and Overflow at High School Make Many Vacancies—School Teachers in Europe

The school board will meet in regular session this evening and by all accounts the meeting will be an important one. Owing to the addition to the high school and the pension act which took effect July 1, the board will have to elect at least 11 teachers, including four or five for the high school. The teachers to be pensioned, it was stated today, include Miss Webster of the high school and two principals, Miss Eliza Crowley of the Central street school and Miss Mary E. Drew of the Ames street school.

The entering class for the high school will number 637. Of this number 279 will be cared for in the old Southworth house, known as the Varnum property, in Kirk street. The city has succeeded in borrowing $30,-

RESERVE BANKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—After many days' consideration the Federal Reserve board has decided that it will open all 12 reserve banks at the same time.

This decision was reached after discussion of a suggestion that the New York, Boston and possibly other banks in the east be opened first. The board felt that such a plan would be unwise.

The board is expected to take up tomorrow the selection of Class "C" directors of the 12 banks. As soon as these officers are chosen the banks will take the remaining steps to choose their officers, obtain quarters, pay their assessments and be ready to open when the word is given.

The selection of directors may keep the board busy for several days, but enough probably will be chosen in each district before the end of the week to make organization of the banks possible.

DIRECTORS OF BANKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—As one of the final steps to get in motion the nation's new currency system, the federal reserve board today took up consideration of men from whom will be selected Class C directors of the twelve regional banks. A sufficient number of the new officials would be chosen in each district before the end of the week, it was believed, to make possible the organization of the banks.

Election of Class A and B directors was completed by the member banks some time ago. The board has determined that the twelve banks will be opened simultaneously.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

Namur, the Belgian fortress, has fallen into German hands, according to an announcement made by the official press bureau in London.

Details of the fighting around the fortress are not given but the English newspapers regard the fall as inexplicable.

Berlin despatches say five of the forts of Namur and the city itself have fallen and the capture of the remaining four forts is imminent.

A reverse to the forces of the allies is generally admitted by the English and French newspapers which say today's news is decidedly bad, while plainly expressing disappointment at the failure of their forces, they declare the retrograde movement toward the line of strong defensive works near the frontier to have been carried out in good order.

THE ALLIES ARE FALLING BACK

It is assumed that the allies are falling back on their first line of defensive works running from Maubeuge in a southeasterly direction by way of Hirson, Mesieres, Montmedy, Verdun, St. Michien, St. Michel, Toul and Epinal, all of which are strong fortresses and are interspersed with smaller works at such places as Ayrvelle, Genicourt, Troyon, Les Paroches, Lianville, Gironville and Jony-Sous-Les-Cotes. Behind these lies another strong line of fortifications.

The English newspapers declare that both the French and Russians are determined to fight to a finish whatever the outlook may be at present. They say the possession of Namur was vital for Germany and that it "was a fine stroke for the Germans to have rushed the place under the eyes of the allied armies."

FIGHTING CONTINUES IN BELGIUM

In other parts of Belgium fighting is still in progress and a report from Ostend says thirty thousand Germans have attacked Malines, 13 miles from Antwerp.

Charleroi also has been the scene of hot fighting, this time between the French and German troops and a fresh encounter is believed to have begun there today.

Twenty-five thousand Germans have been surrounded between Courrai and Ansiman, according to an Ostend despatch to the London Daily Express.

ADVANCE OF RUSSIAN ARMIES

Brussels has been left by the main body of German troops who have proceeded on their way to the front.

Russian reports relate the advance of the Russian armies in eastern Prussia and the surprisingly rapid movement of the troops.

A Swiss business man reports the garrison of Strassburg to have sustained an appaling total of casualties at Schirmeck, where of 5500 Germans who went into the engagement only 1800 returned.

AERIAL BOMBARDMENT OF ANTWERP

A German dirigible balloon which had flown over Antwerp yesterday was brought down by Belgian artillery today and 15 of its occupants taken prisoners, according to a newspaper despatch. Another telegram says bombs dropped from the balloon caused several deaths and one of the missiles struck a hospital, which however, was occupied only by the medical and nursing staff.

GERMAN VICTORY OVER FRENCH AND ENGLISH

A wireless despatch from the foreign office in Berlin to the German embassy at Washington records a severe defeat of the French troops by the Germans in a battle which raged from August 17 to 21 and in the course of which more than 150 field guns and 10,000 prisoners were captured. It says Luneville was taken by the Germans and the army of Gen. Jeoffre, the French commander-in-chief, was broken up, making probable a concentric advance of all the German army toward Paris.

The wireless despatch adds that the Duke of Wurtemberg's German army, marching through Belgium, has completely crushed the advancing French army and captured numerous guns, flags and prisoners among whom were several generals while another German column defeated an English cavalry brigade to the west of the river Meuse.

NAMUR, 45 MILES FROM BRUSSELS, FALLS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—It is announced that Namur, capital of the province of Namur, 45 miles southeast of Brussels and strongly fortified has fallen before the Germans.

LATEST WAR BULLETINS

30,000 GERMANS ATTACKING MALINES

LONDON, Aug. 25.—4.45 a. m.—A despatch to the Times from Ostend, sent today, says that thirty thousand Germans are attacking Malines, a Belgian city, 13 miles southeast of Antwerp. Skirmishing is general in northwest Flanders.

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED NAMUR HAS FALLEN

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The official war information bureau says:

"It is announced that Namur has fallen. It is not yet known definitely here whether the fall refers to the town or the forts or to both."

NEUTRAL IN GERMAN-JAPANESE WAR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—President Wilson today issued a proclamation declaring the United States neutral in the German-Japanese war.

FIERCE FIGHTING AT OSTEND

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch from Ostend to the Evening News says fierce fighting by the Belgian gendarmerie and the German cavalry is occurring in the outskirts of the city. Wounded are being brought in.

50,000 BELGIANS WOUNDED BY GERMANS

THE HAGUE, Aug. 25.—A camp for interned Belgians, of whom there are about 2000 in Holland, is now being constructed at Oudenirdum in Friesland. It is understood here that the Belgians wounded in the fighting against Germany up to the present time number about 50,000. The first casualty list published contains the names of two thousand Belgian dead. Conservative estimates made here place the total number of dead at about 16,000.

"YESTERDAY DAY OF BAD NEWS AND MORE MUST FOLLOW"—LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 25.—"Yesterday was a day of bad news and we fear more must follow," the Times says today in an editorial article on the fall of Namur. "In the first phase of the great battle," the paper continues, "the Germans appear to have won ground all along the line save in the area held by the British. We were prepared for the ebb and flow of the conflict but not for the fall of Namur. We have to face this situation with unshaken confidence. We have to remember that the battle is not yet over. The Germans have not yet burst their way through to France. We have to remember that this is only the first great encounter of a war which, plainly, is destined to be a long one. For the allies it is a phase; for the Germans it is vital. They are dealing their blows with tremendous vigor; but the issue in Belgium still hangs in the balance, in spite of the unfortunate events at Namur. Whatever be the upshot Great Britain and her allies will face the outlook with dogged determination and continue the war until the spirit of Prussian militarism is routed out of Europe."

FRANCE LOST 10,000 MEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A concentric advance of all the German armies toward Paris is probable, the Semois River, Longwy and the greater part of the Belgian-French frontier being in German hands, according to a wireless despatch to the German embassy from its foreign office received today via Sayville, L. I. It says:

"The German troops facing the French troops defeated them in battle from Aug. 17 to 21. Numerous ensigns, more than 150 guns and 10,000 prisoners have been captured. Luneville has been taken and the army of General Joffre, broken up, is no more capable of action. The German crown prince's army has chased the French west of Longwy. The army of the Duke of Wurtemberg, marching through Belgium, has crossed the river Semois, completely crushing the advancing French army. Numerous guns, ensigns, prisoners and several generals were captured. The German troops advancing west of the river Meuse toward Maubeuge defeated an English cavalry brigade. The river Semois, Longwy and the greater part of the Belgo-Franco frontier are in German hands. A concentric advance of all the German army toward Paris is probable."

LATE WAR BULLETINS

ALLIED FLEET WRECKED CATTARO FORTIFICATIONS

MILAN, Aug. 25.—5.10 a. m.—A news despatch from Cattaro says that all of the fortifications there have been destroyed by the allied fleet. The Austrians did not have time before the attack to strew the gulf of Cattaro with mines.

VIENNA TO BE PUT IN STATE OF DEFENSE

PARIS, Aug. 25.—6.20 a. m.—A Fournier's agency despatch from Rome says that an official message from Vienna states that Emperor Francis Joseph has signed a decree ordering the capital to be put in a state of defense.

Travelers from Trieste state that the Austrians are concentrating for the defense of the Adriatic at Pola and Sevenico. The population of the latter have been sent inland. All the Austrian fleet has been assembled in the Fasana canal at Pola.

"WILLIAM II, EMPEROR OF EUROPE"

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Handelsblaad says that since Monday no Germans have been in Brussels. Arrivals from Liege state that many houses there were burned last week. German soldiers have inscribed on the walls of the city "William II, Emperor of Europe."

GERMAN CAVALRYMEN CLOSING IN ON ALLIES

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Central News circulates a despatch from Paris saying that an official communication given out in that city declares that German cavalrymen belonging to an independent division are operating on the extreme right and on the extreme left of the position of the allies.

$4,000,000 TOWARD WAR INDEMNITY PAID

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Times from Flushing says that $4,000,000 towards the war indemnity of $40,000,000 demanded of the city of Brussels by the Germans already has been paid.

It is reported that the Germans in Brussels blew up a tramway station because the directors of the street railway refused to grant certain requirements.

GERMAN ZEPPELIN FLIES OVER ANTWERP

FIRST ACTION OF ENGLISH TROOPS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—4.03 a. m.—The French correspondent of the Associated Press says the British troops came into action for the first time on Friday and Saturday. It was only an affair of outposts and scouting but interesting because of the light it threw on the exhausted condition of the German advance guard.

The correspondent continues;

Detachments were scouting in the country to the westward of Brussels and south as far as Charleroi. Exhausted though the German cavalry were known to be as a whole their success lay in continued rapid advance and it was obvious that they would push on at the first possible moment.

So while the Belgians were sullenly falling back toward the north the English cavalry were busily employed feeling for the inevitable German advance while the French horse, foot and artillery came up from the south and west.

GERMANS WIN FIRST GREAT BATTLE—ALLIES FORCED TO RETREAT

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Kaiser's armies have gained a material victory in the great battle on Belgian soil, and today finds the allies in retreat and the invaders pushing down across the French frontier.

This is taken as the explanation of the announcement of the French war office, which declared that while the allies had held their own against the Germans on the extreme west of the battle line, they had been forced back to "covering positions."

The allies are resting on the advanced lines of the French border defenses, it is believed.

All day yesterday there were conflicting rumors of the progress of the mighty struggle, and great crowds await patiently in front of the newspaper offices for some authentic announcement.

There came from Berlin by way of the United States the report of a great victory over the French at Neufchateau, where a German army under Grand Duke Albert of Wurtemburg had been battling three days with the army of the republic.

This was supplemented by an announcement of the official news bureau that the English, who had taken the offensive in front of Mons, were merely holding their own; and again, later in the day, came news from Paris indicating that the French were throwing their reserve forces into lower Belgium and calling upon the English to send aid from the western wing.

Serious Reverses

It was not until late evening that the setback for the allies was officially admitted by the Paris war office. In this, the first real test of strength between the combatants, the Germans have shown their power, and are sure to push their campaign with increased determination.

The French announcement of yesterday afternoon, which gave the first inkling that things were not going well for the allies, read:

"The general engagement continues today with desperation. Already both sides have suffered serious losses.

"Our armies had absolutely taken the offensive between the Moselle and Mons, in Belgium. A general battle is now being fought in Upper Alsace, upon the Vosges mountains, and along the river Meurthe. The main body of troops is under the command of Gen. Pau. These forces hold the front heretofore indicated.

"An army from the north of Wavre is approaching Neufchateau, and is attacking the German forces which have defiled through Luxemburg and are now upon the right bank of the Semois.

Severe Fighting in Ardennes

"Another army from the direction of Sedan has crossed the department of Ardennes and is engaging the German army corps which has been proceeding between the river Lesse and the river Meuse.

"A third army corps from the neighborhood of Chimay is advancing to attack the German right between the river Sambre and the river Meuse. This third army is supported by an English army which has come over from the vicinity of Mons.

"The movements of the Germans who sought to pass our left wing were followed step by step, and their right now finds itself attacked by the left wing of our army, which is working in conjunction with the English.

"From this side the battle continued vigorously for more than 24 hours, the field extending over the remainder of the front."

Russians Won Great Battle

The long promised Russian invasion of Germany has begun, and already the Czar's troops have fought a great battle and are reported in possession of cities on three important railroads leading into the heart of East Prussia.

The Rome correspondent of the Central News has telegraphed that a dispatch received in the Italian capital from St. Petersburg has gone to the headquarters of the Russian army, which has taken the offensive in full strength.

If affairs on the French border are as serious for the allies as is believed, Russia will be looked to for a powerful effort that shall serve as a diversion and compel the movement of German troops over from the French to the Russian boundary.

FALL OF NAMUR GREAT BLOW TO ALLIES—GERMANS TO MARCH ON PARIS

LONDON, Aug. 25. 5:10 a. m.—Commenting on the fall of Namur before the Germans, the Times says it is one of those inexplicable events which makes war the gamble that it is. That Namur should have fallen in two days will require a deal of explanation, the Times adds.

The Times military expert says that it is too early to say that the line of the Meuse south of Mezieres must be abandoned but the outlook is not favorable and the development of the situation in the next few days will be watched with legitimate anxiety. He continues:

There are reports that the townspeople and even the garrison of Namur were less well disposed than the men of Liege to offer a strenuous resistance and so bring upon their town the punishment meted out by Germans to Liege. There is undoubtedly some slight feeling among the Belgians that they have not been adequately supported by the allies and that they have borne the whole brunt of the war in the north but we cannot believe that the Belgians did less than their duty and we expect to hear that they were attacked by overpowering numbers.

The possession of Namur was vital for Germany and it was a fine stroke for the Germans to have rushed the place under the eyes of the allied armies. We still hope and believe that our counter-offensive in the north is only postponed and not abandoned.

Reviewing the general situation, the Times military expert points out that the allies in Belgium are meeting the full shock of the German army. He says that it is essential for Germany that she should deal a paralyzing blow in this quarter in order to gain time to detach troops to resist the Russian attack on the Prussian frontier.

Commenting on the loss of the Belgian stronghold, the Chronicle says:

The news today is decidedly bad. It adds that if the allies losses have been heavy "we may yet see before long the Germans march in earnest upon Paris."

Namur is a fortress of great strength which its defenders could possibly hold several months.

Contradictory reports are in circulation of a battle between British and German warships but there has been no confirmation.

The German ambassador, Count von Rex and staff are completing arrangements for sailing on the steamer Minnesota for San Francisco.

CARDINALS AT ROME

PREPARATIONS FOR APPROACHING CONCLAVE—CARDINAL FARLEY EXPECTED TOMORROW

ROME, Aug. 25.—In preparation for the approaching conclave to elect a successor to Pope Pius X the printing bureau of the Vatican is getting out maps which are to be distributed to the cardinals showing each one where his apartments are to be located.

Owing to their feebleness several of the cardinals will be permitted to occupy rooms in the rear of the Sistine chapel obviating the necessity of climbing stairs to the chapel twice daily to cast their ballots. Other cardinals have been notified that they may celebrate mass in their own rooms instead of going every morning to the Pauline chapel.

Cardinal Farley, archbishop of New York, has reached Milan from Switzerland. He is expected at Rome tomorrow. The condition of his health is excellent.

The hope is entertained here that the American cardinals, Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell will succeed in reaching Rome in time for the conclave. It is felt that insomuch that they are outside the influences of the European war they will be able to bring an impartial view to the election of the new pope.

REPORT RUSSIAN VICTORY

Defeat of Three German Army Corps in Northeastern Prussia Converted Into Rout

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg says:

The German defenses in east Prussia is based on four parallel and strongly fortified lines running north and south. Each is supported by natural obstacles. The foremost three lines are distinct groups of numerous lakes. The fourth and strongest defense line is the Vistula river, extending from the Russian frontier to the Baltic. Outside these defense lines the Germans have on the northeast the very strong fortress of Konigsburg with fortified advance positions at Libau and Tapiau.

The foremost three defense lines are extensively fortified. There are important and permanent fortifications at Allenstein and Boyen and the whole is filled with lakes, leaving only comparatively narrow defiles for the advancing troops. The country is full of fortifications partly provisional and partly field works, most of which are armed with heavy guns. A frontal attack would be a very difficult task.

The Vistula, from 500 to 1000 yards wide, is guarded by six fortresses.

A man entitled to rank among the first as an organizer of victory is compelled to remain far from the battlefield. He is Gen. Soukhomlinoff, the Russian Kitchener, who is now reorganizing the Russian armies. Through him the armies have been irreproachably equipped and the spirit of the men is the same as the spirit of the nation.

Defeat of Germans in Russia

The defeat of three German army corps in northeastern Prussia was converted into a rout by the timely arrival of another army coming from Warsaw in the rear of the enemy's position. The Warsaw army, which was very powerful, completely turned the German position at the Mazur lakes and while extending its operations over a wide front westward, headed towards Allenstein. The German 20th army corps thus became a nut between stout crackers.

In Galicia the theatre of Russian strategy will be on a level with the victorious plain adopted further north. The Austrians in Lemberg probably will be taken in a similar way.

The Austrian force retreating from Vladimir, Volhynski, Russia, 17 miles from the frontier towards Sokal in Galacia, Austria, probably has been cut off. Grand Duke Michael, the emperor's brother, has returned from abroad and is going to the front.

The Russian embassy in London, while pleased over the victory at Gumbinnen, states that it feels bound to warn the English press not to exaggerate the consequences of the victory.

WILL FIGHT TO FINISH

Germans United to Defend Fatherland Against Attack of Jealous Powers, Says Ambassador

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—"My wife is with the Red Cross at Munich," said Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to the United States who arrived here yesterday on board the Noordam from Rotterdam, "and my son is with the emperor's guard. All my secretaries have gone to the front and I regret that I was not able to see active service myself.

"From the emperor to the lowest unskilled workman in the fatherland Germany is united to defend herself against the frivilous and unwarranted attack of jealous powers. The German people will fight to a finish and will be victorious in the end. At the outbreak of the war, he continued the English cut the cable to this neutral country for the sole purpose of preventing the truth from coming here. There was no excuse for that act, except for the desire to deceive the people of the United States as to the true conditions of the war. But I believe Americans will prove themselves fair enough to weigh carefully all the news that comes from English courses. The calling of the Japanese into the European quarrel shows one thing above all else. It is that England does not feel very safe. The Japanese will doubtless take Kiao Chow; sheer weight of numbers assures that. But by the end of the war Japan will have the supremacy of the Pacific, a thing she has striven for during many years.

"When the true story of the assault on Liege is told Americans will have a far different opinion than that gained from the colored account from Belgian, French and English sources."

The ambassador denied reports that the German crown prince had been wounded by an assassin in Berlin. Moreover, he added, the crown prince had never been wounded before Liege for the simple reason that he was not at Liege but in command of troops at the fortress at Metz.

"The last great German victory I heard of before leaving Berlin," said the ambassador was one at Metz by the army under the crown prince."

Of the reported Russian invasion of East Prussia, Count Von Bernstorff said: "The reports of the penetration by a Russian force are probably true. That part of the German frontier is not heavily fortified. But the Russians will never cross the Vistula."

Fifteen corps of the Austrian army, each comprising 40,000 men, are now on the Russian frontier of Austria, Count Bernstorff said. In Germany, besides the last line of reservists, 1,300,000 men upon whom the government had no claim for military service had volunteered and were enrolled in an army for home defense.

CHANGE IN THE STATUTE

RELATIVE TO THE SETTLEMENT OF ESTATES—ONE YEAR INSTEAD OF TWO

STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Executors and administrators who are appointed after the first of next month must, under the new law, finish their duties within one year, instead of two years, as has formerly been allowed. This change is made by chapter 609 of the new acts and resolves bearing the title "An Act to Provide for Accelerating the Settlement of Estates."

There are several phases to this provision of the present law all of which are cut in half by the new set. For example, an executor or administrator before could not be held to answer to an action by a creditor of the estate which was commenced within one year after his giving bond. This one year is cut down to six months.

Again, if the executor or administrator does not within a year have notice of demands against the estate which authorizes him to represent that the estate is insolvent, he may, after the expiration of the year before the debts are due and not be personally liable to any creditor. In both cases the one year has been changed to six months.

Further along in the old law it provided that an administrator or executor should not be held liable unless an action was commenced within two years from the date of his bond. This has been changed to one year and the provision added that "the court may allow creditors further time for bringing actions, not exceeding two years from the time of the giving of his official bond by such executor or administrator, provided that application for such further time be made before the expiration of one year from the time of the approval of said bond."

Another section of the old law provided that if no assets came to light after the expiration of two years, the administrator or executor should account for them and apply them in the same way as if they had been received within two years. This also is changed by one year.

The time for bringing action against the executor or administrator is now limited to one year in place of two.

Again it is provided that a creditor shall have one year instead of two to present claim to a probate court provided such claim does not accrue within the one year period. If the court decided it is a just claim it can order the executor or administrator to retain sufficient funds to meet it.

GOLD TO NEEDY AMERICANS

BERLIN, Aug. 24, (via London, 3 p. m.)—Henry S. Breckinridge, assistant secretary of war at Washington and ten officers from the American cruiser, arrived in Berlin Sunday morning on a special train from Holland. They are bringing gold coin sent over by the American government for the succor of needy Americans in Germany.

Under the guidance of an attache from the American embassy here the special train made fast time, considering the state of war. It took only 13 hours to come from the Hague. The usual time for this journey under present conditions is 33 hours. The rapidity with which the trip was made, is explained by the fact that the railroad authorities attached the special train to the car of a high German official who was coming to Berlin.

WERE ARRESTED AS SPIES

MR. AND MRS. HUNTINGTON CONFIRM REPORT—BOTH SEARCHED BY GERMANS

LONDON, Aug. 25, 2.55 p. m.—Archer M. Huntington, president of the American Geographical society, and Mrs. Huntington, who have arrived in London from the continent yesterday confirmed the story of their arrest as Russian spies in Germany.

They left Carlsbad two hours before the receipt of the declaration of war with Russia, traveling by motor car to Nuerenberg. When they reached there they were taken to the police station, where they were retained from 8 o'clock in the morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Huntington were obliged to move their clothing which was searched. Their papers also were ransacked and their car, which was of French make, was commandeered. The Huntingtons were then set at liberty and allowed to remain in Nuerenberg under police surveillance. Later their French chauffeur and valet, who is an Englishman, were made prisoners of war. The Huntingtons remained in Nuerenberg until Aug. 18, when they took a special train to Amsterdam. From Amsterdam the journey to London was completed without further trouble.

"So far as I could see," Mr. Huntington said today: "All Germany is enthusiastic over the war. The people clearly wanted it and they had no doubt whatever of its immediate success. I saw signs on military automobiles such as these: "William, emperor of Europe;" "William, king of Russia," and "On to Paris."

FUNERALS

OUELLETTE—The funeral of Jean Francois Ouellette took place yesterday from his home, 207 Cheever street. High mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Joseph's church at 8 o'clock by Rev. C. A. Paquette, O. M. I. The bearers were Clement Paquette, Charles Lord, Armand Robillard and George Cayer. There was a delegation from Branch St. Andre, A. C. F. Among the out-of-town relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Clement Paquette and Joseph Paquette of Marlboro. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Augustin Graton, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Joseph Albert.

DEATHS

SOUCY—William, aged 2 months 14 days, died yesterday at the home of the parents, Napoleon and Exilia Soucy, 2 Melton street. Burial took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. Joseph's cemetery in charge of Undertaker Joseph Albert.

ONLY "NEUTRAL" PASSENGERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Fifty Germans and Austrians were yesterday refused passage on the Italian steamship Stampalia due to sail Wednesday for Naples. Agents of the liner Lavelce announced that they had received orders from their home office to permit only Americans, Italians or persons belonging to a neutral country to engage passage on its ships until further notice.

BILE AND BILIOUSNESS

Bile is manufactured in the cells of the liver. It assists digestion and prevents putrefaction in the intestines. Bile is necessary to life but excess of bile is poisonous.

The effects of excessive secretion of bile and failure to eliminate it from the blood, which is also a function of the liver, are white-coated or brown-furred tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, indigestion, headache, lack of appetite, constipation and weariness.

This is a condition popularly called biliousness and points directly to the need of something to regulate the liver. For this purpose the claim is made that Pinklets, the new laxative, are greatly superior to old-fashioned liver medicines which over-stimulate the liver and, when their use is stopped, leave the liver more torpid than before. That over-stimulation debilitates the liver is as certain as anything known in the science of medicine. Pinklets are tiny, sugar-coated pills, dainty to take, easy in action and they do not upset the stomach nor cause griping. Given a thorough trial they really correct chronic constipation.

Your druggist sells Pinklets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free

WON FIRST; THEN LOST

Local Team Captured 6-4 Contest But Lake's New Pitcher Beat Them in Second Game

Lowell and Manchester split another double header yesterday, as on Saturday, the first game going to the locals and the visitors coming into their own in the second contest.

Matty Zieser was on the mound for Lowell in the first encounter and Teed, the spit-ball pitcher formerly with Lynn, was trotted out by Fred Lake. Although the locals were outhit by Manchester their blows were more timely. Errors by both teams were costly.

In the first half of the ninth Manchester scored one run and pushed men around to third and second with two out. With Reed at bat and a hit meaning a tie score. King was sent in to relieve Zieser and struck out Reed with his wet offering. The final score was 6-4.

First Inning

Manchester looked dangerous for a few minutes in the first inning but gilt edged support of Matty pulled that gentleman out of a bad box. Kane singled to right. Sweatt lifted a high foul fly which Kelly got under. Zieser fielded Torpey's grounder and with plenty of time to make the play threw low to Dee with Kane safe at second and Torpey arrived at first. Dee got Reed's hard grounder and a double play resulted McCleskey taking the throw at second forcing Torpey and sending the ball ahead of Reed to the first station. No runs; one hit, one error. Lowell was easy in the second half. Swayne lifted a fly to Kane in short centre. It was a matter of inches on McClesky's out on a slow roller that Sweatt fielded. Greenhalge sent a fly to Kennedy. No runs; likewise hits, also errors.

Score: Lowell 0, Manchester 0.

Second Inning

With two gone in the second Ziezer gave the first pass. Ostregren filed out to Swayne in deep centre and Kennedy was called out on strikes. Ziezer walked Spier who went to second on Mattie's wild pitch. But Kilhullen closed the inning with a fly to Stimpson. Runs, hits, errors, nix.

Stimpson led off for Lowell with a spanking single to left and then proceeding to second on the first ball pitched to Dee. He got away with it.

Teed uncorked a bean ball which caught Shorty on the forehead, the force of the blow knocking him to the ground but he was able to take his place in a few minutes at first—all jokes about solid ivory are barred.

Fahey hit a slow grounder along the first base line that the Manchester pitcher fielded. Fahey had the throw beaten to first but it was unnecessary for Tedd shot the ball way over to the first base bleachers allowing Stimpson to score. Dee to take third and Fahey going to second. It was some heave. Kelly smashed a hard grounder at Teed and went out at first while Dee was safe at third. Teed stopped the ball because he couldn't side-step it and if he didn't it would have stopped him. Teed then walked Wacob and the bleachers warmed up and broke forth in exclamations of joy and other things of a delightful nature. Ziezer scored Dee with a sacrifice fly to Kane but the ambitious Fahey went out on an attempt to make third after the ball was caught.

Two runs; two hits, and one error.
Score: Lowell 2, Manchester 0.

Third Inning

Teed slapped a single past Ziezer into centre field at the opening of the third. At this point the wet descended, not as the gentle dews from heaven, but a fine down-pour of rain and the audience betook itself to a dry corner under the roof, while the bleacherites got choice seats without settling and everybody went through his jeans to see if he still had his rain-check.

The game continued right along and Ziezer then hit Kane, the next man up, and the buses became full when Sweatt hunted successfully along the third base line. Torpey lifted a fly to Stimpson, but Teed wouldn't take a chance with Stimp's wing and clung to third manfully. A moment later he came home when Fahey's fumbled Reed's grounder. Dee ran into short left and captured Ostergren's fly and McCleskey shut off the visitors' chances to score again when he made a fine catch of Kennedy's fly in short right. One run, two hits and one error. In Lowell's half Spires got two put-outs, the Manchester third baseman took Swayne's foul-fly and then chased back after McClesky's high flier. Greenhalge made the third out with a fly to Kane. Nothing doing on the runs, hits and errors.

Score: Lowell 2, Manchester 1.

Fourth Inning

Lowell scored again after Manchester had gone down in order. Spiers was out on a short fly to Stimpson. Kilhullen put up a fly which Greenhalge consumed and Teed grounded to Kelly who didn't have to exert himself. Three ciphers in the runs, hits and errors.

Errors by Torpey were responsible for Lowell's tally. After Stimpson had filed out to Kennedy, and Torpey had gobbled Dee's fly Fahey received a life on the Manchester short stop's boot of his grounder. Kelly then hit to Torpey and the latter threw high to Ostergren, allowing Fahey to score and Kel to reach second. Wacob then filed to Torpey who was a pretty busy man in that inning. One run, no hits, two errors.

Score: Lowell 3, Manchester 1.

Fifth Inning

Manchester got busy in the fifth and tied up the score. Kane was the first man to face Zieser and Mattie gathered his pop fly when he attempted to bunt. Sweatt, the gentleman with the hot name, slapped the ball to left on the line and Stimpson couldn't reach it, Sweatt making second. Dee booted Torpey's grounder and Sweatt went to third. On a double steal Sweatt slid across the plate and Torpey made second. Ostergren brought Torpey home with a wallop to left centre which Stimpson kept down to a single by diving headlong for the ball and holding it up. The session was over when Ostergren attempted to purloin second. Wacob's throw getting him by yards. Two runs, two hits, one error.

In Lowell's half the local crew did nothing but go out. Zieser popflied to Ostergren and Swayne was out on a grounder to Torpey. Sweatt and Ostergren put the kibosh on McCleskey. No. no. no.

Score: Lowell 3, Manchester 3.

Sixth Inning

Kennedy was the first performer in the sixth and he foul-flied to Kel. Swayne sent Spiers back to the bench when he held his fly to short centre. Kilhullen was a cinch for Dee and Kelly. Three more ciphers. Greenhalge struck the fence in left field; that is, the ball did, for a two-bagger. It looked as if the ball was going over the top boards, but it didn't. Stimpson then dropped a Texas leaguer near the left field foul line and Greenhalge went to third. Dee spanked one of Teed's offerings to the left field fence for another double, Greenhalge crossing the plate and sending Stimpson around to third. Stimpson scored and Dee went to third on a passed ball by Kilhullen. Teed's saliva offering slipping from the catcher's mitt. The next move that Teed made was to wallop Fahey in the ribs. Dee tried to score on Kelly's grounder to Sweatt, but went out at the plate, while Fahey went to second while Kelly was safe on the initial bag. Fahey attempted to pull off a double steal, but Kelly was thrown out at second. Wacob was a patient waiter and hence no loser, getting his second pass. Wacob and Fahey pulled off a double steal, the Lowell third baseman crossing the plate for another run. Kane made a wonderful catch of Zieser's long fly to left centre and the inning was closed. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 6, Manchester 3.

Seventh Inning

And then the lucky seventh. Zelser struck out Teed on three pitched balls. Kane hit out a short one to centre, but long enough to be safe. Sweatt was a victim of strikes. Kelly made a fine catch of Torpy's foul-fly. No runs, one hit and no errors.

After getting two strikes on Swayne Teed wounded the Lowell center-fielder with one of his spitters but Swayne went out a moment later trying to steal second. McCleskey then singled to right. Greenhalge hit into a double play when he groundered to Sweatt, Torphy's throw to Ostergren cutting off the batter. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score, Lowell, 6; Manchester, 3.

Eighth Inning

Dee drew forth a big hand when he ran into short centre and pulled down Reed's fly with his gloved hand. It looked like a sure base knock. Ostergren drove a single through Dee but was forced at second when Matty fielded Kennedy's grounder and threw to Dee. Kennedy in turn was forced at second when Spiers hit to Fahey. No runs, one hit, no errors.

In Lowell's half, Sweatt threw out Stimpson on his grounder toward second base and Torphy preformed a similar operation on Dee's roller. Fahey's bat connected with a single to right. Fahey stole second. Kilhullen throwing the ball to centre field. Kelly closed the inning with a fly to Sweatt back of second base. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score, Lowell 6; Manchester, 3.

Ninth Inning

Kilhullen dropped a Texas leaguer into left for which Fahey made a great attempt, but couldn't field it in time. King went to bat for Teed. King sent up a high fly to Dee. Swayne was waiting for Kane's long fly to left centre. Sweatt drove the ball to left for a single, advancing Kilhullen to second. It was Sweatt's third bingle in the game. Torpey swat the ball along the left field foul line for a double, sending in Kilhullen, while Sweatt went to third. Zieser was relieved at this time and Jimmie Ring ascended the mound. A hit would now tie the score. Reed struck out and the game was over. One run, three hits, no errors.

Final score: Lowell 6, Manchester 4.

SECOND GAME

Weaver and Eaton, a new pitching recruit of Lake's opposed each other in the second game. Manchester was returned a 3—1 winner mainly because Lowell could do nothing with Eaton's delivery. Weaver also pitched good ball.

Manchester scored the first run of the contest in the fourth inning. An overthrow to first by Dee allowed Kane two bases and the centre fielder scored on Sweatt's double to left.

The visitors' other tallies came in the sixth. Kane beat out a hunt along the third base line and Sweatt then picked out a high fast ball and smote it into right centre for three sacks scoring Kane, Sweatt then proceeded to steal home with his club's last score.

Lowell did not send a man across the plate until the last inning. After Fahey had gone down on a grounder to Spires Kelly doubled to left, took third on Wacob's infield out and scored when Weaver beat out an infield hit. Swayne then singled into short left, but that was all there was doing. The score:

JUMPED TO HER DEATH

SALINAS, Cal., Aug. 25.—George Kodani, a Japanese photographer under arrest here confessed to Sheriff Nesbitt yesterday that he had killed Helen Smith, a New York artist, who had been living in the colony of writers and painters at Carmel-by-the-Sea. He told conflicting stories of the murder, one version being that he killed Miss Smith in self-defense.

PRAISES SWISS LOYALTY

FORMER UNITED STATES SENATOR SPOONER REACHES PARIS WITH FAMILY.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—3.20 p. m.—John C. Spooner of New York, former United States senator from Wisconsin, accompanied by his family, came into Paris yesterday from Lucerne, Switzerland. Speaking of his experiences, Mr. Spooner said:

"We changed cars seven times on our way from Switzerland but we arrived without mishap. I cannot speak too highly of the courtesy we received in France as well as in Switzerland. It was very difficult, however, to get money on letters of credit in Lucerne, particularly immediately after the beginning of fighting.

"Americans in Switzerland did not perceive the seriousness of the situation until the night before the posting of the order of mobilization. The patriotism and loyalty of the Swiss to their country has set a fine example to the larger nations of Europe. There are now about 30,000 men under arms in Switzerland as a precaution against the possible violation of Swiss neutrality."

DAMAGES OF $1,040,467

AGAINST NORTH GERMAN LLOYD STEAMSHIP CO., BY REASON OF FAILURE TO DELIVER GOLD

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 25.—Claiming damages of $1,040,467 and interest against the North German Lloyd steamship company by reason of the failure of the steamship Kronprinzessin Cecelie, now at Bar Harbor, to deliver gold bullion at Plymouth, England, according to an agreement between the steamship company and the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York, shippers of the gold, action was brought by the bankers against the company in the federal court yesterday. Deputy Marshal Eugene Harmon left at noon to seize the ship which sought refuge in Bar Harbor following the outbreak of war after nearly completing her trip to England.

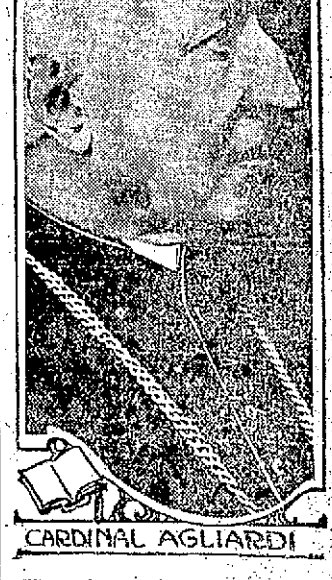

SAFETY FIRST MOVEMENT

The "Safety First" movement inaugurated in this city by the Lowell board of trade is making progress, for it seems that every man, woman and child have taken the advice of this popular organization in the safety first movement. Signs bearing the inscription "Safety First" can be seen on many automobiles and carriages, while a number of children are seen carrying around pennants bearing the same inscription.

Today the board of trade will put up "Safety First" signs throughout the city. The signs are fifteen feet in length and very attractive. One will be placed in Middlesex street over the road near the station, while another will be stretched across Merrimack street near the junction of Central. A third bearing the inscription "Safety First, Go Slow," will be strung across Moody street at the junction of Aiken, one of the most dangerous spots in the city.

TO END HOSTILITIES

CARDINAL AGLIARDI

When the cardinals meet in conclave on August 30 to elect a successor to the late Pope Pius X. an effort will be made to have the European nations now at war declare a truce and attempt to settle the difficulties without further bloodshed. Cardinal Agliardi heads the movement to have the sacred college ask the rulers of the belligerent nations to end the hostilities. He is also mentioned for selection as the new pope.

PICTURES FROM BRUSSELS, SHOWING WOUNDED IN HOSPITAL AND THE "BREAD LINE" OF WAR

These pictures are among the first to reach America from Brussels, Belgium, since the war began. One of them shows a scene in a ward in St. Jean hospital, with Red Cross nurses attending wounded Belgian soldiers. A Belgian officer is inquiring as to the condition of the men. Hundreds are being cared for in this institution. The other picture shows the line of wives of soldiers who went off to war waiting for the daily payment of 50 to 65 centimes (about 10 cents) from the government. The women are paid this amount to help keep them in food while the men are away fighting. It is the "bread line" of war.

PFEFFER OF THE SUPERBAS IS THE BEST PITCHER ON ROBINSON'S STAFF

BROOKLYN, Aug. 25.—The most dependable pitcher that Manager Robinson has is "Hussen" Pfeffer, a young man from whom little was expected at the beginning of the season. Rucker has been in bad condition all season and has shown nothing like his usual form. Pfeffer, with a weak team back of him, is up among the leaders in games won, and as he is a young player he is expected to be even better next year.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LAKEVIEW PARK

Five graceful and pretty young women and two men, billed as the Seven Leedys, are doing remarkable "stunts" on the wire at Lakeview Park this week, having been engaged by the management as the extra out-door attraction at this popular resort. They dance, turn somersaults, carry each other on their shoulders, jump over chairs and perform all manner of seemingly impossible feats on the wire, regardless of how hard the wind blows. The act is one of the kind one sees with the big three ring circus and one of the best of the kind ever presented here. In their handsome blue and purple dresses, the men dressed in satin knickerbockers, they present a neat and pleasing appearance and work with a vim and dash that is characteristic of the "big time" vaudeville performer and another mark may be made to the credit of the management for giving the patrons of Lakeview something new and of a character well worth a trip to this popular resort to witness. The Leedys appear on the open air stage every afternoon at 3.45 and every evening at 9 p. m. during the present week.

At the theatre the usual excellent program of pictures may be seen, five reels of the latest releases, including both comedy and dramatic features as well as the topical weekly, a pictorial review of current events of the day. As the end of the season at this popular resort approaches large crowds are taking advantage of every warm and pleasant day for a visit to one of New England's most pleasant summer resorts.

CANOBIE LAKE

Perhaps it was the splendid weather or perhaps it was the return of the old favorites that made it so but anyway Canobie Lake Park theater was filled to its capacity last evening when the Homan's Musical Revue offered the seventh edition of their big musical show and fairly swept the audience off its feet with a variety of the most original, novel and fascinating numbers that it has been the good fortune of the patrons to enjoy in a number of weeks.

Eddie Dowling, after a few weeks of much needed rest, was there as big and lively as ever, skating, sliding and falling all over the stage in his delight to be back again with the people who have grown so fond of him and with whom he has found it quite impossible not to reciprocate warmly.

Bob Jewett and Ray Pendleton, that clever pair of dancers who have won such a reputation hereabouts, are back too, and are offering one of the best dancing specialties of their entire repertoire, one that won the applause and enthusiasm of the audience last evening in a most positive manner.

Walter Morrison, he with the ragtime voice, had the entire audience swaying to the melodious swing of his ragtime offerings, and while there was an abundance of enthusiasm for all of the numbers in the show, the applause for him was second to none.

Walter Bergeron and Betty Furrington offered something more on the high class order and they, too, were generously applauded, as in fact, all of the acts were, even the chorus girlies being appreciated for their snappy work.

THE OWL THEATRE

"In the Bishop's Carriage," with Mary Pickford and the Frohman Players, was received with enthusiasm at both of yesterday's performances, and the same performance will be repeated today. Miss Pickford as Nancy, has added another laurel to her well-earned reputation. Her impersonation of the little waif of the underworld, who finally wins love and happiness, through a series of mishaps, is marvelous and her winning personality is again displayed at every hand, while her acting disarms any criticism that could be offered. The supporting cast of players, are also to be complimented on the handling of their respective roles. They play with a naturalness that is good to the eye. Among the other photoplays to be shown besides this fine feature today, will be "The Feud at Beaver Brook," a special two-part drama, "In Peril's Path," a Keystone comedy, and others. Vocal selections will be rendered at each performance, while the sliding roof will afford comfort during the hot summer days.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

They certainly do come back, especially when a first class burlesque show comes to town to awaken them and bring them back. Last night at the Academy of Music at the initial performance of the season which marks the return of burlesque to Lowell, nearly all the first-nighters were in attendance, although a few skeptics remained away to hear the verdict of the early birds before taking a chance. It's a good bet they'll all be there tonight or tomorrow for the performance was replete with the real goods, and it recalled the good old days of Harry Morris, Robie and his Bohemians with Edna Aug and Emma Carus, and a host of merrymakers of the "Big Wheel" who in Manager Boody's time packed them away at the Academy. Of course with this show there is an added attraction in the shape, and I say shape advisedly, of Larry Crane, the celebrated Irish magician who first saw the light of day in that romantic part of Ireland known as the "Acre," or to the politicians as old ward one. Like the guy who "shined them up so carefully" that now he is the ruler of the Queen's paves," Larry is now the lord of the domain of legerdemain, or something like that, magic, sleight-of-hand, etc., with a native born wit and flow of soft talk into the bargain. Larry can make any old thing disappear but flesh, and he's added a lot of that to his makeup since his last appearance, though it doesn't hinder him in the least in his work. His act is the big feature of the show and he is ably assisted by Miss Grace Andrews, a charming blonde who disappears and reappears in several most mystifying stunts. Hermann and Keller had their day but this is the day of Larry Crane and anything that they did Larry can do and also a few stunts that weren't known in their day, while Larry has it on them inasmuch as he is a wit and adds to the enjoyment of his act by his merry prattle. Larry is a member of Lowell lodge, B. P. O. E., and tonight the members of the lodge to the number of 300 will attend and Lawrence will draw upon his fund of wit and humor to give them a little additional entertainment. In the closing burlesque last evening Larry worked up a funny little dialogue playing on the name of Marty Halloran, of the Arlington hotel, who was among the spectators, and it made a big hit.

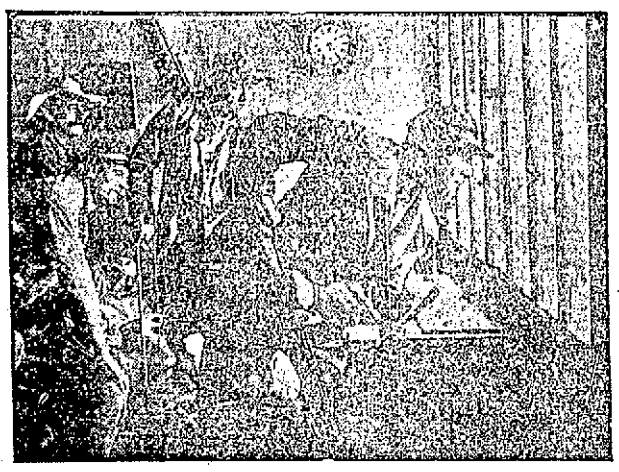

The burlesque company is headed by Richy Craig, a German comedian who scrambles the English language most ridiculously. Craig is much in evidence throughout the show and he is a hit at all times. His specialty between the burlesques is something entirely new to Lowell and was a most attractive offering. With a graphaphone as his assistant he carried on a very funny rapid-fire dialogue and so precise was he in his talk that one would imagine that he were holding a face to face conversation with a companion rather than with a metallic record. The novelty of this act alone would make it a success, but it is not only novel but real funny. Mr. Craig also gives a couple of most acceptable solos on the saxaphone. The opening burlesque entitled: "That Funny Janitor" introduces in the cast, Mr. Craig, Harry Seyon, Dorothy Blodgett, Flo Julene, Artie Lewis, Billie Leonard, Ethel Weston and Tiny Russell and a chorus of 25 young comely and graceful girls. The blizzard-faced beauty of uncertain age who once was invariably to be found in the burlesque line-up was conspicuous by her absence. The costumes were all brand new and very attractive, the dialogue was amusing and clean throughout. Six solos with choruses were given while the finale "I Love the Whole U. S. A." by Miss Dorothy Blodgett, a strikingly comely young woman, and the entire company aroused the patriotic enthusiasm of the audience. In addition to the offerings of Larry Crane and Richy Craig, the olio included Artie Lewis and Billie Leonard, "The Two Hicks" and Harry Seyon and Flo Julene in a comedy sketch. The concluding burlesque was entitled "From Broadway to Atlantic City" including the entire company and was even funnier than the opening sketch. The shows are well staged and elaborately costumed and there is nothing to be seen or heard in the entire production that would offend the most exacting critic. The Craig burlesquers will appear twice today and twice tomorrow.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

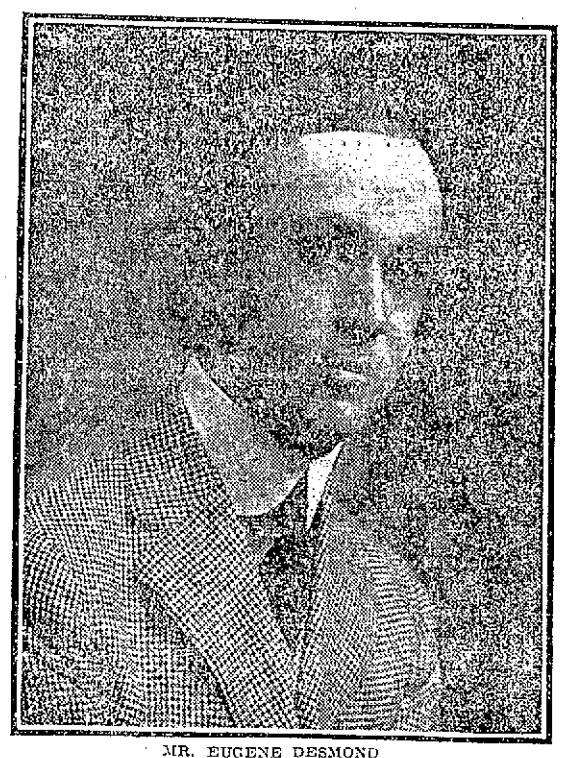

The Merrimack Square theatre has had many excellent productions by its stock company, but none better than "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," a four act drama now being presented twice daily with great success. It is the production made popular by Douglas Fairbanks. It has all the elements for an enjoyable play, excitement, travel, love, comedy and climaxes following in quick succession. The cast of characters last night was as follows:

Augustus III.....Wm. B. Freeman
Prince Vladimir.....Clifford Hastings
Count Ivan Paulovic.....Arthur Fox
M. De Witz.....Ted Brickett
Col. Nadulski.....C. A. Bickford
An officer of guard .....Robert Lee
M. Frederick, proprietor of the casino
Malcolm Clifford
Reporter on the Borrovina Scimitar
Kenneth Fleming
Anthony Hamilton Hawthorne, an American .....Sam A. Meharry
Rodney Blake, his friend, Senator Thomas Ballard, Kate Ballard, his daughter, tourists
Eugene Desmond, Joseph Thayer
Miss Marjorie Rendel
Princess Irma, Augusta Elizabeth Oberiten, the king's daughter
Miss Eva Marsh
Officers, Soldier, Officials, Civilians

A young American and his chum are leading characters in the plot. After breaking the bank at Monte Carlo, they visit a supposed kingdom in the south of Europe, where great commotion is caused from the fact that the king is financially "busted." The young American arrives in time to avert a crisis by his timely assistance in meeting the royal obligations. Naturally the American falls in love with the king's daughter and to make possible their marriage the king proclaims his dominions an independent state. The various complications in the development of the plot afford ample opportunity for the introduction of comedy that keeps the audience in a merry state of mind throughout. Sam A. Meharry in the title role did excellent work, proving equal to the varied requirements of his part, whether grave or gay, but mostly the latter. As "Rodney Blake," Mr. Eugene Desmond proved an able comedian, giving excellent support to the leading character. Eva Marsh as Princess Ballard, played the role with dignity and grace. Miss Marjorie Rendel as daughter of a U. S. senator, looking for a rheumatic cure, emphasized her Americanism in a pleasing manner, while the other gentry, Mm. B. Freeman, Clifford Hastings, Arthur Fox, as Augustus III., a prince and count respectively, assumed aristocratic airs with due decorum. Malcolm Clifford as reporter of the "Scimitar," displayed his journalistic proclivities as if he had had experience. The other characters were all very good, and the performance is well worth seeing, if given in a Boston theatre it would have large audiences. It will be repeated afternoon and evening this week.

ROGER PECKINPAUGH IS ONE OF THE BEST MEN FRANK CHANCE HAS FOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Roger Peckinpaugh, shortstop and field captain of the Yankees, is one of the best men Frank Chance has added to the team since he took the management. Peck is playing an excellent game in his difficult position, and he has recently been doing timely batting. He was regarded as a good player when Chance got him from Cleveland, and he has developed rapidly this season. He was the first infielder Chance found that fitted into place. He is deservedly popular with the fans, who treat him fairly when he makes the occasional slips that any player will make.

LATE WAR BULLETINS

GREAT BATTLE IN PROVINCE OF HAINAUT

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Express from Ostend says: A great battle has been in progress in the prince of Hainaut on the southern frontier of Belgium since Friday evening. French and British troops have been engaged in desperate conflicts north of Charleroi and Fleurus with Germans who crossed the Meuse at Huy.

Saturday French troops which had spread from Lille met the German right in East Flanders.

Desperate fighting between outposts took place at Oudenarde and Renaix. The losses were heavy on both sides Monday. Twenty-five thousand Germans have been surrounded between Courtrai and Anseghem, a town six miles west of Oudenarde. Fighting was progressing Sunday at Peronnes, between Mons and Pinche and between Wategem and Oudenard.

GERMANS WIN FIRST GREAT BATTLE

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The German army has won the first great battle of the great war. All along the 100-mile front of battle the allies have been driven back, not slowly and stubbornly, but so swiftly that the defeat seems so catastrophic that it might better be termed a rout.

SAW SOLDIERS SHOT DOWN BY THE DOZEN

PARIS, Aug. 25.—A traveler who has come to Paris from Charleroi was a witness of part of the fighting at that place. He has related his experiences to a reporter of the Petit Parisien as follows:

"I was at Fore, 15 miles from Erquelines. This region is covered with a thick growth of trees. From where I was stationed I could see passing for hours column after column of German infantry. They were subjected to a veritable hurricane of iron from the French artillery and they went down by the dozen.

"At Solere Le Chateau I saw a German aeroplane brought down by a well directed shot and I was told that another such machine had met the same fate at Norles."

DIFFICULT TO RESTRAIN SERVIANS FROM MEASURES OF REVENGE

PARIS, Aug. 25—1.15 p. m.—That Servia is prepared to wage a war of no quarter to her enemies is indicated in a note sent by Servia to the French government protesting against the alleged order from the headquarters of the Austrian army to burn Servian crops and to fire Servian villages all along the Austrian line of march. His note says further that in view of Austrian cruelties to Servian troops it will be very difficult to restrain the Servians from measures of revenge and that the Servian government finds itself constrained to take all measures of reprisal compatible with International law.

KING ALBERT PROMOTES GEN. BERTRAND FOR EXCELLENT CONDUCT

ANTWERP, Aug. 25—An official announcement issued today sets forth that King Albert has promoted Lieut. General Bertrand to the rank of full general, as a reward for his excellent conduct before the enemy.

500 BELGIANS ARRIVE AT NAMUR AFTER 20 DAYS OF FIGHTING AND MARCHING

LONDON, Aug. 25.—4.25 a. m.—The Antwerp correspondent of the Morning Post tells a vivid story of the adventures of 500 men of the Belgian army at Liege who arrived at Namur Saturday afternoon after 20 days of fighting and marching.

At the opening of the war their post was between the Liege forts, Chaudfontaine and Embourg.

On Wednesday night of the first week of the war, orders were given them to evacuate their position but the orders never reached this battalion, which became isolated by the Germans. The Germans were aware of their presence but did not know their strength and the Belgians, entrenching, were able to hold out eight days after the retirement of the main Belgian field force and repulsed constant German attacks. Finally when their rations ran short, they succeeded in breaking through the German lines and after many hair breadth escapes reached Hairain. Later they got to Namur.

PARIS ADMITS DEFEAT BY GERMANS—ALLIES RETIRE TO COVERING POSITIONS

PARIS Aug. 25.—The French war office says:

The French and English, the plan of attack having failed owing to unforeseen difficulties, have retired on the covering positions.

SAY GERMANS FORCED BELGIAN MINERS TO MARCH AT HEAD OF ADVANCE

PARIS, Aug. 25—9.30 a. m.—A despatch to the Havas agency from Ostend, Belgium, says that at Charleroi, the German troops obliged ten Belgian miners who had just come out of a mine with lamps in their hands to march at the head of their advance. All the miners were killed.

Similar tactics, according to the same authority, were employed at Mount Sur Marshienne in the province of Hainaut.

INHABITANTS OF FRENCH VILLAGES AIDED THE GERMAN TROOPS

PARIS, Aug. 25.—4.25 a. m.—A despatch received here from Bourgais gives the recital of a French officer, wounded in Lorraine. He relates how the Germans were aided by the local inhabitants, who had prepared for every eventuality. The officials of villages of Lorraine fell upon the necks of the French soldiers when they came into town and greeted them as saviors. No sooner had they done this than they would go to the edge of the village and hang out French flags, big white sheets, etc. to indicate to the enemy the exact position of the French soldiers. The mayor of one village taped a French field telephone wire for the benefit of the enemy, after having offered a room in his house for the installation of the station. A local schoolmaster corrected the range of the German guns by moving the hands of the church clock. At Dieuze the French were persuaded they would meet no opposition. Despite these assurances, however, they came upon concrete trenches filled with German troops and supported by quick firing guns. After they had stormed the trenches with the bayonet and were resting they heard the strains of Chopin's funeral march played by a military band in the distance. This music served as a prelude to a storm of shells from a masked battery.

AERIAL BOMBARDMENT

Zeppelin Airship Dropped Bombs in Antwerp — Several Killed — Hospital Wrecked

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The correspondent at Antwerp of the Evening News telegraphs that a Zeppelin airship which flew over Antwerp last night was brought down by Belgian artillery fire at Hemixem, six miles outside of Antwerp. The crew of 15 men were taken prisoners. This despatch evidently refers to the same airship reported earlier in the day from Antwerp as having flown over the city last night.

Another despatch from Antwerp says this Zeppelin before it was brought to earth succeeded in dropping seven or eight bombs into Antwerp. One of the houses wrecked by these missiles was situated only 300 yards from the palace of King Albert. Seven persons were killed and six seriously injured by this explosion. Some other houses were demolished by the falling bombs.

One bomb partly wrecked the hospital of Saint Elizabeth but fortunately there were no patients in the building. The explosions threw the inhabitants of Antwerp into a condition of semi-panic.

There is intense indignation in Antwerp at the attack upon the hospital which was flying the Red Cross flag.

FIREMAN KILLED

John Quinn Fell From Ladder While Fighting Fire at Methuen

METHUEN, Aug. 25.—Overcome by smoke, Fireman John Quinn, 50, was fatally injured by a fall from a ladder while fighting a tenement house fire here today. He died after being removed to a hospital. John Pollard, fireman, also fell and was injured, but is expected to recover. Both men were overcome by smoke. The house was not badly damaged.

AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—William G. Sharpe, newly appointed ambassador to France, saw Secretary Bryan today and announced his intention to sail for Paris tomorrow.

Myron T. Herrick has been holding over as ambassador at Paris at President Wilson's request during the European crisis.

EMPHASIZE ITALIAN NEUTRALITY

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The agents o fthe six Italian steamship lines with offices in New York have received notice from the Italian government not to book passage on any steamer for any person of belligerent nationality, according to announcement made today by one of their agents. The purpose of the order, it was said, was to emphasize the neutrality of Italy.

FRIENDS OF YORE NOW NO MORE

Roommates in Court, One Charged With Larceny by the Other

Mrs. Bishop Sent to Jail for a Rest—Boston Couple Arraigned

Schoolmates and friends in the good old days of long ago, Arthur Brooks and William Paquin, faced each other in police court today, the former as accuser and the latter as defendant in a larceny case.

Inspector Walsh arrested Paquin and piloted him toward Market street when his erstwhile chum, Brooks, complained of missing several articles from his room. A clarinet, razor, clock and other articles had been removed by William, so the complaint read.

In summing up the case at the conclusion of the evidence introduced it looked very bad for William even if he did contend strenuously that he was not guilty of such a wicked act.

The defendant acknowledged that he took the articles but stated emphatically that it was only a temporary loan and not a theft. Brooks, it appears, took pity on his old friend when he found him without funds and in no fair way of procuring anything to eat and gave him shelter in his room and board in his eating house.

However, William thought that his friend could afford to use him a little better and that the loss of a clock, clarinet and razor wouldn't be much anyway. It proved to be too much, however.

When Supt. Welch turned the searchlight on Paquin's past the bright glare of the record books evidently hurt the defendant's eyes for he refused to be taken back over the route he had previously traversed. He did admit, however, that he had deserted from the army on one occasion and that he now has a wife and family of four children living in Nashua and that he doesn't support them. That was all that he cared to admit but that was sufficient. William will hear the little birdies sing from one of Sheriff Eveleth's bay windows during the next three months.

An Erring Couple

Sadie Roth and James Philips got into grave trouble on Middlesex street last night when they made the mistake of thinking that Lowell was a bad city and that they could do wicked things here without being brought to task. Sadie and James came up from Boston yesterday afternoon.

To begin with, they were drunk, very drunk. This morning the probation officer was on the point of turning them loose when Supt. Welch stepped into the arena and began to ask questions. The third degree proved too much for the pair and the truth burst forth.

Sadie at first stated that she was married to Jimmy but later confessed to a hubby and child in Beantown. James, in a moment of abstraction, murmured that his wife resided in Greece. The curtain then arose on the second act—a tragedy for James and Sadie.

The pair were arraigned this morning on a statutory charge and held over for trial until tomorrow. No one appeared to bail them out.

But here is the funny part of the case: Philips came to Lowell, leading a blind compatriot. When the pair were yanked by the cops last night, the blind man was left locked in his room. Finally the woman realized his predicament and made the fact of his imprisonment known and a trusty friend hastily hustled to his rescue. The blind man is in a fine predicament with his guide under lock and key.

Mrs. Bishop Sent to Jail

Annie Bishop, the woman who was charged with carrying a concealed weapon, later released on probation and who then attempted to end her life by leaping into the canal, was brought to the police station again this morning on a capias. The change in the appearance of the woman from that of yesterday was remarkable.

Bedraggled, hatless and looking years older, the unfortunate woman sobbed quietly on the bench while her case was being discussed by Lawyer Donahue and the court. While the sympathy of everyone in the courtroom was deeply touched by the sad case, both judge and attorney were of the opinion that the woman would undoubtedly commit suicide were she released today. She was led from the court room in a half frantic condition when Judge Enright ordered her sent up to jail for three months.

If the Bishop woman's case was sad, that of Charles Roberts' was just the reverse. Charles was about the best comedian that has stepped into the local court in a long time.

Was Charles guilty of being drunk? Well, I guess not. Huh, Officer Leighton must have had a very nasty dream. Yes, he was arrested all right, Judge, but what was that? That didn't mean that he was drunk because the cop might have made a mistake. Such was the text of the quiet little talk given the court by Sir Charles.

"Why, Judge," shrilled the little old man as Deputy Downey took the witness stand, "he called me 'Dingbat.' Isn't that horrible? I might be drunk sometimes, but I am not a Dingbat." It was several minutes before the court officers could restore the decorum of the court-room.

Charles allows that his home is in Alfred Bay, although it has been a long time since he has seen the place. He promised faithfully, as he fondly stroked the few locks remaining on the top of his head, that he would shake the dust of Lowell from his boots at once and kick out for Alfred Bay. He didn't know where Alfred Bay was, but he knew it wasn't anywhere near Baffin bay.

Stanislaw Mazoule and Wladyslaw Petot got into a wrangle yesterday and bled back to primitive methods. Officer Canley happened along while the pair were busily engaged in swapping haymakers and collared them both. They were charged with drunkenness this morning and each one forked over a V as his penalty for the muss.

Another of the inmates of the Tewksbury infirmary was silly and tried to get back into the institution after absconding therefrom. John D. Nicolson readily pleaded guilty and was awarded the usual state farm appointment.

There were several other complaints of various nature heard and dealt with by Judge Enright this morning but none of them was of any special interest or significance.

EXPLOITING BLIND MAN

Peculiar Case in Court—Man Arrested Had Been Using Blind Man to Get Money

An unusual aftermath came about as the result of an investigation into the history of James Philips, who appeared in police court this morning. The blind companion of Philips and another young Greek from Boston told the police an amazing story.

Philips, it appears, is a cousin of the blind man who has been totally blind for the past six months. The scheme which Philips has worked thus far with his blind cousin has been very simple and has also proved very lucrative.

The blind man would be led into a town by Philips where the Greek population was large and then paraded before the eyes of his countrymen as an object of pity. Alms of all descriptions were forthcoming as a rule and then the pair jumped for the next city which contained enough of their countrymen to hold out a prospect of good pickings.

Such is the story told by Philips' companions through Interpreter Harry Demaris. Philips himself tried to lay the blame of everything upon the blind man.

This morning Mr. Demaris informed Supt. Welch that he thought he saw signs of trachoma, a contagious eye disease, upon the blind man and Dr. John Donovan was called in to examine the man. The physician gave it out as his opinion that the man was suffering from trachoma and should be removed to the Tewksbury hospital at once.

The blind man gave his name to the police as Peter Drivas of 347 33d street, New York City. When asked about the loss of his eyesight the unfortunate man said that he had suffered with pains about his eyes for years before completely losing his sight. He will be kept at the Tewksbury hospital until the New York authorities can be notified and some permanent arrangement made for his isolation from everyone.

ECONOMY OF CLEAN MILK

That the Massachusetts milk situation is by no means unique is proved by a review in the Providence Tribune which runs over some considerations that are deserving of study both by milk producers and consumers. Throughout this entire section the need for clean and wholesome milk has been borne in on the people consistently and persistently for years and if any of our people have shown a tendency to forget they have been reminded of the importance of the subject by the many legislative laws of recent seasons—laws which too often aroused opposition and engendered confusion without remedying any condition permanently.

The Tribune reminds its readers that the past indifference of many people concerning milk has proved very expensive to the community while the agitation for clean milk, though it may have resulted in a higher first cost, has engendered economy in its widest sense. Milk that is unclean and unsanitary may cause a great loss in money and health while clean milk is not apt to cost any more than the amount one pays the milkman. As the Tribune remarks: "A higher price for clean milk will be cheap insurance against some form of sickness."

In a recent Farmers' Bulletin, the federal Department of Agriculture laid down some simple points that are necessary in the production of clean and healthy milk. Cows must be clean and healthy and kept in clean, well-ventilated buildings; stables must be cleaned frequently, barnyards must be drained adequately and all utensils used in milking and storing must be thoroughly sterilized; those who handle the milk in all stages must be healthy; small-top milking pails must be used; milk must be kept in separate building. The matter of temperature is also most important. Bacteria multiply rapidly when the milk is above 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and therefore the milk should be cooled immediately after milking and kept at a low temperature until delivered.

It is fortunate for Massachusetts that many of these recommendations of the government department have been incorporated into state statutes, but still, laws are never so effective in achieving ends as intelligent co-operation. When milk producers realize that the public demands clean and sanitary milk and when on the other hand the public realizes that the best way to secure it is by patronizing the producer who is modern and progressive we will have good milk invariably and there will not be need for the disappointing and often conflicting state laws that do not achieve their ends.

From the farmers' point of view the most serious element in the milk situation is the increasing cost of production which soars in relation to the public demand and the legislative demand for higher quality. Labor problems have increased the financial burden of the farmer and the cost of feed has become somewhat of a hardship. He is not, therefore, always in the best attitude when the state and the federal government make their demands, but he can better conditions by educating the public to realities. Clean milk is the cheapest milk in the long run and when the public becomes cognizant of realities, most people will be ready to pay a little more rather than run any risks of disease. Just as clean milk is by far the cheaper so dirty milk is dear at any price.

BUSINESS IMPROVING

So far as one may judge from the signs of general industry and from the public announcements of some of the leading financiers and manufacturers of the country, American business is already showing marked improvement and some of the prosperity so generally predicted is throwing its shadows before. Since the war broke out the stagnation of world commerce has resulted in a partial paralysis of business here, but international trade is being restored as much as one may expect; as a result the demand for American commodities is increasing. Henry Clews predicts probable freedom of traffic across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean, two routes which, he says, capture most of the international trade of the world.

The restricted passenger traffic, though a source of anxiety and serious inconvenience, has had little to do with general trade conditions in this country but the affected freight service has had serious results. Now, the first effects are wearing off and the most serious obstacles are being removed. Since the passing of the emergency bill, many ships have been chartered for the American merchant marine service, and the government stands ready to provide trade facilities in case of necessity.

There are two main reasons why American commodities will soon command a ready market in many points of the earth; other nations cannot get along without our supplies and they cannot get them elsewhere. There is a strong demand for American wheat and American cotton in Europe, and England is showing readiness to conquer war obstacles in supplying her necessities with our natural and artificial products. Germany will not be able to secure American goods whether raw or manufactured, but England controls the sea so far and she cannot last long without supplying her needs from this side of the Atlantic. Even the pressing need for war materials will turn a great deal of trade here if the war is prolonged, because the former sources of supply are choked off.

With the question of an adequate merchant marine service many other foreign points will depend on America for the foods and manufactured products which were supplied by Germany, England and France heretofore. Even should the war come to an end in a short time it will be long before trade conditions become normal and the damage to European commerce promises to be serious and to some degree permanent. This country has not yet fully felt the industrial stimulus which is so generally expected, but it is difficult to argue away the views of those who see a great boom for America in the unfortunate world conditions of the present time.

THE PARK QUESTION

Hoodlumism in parks such as Lowell has had reason to complain of at times during the present season seems to be quite prevalent in many other points, judging from the example of Boston, Lynn, Brockton, Worcester, etc. In all of these places, sundry abuses have drawn out some degree of public protest, and reports from many sections indicate that Lowell is by no means the worst sufferer. Luckily, the increased vigilance of the park department has had beneficial results and if the recently-framed regulations are insisted on by the park and police officials, we may hope for permanent benefits.

A correspondent to the Worcester Telegram recently made references to conditions in that city that are very pertinent in Lowell. Following is an excerpt:

"It has been my pleasure in the past to visit this park frequently, and have always found the conditions there ideal for a restful hour. Today, however, due to the withdrawal of the caretaker by order of the park commissioners, all this has changed. Dums and rowdies infest the park, making it a rendezvous for drinking bouts, fights and brawls, and by their disgusting actions and language have driven away the mothers and children who frequent the park. Situated as it is in the midst of a crowded tenement district, Crompton park has in the past been a haven to mothers of the neighborhood, to which they could send their children to play and rest safe from the many accidents and dangers of the streets."

Treating the same subject editorially the Brockton Enterprise asks some pointed questions that reveal the very illogical conduct of park thugs in its true light. It says:

"These park thugs are not people of wealth. The people who habitually visit parks are not wealthy. Why, then, should men and boys of poor families seek to make breathing places impossible for women and children of their own rank in life? Why should they make it hard for their own mothers, sisters, aunts, and in a few instances sweethearts, to get a little pure air and clean and healthful enjoyment out of life? Why do they want to put everything and everybody down to their own dead level of wretchedness and comparative misery?"

When authorities in so many different sections comment unfavorably on this modern tendency, it is time for wise people to pause and ask if the greater liberty of the present is not responsible for the greater license? Boys and young men have always been fun-loving and to a certain extent mischievous but they did not display their evil characteristics as brazenly and as persistently as they do today in those centers where the privilege of public parks has been so much abused.

TRUST FUND REVELATIONS

Commissioner Carmichael does the honorable thing in declaring that the municipal council as a whole is just as much responsible for the unwise juggling of the library and Edson cemetery trust funds as is any member, and the apparent desire of a few members of that body to deny connection with it, is proof sufficient of the unsoundness of the transaction. The citizens of Lowell are very much interested in the fiasco, not necessarily because they feel that there was any dishonesty intended but because the explanations that followed its collapse were far from convincing. The scheme was favored on condition that it was legal. It was proved otherwise and had to be abandoned.

The European war has curiously affected some peoples that are not directly interested in the struggle, and in very different ways. Contrast, for instance, the effect on Belgium and Poland respectively. Belgium has been converted from a peaceful, prosperous and happy country to an enormous battlefield; Poland has been promised, and seems to be realizing much of the liberty for which she has fought tenaciously through weary years. In like manner scarcely a nation or state in Europe but will be affected by the struggle—for better or worse.

SEEN AND HEARD

WHERE PILGRIMS LANDED

My friend, the doctor, is very much in love with Provincetown and when I told him that during my vacation I had visited the first landing place of the pilgrims, he was very anxious to ascertain what I thought of that quaint old town. The doctor, however, was generous enough to keep on telling of his own impressions of the place and they were so much more interesting than my own that I continued to listen, nodding my acquiescence at selected intervals. The doctor drew a beautiful word picture of the Ever old fishing town at the extreme end of Cape Cod. He told of living there in a rusty little cottage for weeks at a time subsisting on fish that he himself assisted in catching. He told of the beautiful effect of the moon and stars upon the water; how they showed the way across in silvery streams, and then he launched out on a fishing story. It was a simple story, but the doctor is a splendid embellisher and he made a very pretty yarn of it. He fished at close and break of day and told of the phosphorescent gleam of the nets in the rays of the early morning sun. Yes, indeed, the doctor fairly worships at the shrine of Provincetown and when I had the temerity to mention that I enjoyed the automobile ride "about town" his face took on a sad expression. "Yes," he said, "the town is becoming sophisticated and that will eventually spoil the real beauty of it."

I have no quarrel with the doctor as to his great love for Provincetown and I think that the sail from Boston is simply beautiful. I cannot imagine a finer sail. Fifty miles each way and points of interest everywhere. But the doctor can have the whole of Provincetown for all of me. I would not take the silver hammer from the plush case, but no Provincetown, as steady diet for yours truly. The streets are too narrow and the houses too squatty and, besides, its too far from any place where things are doing. The doctor will tell you that the harbor is a good one, that the boating and fishing facilities are unexcelled, especially deep-sea fishing, and that is all very true. He will also tell you that the chances for recuperating one's health by a sojourn in this quaint old place are so sure, that hundreds upon hundreds who are ailing or really upon the sick list, try it and very frequently repeat it, to great advantage. This also is true, yet I cannot share the doctor's love for Provincetown. The sail on the bay from Boston gives one rest, exhilaration and new life and the magnetic influence of the ocean has a revitalizing influence, but Provincetown as a vacation hangout, to me, is absurd.

But when you mention Plymouth, the land of the Mayflower, I'm there with the boost. There is much to see, so much to admire and so much to study during the hours allowed the tourists who take the trip on the steamer, that every minute of the stay is precious. I labored under the impression that Plymouth was a little country village with its wealth of historic features as its only attraction, and was surprised to find a thriving town of from 15,000 to 17,000, with prosperous manufacturing industries. The cordage works at North Plymouth are the largest in the world. Then there are woolen and worsted mills, nail and tack factories, iron foundries and other industries too numerous to mention. Cranberry culture is on an extensive scale, and there are five or six hundred acres of bog annually yielding a crop valued at a half million. These manufactories have replaced the town's former chief industry—fishing, which flourished 50 years ago, when Plymouth boasted of a fleet of fishermen that was unequalled anywhere in the United States. To the tourist Plymouth rock is, of course, the most interesting sight. The rock is in the same position now as in 1620 except that it has been raised about eight feet. It is carefully guarded to prevent unscrupulous relic-hunters from chipping pieces. Then there is Cole's hill, the first burying ground of the Pilgrims, and then Town square, historically interesting, as it was here that part of Plymouth rock rested for nearly 60 years before being taken back to its first site. The Gov. Bradford building marks the site of the first meeting house built in 1638, and the home of Gov. Bradford. Then there is Pilgrim hall, the Myles Standish monument, the William Harlow house, built in 1677, the court house, the Standish house, site of watch tower and various other places of great historic value. If you have time to go but either place, Plymouth or Provincetown, go to Plymouth. That's a straight tip free of charge.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Slowly but surely the German lines were driving the allied forces back across the border. A brilliant charge made by the Uhlans had crumpled an entire battalion of French troops and the German artillery held the British infantry at bay. In the distance a military aeroplane was dropping bombs into the trenches occupied by sharpshooters. The conflict waged for nearly an hour.

An aide-de-camp rode out from the German field headquarters and addressed the general in command:

"The boss says that will be enough for today," announced the aide-de-camp. "Put the cameras in his auto and take them over to Hackensack. And tell the boys to all be here at 8 in the morning. We're going to start the siege of Liege film."

Do you remember the old-fashioned burlesque show that always closed with a "grand walk around" in which every member of the company took part?

A woman blames living expenses on what her husband eats. A man blames it on what his wife wears.

Lots of good people who wouldn't think of touching liquor think nothing of going on a gossip jag.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who wasn't ashamed to wear a big broad gold band that everybody knew was a wedding ring?

If a man invents something that makes the impossible possible and performs miracles, a woman never hears of it for six months. But if some one invents a new way to do up the hair a woman learns all about it the day after it is invented.

Love is what makes a sane man marry a girl who wears a red hat, a purple waist, a green skirt trimmed with yellow, a blue sash and brown stockings, and let her purchase his necktles.

And the high cost of living wasn't so blamed high when a boy would be on his good behavior for six months to get a pair of red-topped boots.

THE NEW LOCHINVAR

O, a new Lochinvar has appeared on the scene,
His steed a wild cycle that drinks gasoline;
He cares not for citizen nor for police,
And a voice calling "Halt!" simply bids him increase
The speed of his racer, the best of its kind,
Till the fast-flying bullets fall lagging behind.

Beware, O ye fathers of maidens, beware,
For this young Lochinvar is as bold as she's fair;
It will not avail that she ride not a wheel,
Love has new devices for him who would steal,
And the maid, though you think not, will go just as far
As the romantic bride of the first Lochinvar.

This dashing young lover will ride to your home
When the hot summer day is beginning to gloam;
He'll swing the fair maiden behind on his wheel,
And away to the parson's for woe or for weal.
You may pull up a mountain or drag down a star,
But you'll ne'er catch the maid and her young Lochinvar.

GOV. GLYNN'S CHANCES

Gov. Glynn of New York will be a candidate for the democratic nomination, to which he professed indifference a short time ago. He will have no particular trouble in obtaining it. The governor has some things in his favor and there are others which will operate against him. But unless the anti-democratic elements are essentially united on election day his chances of election for a full term will be good.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

JAPAN GOES TO WAR

The occasion of Japan's war on Germany is her British alliance. Its moving spirit is revenge for Germany's ousting her from the Liaotung peninsula in 1895. Its unavowed purpose and probable effect is trade and military advantage.

Americans are not called upon to idealize a campaign so void of any excuse of self-defense. The onslaught of the Japanese in overwhelming force upon an enemy's outpost will win no such praise as the heroic stand of the Belgians for their own homes; it simply shows how the flames of war, once lighted run round the world.—New York World.

SMALL LOCAL NEWS

How small an automobile accident looks and how inconsequential our local politics. This explains why the newspapers have so little except the war. To its scale everything else has been adjusted.—Boston Herald.

FAIR PAPERS

From the exchanges that come to our desk it appears that outside of Manhattan there are many papers which are eminently fair in the present struggle. We advise our readers to patronize no paper that insults their intelligence and their race. We strongly advise them to rally around papers like the Milwaukee Free Press, which is making itself the champion of their cause. The Brooklyn Eagle, one St. Louis, one Albany and one Philadelphia paper likewise deserve special mention in our roll of honor. Space forbids to enumerate all in this issue. We shall, however, add from time to time to the list.—The Fatherland.

NEW BEDFORD'S TAX

The contention that the removal of the $12 tax limit and the restrictions on the purposes for which cities may incur indebtedness are responsible for the increase of $3 per $1000 in New Bedford's tax rate is not borne out by the analysis made by the city treasurer.

The fact is that the increase was caused, in about equal proportions, by the increase in appropriations for running expenses, and by the increase in the debt requirements. The increase due to the state tax is 11 cents, that due to the city tax, $1.50 and that due to the city debt requirements $3.60, the increase on the three items being $3.21 per $1000. The reductions in the county, grade crossing and overlay requirements amount to 21 cents, leaving the net increase in the rate just $3.—New Bedford Standard.

HENRY IN THE HOLE

PARK COMMISSIONER CARR SHY $137.50 ON HIS PLAYGROUND CAMPAIGN—PLEDGES NOT PAID

Park Commissioner Henry F. Carr would like to have those contributors who have not made good their promises to his playground fund, to ante up. Henry is $137.50 to the bad, but he says that if he had all the money promised him he would have a balance on the right side of the ledger.

Mr. Carr has issued the following statement:

"Early in the year I endeavored to raise a fund for the summer playgrounds, doing considerable advertising and giving a few concerts and entertainments at some little expense.

"I started in circulation papers asking for funds, and would have met with fair success, had those, who subscribed, paid the amount to which they agreed.

"Possibly, many who pledged themselves to me, contributed to the Salem sufferers and consequently found themselves unable to give anything towards the playground fund.

"Notwithstanding the reverses with which I have met in this very worthy cause, I have placed one teacher on the North common and one on the South common during the summer.

"I hope and trust that those, who pledged themselves to the playground fund, will submit their cheque, that I may be able to settle up the outstanding indebtedness.

"Very truly yours,
"Henry F. Carr."
Park Commissioner.

The outstanding bills contracted by Mr. Carr total $350, and he has on deposit in the Lowell Trust Co. the sum of $91. There was received from concerts on the streets $66.50, while other subscriptions totalled $55. This makes a total of $212.50 with which to pay off $350 indebtedness.

J. Wesley Tilly of (Box 623.) Selma, Cal., writes:

Gentlemen:—"It gives me much pleasure to be able to send you a testimonial, if by its reaching some sufferer your medicines will do as much for him as they have for me. At the age of fourteen I was troubled a great deal with malaria and biliousness, accompanied with the worst sort of large boils. I was persuaded by my parents, who have always been strong believers in Dr. Pierce's remedies, to try the Golden Medical Discovery. I took one bottle and the boils all disappeared, but I did not stop at one bottle, I took three and the malaria all left me and I have had no more boils to this day, thanks to the 'Golden Medical Discovery' for my relief.

"Following an operation for appendicitis two years ago I was troubled very much with constipation and I have been trying Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets and they have rid me of the troublesome gas and have aided me in conquering the whole trouble; thanks again for the 'Pellets' and for the advice I have obtained from The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." U. S. BUNTING COMPANY WITHDRAWS ITS BID

Early this year the navy department at Washington asked for bids on bunting for the manufacture of United States flags and the lowest bids were made by foreign manufacturers, and it was believed that the contracts would be awarded them. Immediately a storm of protest was raised throughout the country against such a proceeding, and a resolution was introduced by John J. Gilbride, a young democratic representative from ward 4 in the Massachusetts legislature and passed by a roll call vote as being unwarranted, unpatriotic and improper. The next lowest bidders were the United States Bunting company, and the New England Bunting company, both of this city. The contract, however, was not awarded to them by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, but held up for the reason that the two concerns are alleged not to be two separate organizations. The United States Bunting company, then made a public statement to the effect that there was absolutely no collusion between the two companies, and that they did not know or seek to know the New England Bunting company's figures, also that it was a fact that their figures were higher than the English bid, due to the great difference in wages. Since that statement made last June, no further action has been taken, and last week, the United States Bunting company withdrew its bid, and the reason given was that prices had advanced recently from 5 to 7 per cent. which led to this decision.

TRIBUTE TO LATE POPE

Delivered by Mgr. Supple at Pontifical Mass Yesterday — Many Priests Attended

All of the local Catholic pastors and most of the curates attended the pontifical mass for the pope at the cathedral in Boston yesterday. There was a very large attendance of clergy and laity.

The mass began at 10 o'clock, and just before that hour a long line of priests marched slowly from the vestry, moving through the chapel of the blessed sacrament into the main auditorium. Following them came the monsignori, who took their places in the sanctuary, and last came the clergy who were to assist at the service.

Bishop Anderson was assisted by the Rev. Philip J. O'Donnell, pastor of St. James' church, as assistant priest; Mgr. John B. Peterson, president of St. John's Seminary, Brighton, as deacon, and the Rev. William H. Finigan of the Cathedral as master of ceremonies.

Absolution was pronounced by the Rev. Arthur J. Teeling of Lynn, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Denis J. O'Farrell of Roxbury, the Rt. Rev. Edward J. Moriarty of Jamaica Plain and the Rt. Rev. Mgr. George J. Patterson of South Boston.

In his eulogy "The Pope of the People," Mgr. Supple delivered a very eloquent discourse taking for his text:

"His remembrance shall be sweet as honey in every mouth. He directed his heart toward the Lord and in the days of sinners he strengthened Godliness." Ecclesiasticus xlix. 2-4.

He said in part: "A great pontiff is gone. A saintly life is come to an end. Surrounded during life by the love of the peoples of the earth for the gracious personality which stamped and gave character to his whole career, in death Pius X is encircled with the sorrowing tributes and grateful remembrance of the nations of the world.

Pope Loved America

"We are participants in a special way in this universal mourning. Pius X. loved America and her free institutions. He was an ardent admirer of her well-ordered liberty. He loved to dwell upon the vision of her hospitable shores receiving all the peoples of the earth. He looked upon her as the land of the promise. He never tired of praising her for the freedom of opportunity which the church enjoyed to carry out her salutary mission. He was America's sincere friend and well wisher. He gloried in prophecying the reign of religion and law within her borders. Speaking of the historic occasion of the conferring of the cardinal's beretta on our own beloved cardinal archbishop, he did not hesitate to apply to America the word of the prophet Isaiah, "but the Lord shall arise upon thee and His glory shall be seen upon thee."

Special Debt of Gratitude

"But Boston owes to the dead pontiff a very special debt of gratitude and her tribute to his memory should be one of particular regard and affection. He loved the see of Boston and its beloved cardinal-archbishop.

"Two great-hearted men met for the first time about one year after Pius X. had occupied the throne of the Fisherman. Both were men of wide outlook and broad vision. Both were ardent champions of the church's cause. Both were types of robust and virile mould. Both faced situations with undaunted courage and sublime confidence. This likeness of character brought them at once into sympathy with each other and each conceived a wonderful liking for the other.

"When the following year the holy see determined to send an embassy to the imperial court of Japan, Pius X., breaking with all precedents, selected an American in the person of our present illustrious cardinal-archbishop, then bishop of Portland, as his special envoy. On his return from a great diplomatic triumph the Holy Father promoted him to be the coadjutor archbishop of this see, to which he succeeded as archbishop shortly afterward.

"The confidence of Pius X. in the new spiritual chief of Boston made him particularly interested in everything that was being done for the progress of the church. He took a keen interest in following the great movements of organization of which we have been the witnesses. When the time came to create new cardinals, impelled by his admiration of the steady progress of the church among us, but more because of his special affection for our beloved archbishop and his appreciation of his signal ability, by an act of his supreme power he conferred historic importance upon this see by raising it to a footing of equality with the great metropolitan and cardinitial bishoprics of Christendom.

"He was of the people and was preeminently the pope of the people. He was well prepared for his mission. He lived among the people all his life as a priest and bishop and his great heart went out to them to help them in all their wants.

"The faith of Pius X. will ever remain an example to the world. It was simple, sincere and strong. He stood firmly on the divine foundation of revealed truth. The word of God was to him sacred and inviolable and the traditional teaching of the church the providential bulwark of the faith. Novelty in doctrine is always heresy and modernism in religion is a pretence and human conceit without warrant of adequate foundation. His rich and fruitful life bears ample testimony to the depth and sincerity of his faith. Gracious by nature he was like a wall of adamant when there was question of tampering with the divine deposit of truth. The school of modernists who sought to introduce new rules of interpretation of the holy scriptures and of the dogmas of the faith which would divest them of their supernatural character found in him an invincible foe. The honest soul of Pius X. saw through all their devices. His insight was too keen to be deceived. He saw clearly that these men were attempting to substitute human inventions for the divine landmarks of religion, and standing on his throne of power with one blow he killed modernism in religion forever. He has become the benefactor of the human race by this defence of its most precious heritage and will be known to all posterity as the strong defender of the faith.

"What was the secret of his strength and character? He has himself told us in the deeds of his pontificate. Foremost among the titles which posterity will bestow on him is the Pope of the Blessed Sacrament. In this centre and source of spiritual strength and holiness Pius X. found the food that nourished his great soul and made him magnanimous, gracious and strong. So convinced was he of this that he sought in every way to extend this blessing among the people. His regulations concerning frequent and daily communion, his relaxing of the law of fasting in the case of the sick who wished to receive the Holy Eucharist, his law enjoining the giving of Holy Communion to children once they have reached the years of discretion, his approval and support of the great Eucharistic congresses—all these things plainly indicate his mind and point to his great solicitude that the faithful should be encouraged to eat frequently of the Bread of Life, in which he himself found his fortitude and consolation.

"And now the great heart that ever beat for the people's welfare and for the peace of nations is stilled. The man of peace unable to bear the sight of fraternal slaughter has gone to his reward. Long shall his memory live among the people. No one who has had the privilege of meeting him can ever forget the gracious amiability of that presence."

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE

DANIEL O'DEA WAS THE JOHNNIE ON THE SPOT THAT PUT OUT THE BLAZE

Although he is not a full fledged fireman and has no intentions of becoming one, Daniel O'Dea, an employe of the Lowell Automobile Co. in Appleton street, played the part of a fireman last night and extinguished a fire in a bed at the lodging house of G. W. Sheridan, 66 Appleton street. Shortly after 10 o'clock last night a fire was discovered in a bed in a house. An alarm from box 28 was sounded, but before the fire fighters reached the building, O'Dea armed with an extinguisher rushed to the house and put the blaze out. The damage was small.

OUGHT TO RESTRAIN JAPS

LONDON DAILY NEWS SAYS BRITISH GOVERNMENT SHOULD KEEP IT WITHIN STRICT LIMITS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Daily News, commenting yesterday on Japan's declaration of war against Germany says:

"The immediate gravity of Japan's entrance into the war is its moral effect on American public opinion. Assuming that Japanese action is not limited according to her pledges, no sensible American will hold England to blame for an event she is quite powerless to prevent. The British government ought to use its influence to restrain within strict limits the forward policy of Japan."

NEW HAMPSHIRE WOMAN

COMMITTED SUICIDE IN PHILADELPHIA WHERE SHE HAD BEEN UNDER TREATMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—Eluding her maid, Miss Martha S. Tash, aged 45, of Dover, N. H., committed suicide here yesterday by jumping from a window of her apartment on the 14th floor of a hotel at which she had been a guest since last Friday.

Miss Tash had been in ill-health and was at one time a patient in a sanitarium in West Newton, Mass. The maid said she had been traveling with Miss Tash, who was wealthy, for the past four years.

The suicide left a rambling note, from which it was gathered that her maid was about to leave her and get married and that sooner than return to the sanitarium she had determined to end her life.

INFLUX OF CANADIANS

Many Coming to Lowell on Account of Business Depression and General Draft for Soldiers

Business is at such a standstill in Canada that many residents of the Dominion are leaving their homes and are coming to the states, where they hope they will be able to earn a dollar or two. Many families are settling in the state of Maine, where the men secure employment on farms, while several are coming to Lowell and other textile centres of the commonwealth.

At the railroad station in this city it is reported that for the past two weeks an average of about 50 families have come to Lowell each day and even this morning between fifty and sixty families alighted from the northern train.

It seems also that it was rumored in some of the country towns of the Dominion that soon a general draft will be made throughout Canada for soldiers to be sent across and this has been the cause of many able-bodied men coming to the states. A large number of them have stopped in the state of Maine, where they easily secure employment on farms but many others who have had some experience in cotton mills are coming as far as this city.

Among the many who alighted from the Montreal train this morning was a party of Greeks, who have just come across from Greece. The party was composed of a woman with five children, and six men. They remained in Lowell just long enough to board a train for Haverhill, where they will endeavor to secure work and make their home. It is reported that very few Lowellites are leaving for Canada with the exception of the usual number of tourists.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

Fred Lake has one sweet ball player in Chet Sweatt. The Manchester second baseman is the real goods in every line. When his bat meets the ball the sphere travels like a rifle bullet no matter in what direction it may move. His three base hit yesterday, nevertheless, was accounted for by the way in which the Lowell outfielders played. Sweatt is a left field hitter as a rule and Swayne was playing well over toward Stimpson when the ball sped into right center.

Have the Braves cracked at last? That is the query which is being made on all sides today. Their 9-5 defeat at the hands of the Cubs yesterday, however, is no sign that they have weakened. Tyler and Rudolph were handled rather roughly by the Chicago batsmen.

If the Athletics could only lose a few games perhaps the Red Sox could squeeze up and make a contest in the American league. In spite of the fact that Carrigan's men piled up a win over Cleveland yesterday Connie Mack picked up another half game advantage by whipping St. Louis in both games.

Napoleon Lajoie, once the peer of all batters and lately relegated to the bench on account of his weak hitting, broke into the Naps lineup yesterday afternoon. Four hits, two singles, a double and a triple was Lajoie's contribution. It looks as though the old man was still good for a few more meal tickets on the road.

There was nothing to the first game when Reed faced Jimmy Ring and James proceeded to wet the pill. The day before the Manchester right fielder swung futilely at Ring's spitter and it was good judgment to send Jimmy in to pitch against him yesterday.

Joe Woodman has received several good offers for Sam Langford's services across the pond but Sambo can't see that game at all. He would rather take on what he can get in this country, he says, until this war is over. If Langford beats Kid Cotton decisively tonight he expects to take a trip south again.

Clyde Engle, who was released by President Lannin last night, has long been slated to go but his adaptability to any field position has kept him with the club. Engle and Yerkes had both outgrown their usefulness to the Red Sox club and their release was looked for long before it came.

Over $20,000 has been hung up in the purses of the three days' grand circuit meeting of the Niagara Racing Association, in Buffalo. The meeting promises to be one of the best held thus far this season and opened this afternoon.

The defeat which Lawrence suffered at the hands of the Haverhill club yesterday does not look as though there is any collusion between the two teams on the diamond. Lewiston won from Worcester so the difference between Pieper and Burkett remains unchanged.

ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

NO CHANCE OF ANYONE MAKING THE ENGLISH CHANNEL NOW—LETTER FROM WEIDMAN

If there are any people in Lowell who weren't satisfied with the explanation offered recently as to why Henry Sullivan, of this city returned to this country without attempting to swim the English channel, their doubts may now be set at rest by a letter received this morning by Mr. T. B. Sullivan, father of the swimmer, from Jack Weidman, of Dover, Eng., the English swimming trainer who looked after Henry's interests while he was across the pond. Mr. Weidman writes as follows:

Dover, Eng., Aug. 10, 1914.

Dear Mr. Sullivan:

Just a few lines to let you know that Henry left here for Liverpool on the 7th. He may go back by way of Canada. It will be some time before he reaches home. Then he will explain all to you.

The Germans have gone mad. When we have done with them there will not be many of them to nurse. I knew that this was coming but I did not think it would be in our time. Anyhow we must make the best of it. I have put my name down for service as sailor. None knows how it will all end. I am sorry that Henry did not have a chance to swim the channel. All traffic is stopped in the channel which is full of mines and it is not even a fit place for a fish to live in. With best regards,

Jack Weidman."

Henry Sullivan, as was announced in The Sun, arrived safely in Montreal and is at present visiting friends in Amherst, N. S.

HE FAVORS ANNEXATION

Dracut Man Gives Reasons Why He Wants Relief From High Taxes

A resident of Dracut who is also a tax payer there, in conversation with a Sun representative today said: "The time has come when the town of Dracut will have to do something to improve conditions for the taxpayers in the line of fire protection, roads and schools or else advocate annexation to Lowell. The people are paying higher taxes today in Dracut than are the residents of Lowell and getting little or nothing in return.

"The farmers as well as others who pay taxes merely upon their little homes are tired of the high taxes, high insurance and other charges such as paying for their children at the high or industrial school in Lowell.

"I am strongly in favor of annexation to Lowell for a great many reasons because, if citizens have to pay high taxes then they will get something for their money.

"Yes sir, you can put me down as in favor of annexing a large part of Dracut to the city of Lowell just as soon as that can be accomplished," said the Dracut man.

Mr. James McManmon, the florist, favors the annexation of at least that portion of Dracut along the river where he lives in order that fire and police protection may be had as well as the other privileges going with citizenship in Lowell.

YOUNG BRIDE ARRESTED

GIRL OF 16 ELOPED WITH YOUNG MAN OF 23—CHARGED WITH BEING A STUBBORN CHILD

REVERE, Aug. 25.—Instead of being forgiven and receiving the parental blessings, Mrs. John D. Miller, aged 16, who was Beatrice Foster of 186 Bellingham avenue, prior to her elopement to Haverhill on Wednesday last with Miller, was arrested last night on complaint of her father, Ezekial Foster, who accused her of being a stubborn and disobedient child.

The bride was spared the humiliation of sleeping in a cell by Lieut. William E. Tappen of the local police force, who arrested her. Her husband did not have cash enough to bail her out, so the lieutenant put up $25 of his own money and the girl was released from custody pending her arraignment in the municipal court at Chelsea tomorrow morning.

Miller is 23 years old and has been employed as a clerk by a Boston hardware concern for some time. He has been very attentive to Beatrice. The Fosters were opposed to him and did everything possible to keep the two apart, it is said. For a time it was thought that this had been accomplished, but when Beatrice disappeared suddenly on Wednesday her father immediately suspected that she had eloped with Miller. He secured the warrant on that day and, acting on his information, Lieut. Tappen went to Haverhill, but could not find the couple, although he learned they had been there. There was no record of their marriage. Lieut. Tappen was in Haverhill again yesterday and hurried to Boston when he heard that the couple were in that city. He located them at the home of the bride's parents, where the couple were explaining.

The young bride wept when her father told Lieut. Tappen to arrest her, but the parent would not relent.

After Mrs. Miller had been bailed last evening her young husband took her to the home of his parents at 903 Winthrop avenue.

MURDER AND SUICIDE

POLICE INVESTIGATING MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY IN THE PASHOIAN HOME, WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Aug. 25.—An investigation made by the police yesterday of the mysterious tragedy at 92 Bloomingdale road Sunday night, when Kashadoor Tishjian, also known as Kashadoor Balasalia, aged 26, and Mrs. Asnif Pashoian, wife of Charles Pashoian, aged 26, were killed, leads the officials to the conclusion that it was a case of murder and suicide, with Tishjian as the slayer of the woman and himself.

Mrs. Tishjian and other relatives of the victims declare that Tishjian undoubtedly committed the crime during a fit of insanity. They say that he had been acting queerly of late, owing to a long period of ill-health, and that he had threatened to kill himself. He procured a revolver some time ago, but Mrs. Tishjian succeeded in getting it from him and concealing it. He found the weapon last week and took it to an armorer to have some repairs made, the police learned today.

During his fits of melancholy, relatives of Tishjian say, he had to be restrained by force from doing harm to other members of the family. Yesterday afternoon, there were guests at the Pashoian home and when they started for home in the early evening, Mrs. Pashoian and Mr. and Mrs. Tishjian went to the trolley car with them. When they returned to the Pashoian home, there were only two chairs on the piazza and Mrs. Tishjian went into the house to get a third. While she was inside the shooting took place and the police believe that Tishjian attempted to shoot himself in the presence of Mrs. Pashoian, who was his aunt by marriage, and that in her efforts to restrain him, he shot her and then turned the revolver on himself.

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25.—When the democratic, republican and progressive state platform conventions assembled here today, only the progressives were prepared without an internal fight to take a stand favoring the proposed woman suffrage and prohibition state amendments, which are considered the main issues in the fall campaign for election of state, congressional and senatorial tickets.

STANLEY'S-ON-THE-MERRIMACK

This is to be a week of features at Stanley's-on-the-Merrimack, and tonight will be observed as "Circle Night." On Wednesday evening there will be witnessed a remarkable exhibition of modern dancers including the foremost dancers of New England. There will appear the Packards of Lynn, the Cunninghams of Boston, Heslers of Lowell, Malloys of Cambridge and the McWilliams of Portland. This should prove very entertaining and because of the very small admission fee, the attendance is expected to be large.

WARRANTS ARE ISSUED

BY SPEAKER CLARK FOR THE ABSENTEE MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Speaker Clark issued another batch of warrants of arrest yesterday for absentee members. Sergeants raided the baseball park, cool cafes and other resorts to bring enough congressmen so the house could go on with business.

"Writs have been issued for these absentees," thundered Speaker Clark from the rostrum after a long standstill during consideration of the Administration Power Conservation bill. "The absentees are not treating the house right and are not treating the people of the United States right by staying away, especially those who are lolling about town and are not home for any reason. Members do not seem to realize that these delays mean congress will stay in session much longer."

Later, Democratic Leader Underwood made a statement on the subject. "A large number of the members of this house," he said "are almost continually absent. I realize that some have been detained in connection with campaigning, but some members of this house have been neglecting their duties."

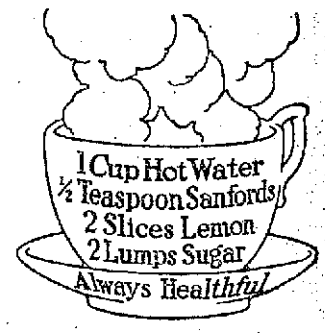

He gave notice that he would move tomorrow that the sergeant-at-arms be instructed to notify all absentees to return to Washington forthwith.

WEAR AMERICAN FLAGS

Members of Party From the United States Go Through Germany to London Without Any Interruption

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A party of Americans composed of Mrs. Barclay Warburton, her son and her daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Diston of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Barclay of New York, who have arrived here from Carlsbad, Austria, managed to bring with them through Germany two French maids, a Belgian maid and an English valet. These four servants came through the country of their enemy under the protection of the Stars and Stripes. All of them wore American flags.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

BIG DEMAND FOR AUTOS

Auto Men Believe Hostilities in Europe Will Help American Manufacturers

Prominent automobile men have expressed the opinion that after the termination of the European war there will be a tremendous demand in Australasia and South Africa for all goods of American manufacture, and particularly for automobiles and trucks, for the reason that most of the factories in continental Europe will be either destroyed or badly crippled by the loss of workmen who now have to fight in the contending armies, so that even if the war does not last more than a few weeks, the industries of continental Europe will be badly crippled for a very considerable time, and it will probably be a year, two or perhaps even three years, before they will regain normal conditions, during all of which time this country should have decided preference in all lines of manufactured goods.

Up to about a year ago Australia and New Zealand have been buying practically all their trucks from either England or continental Europe, and it is only quite recently that they have paid some attention to American trucks, but if European or English trucks will not be available to them for some time to come, it is only natural to assume that they will have to draw their supplies from the United States. It is, therefore, pretty safe in predicting that within the next two years the volume of business in American trucks of good makes will greatly increase.

The local automobile dealers are at present making the very best of the favorable weather conditions and other circumstances. The number of prospective buyers appear to be quite large and the salesmen and demonstrators are kept very busy.

Used Cars at Dana's

A fine record has been made during the past few weeks at the salesrooms of Mr. George R. Dana & Son in East Merrimack street. During a few weeks Mr. Dana sold and delivered seven new cars, and a large number of used cars. These enterprising dealers had enjoyed great success with the Hudson and the Stevens Duryea, and have a number of orders at present. Just now Mr. Dana has for sale several used cars of good quality and in good running order which he offers for sale in an advertisement on this page at prices which cannot help but attract the notice of the readers. He invites persons interested to call and inspect them and enjoy a demonstration.

Ford Profit Sharing Plan

Doubtless the profit sharing plan of the Ford Motor Co. mentioned in the adv. of the Lowell Motor Mart on this page will hold interest for a large number of prospective purchasers.

The Ford Co. should they reach a maximum factory efficiency and production and a minimum cost as they expect to during the 12 months from Aug. 1, 1914, to Aug. 1, 1915, will pay a dividend to retail buyers of Ford cars. The Lowell Motor Mart will furnish further interesting particulars upon request.

Donovan Harness Co.

The large line of curtains, autotops, cushions, and other equipment which the Donovan Harness Co. has in stock has been appreciated by local and out of town motorists and as a result, the Donovan Co. always has on hand a car or several of them to be equipped for added comfort and convenience. Motorists will find pleasure in looking over the stock at the store in Market street.

Upton and Gilman Co.

The above company is doing a large volume of business in Oxy Acetylene Welding, of which interesting process a description appeared on the automobile page of The Sun a week ago. Their shop at 587 Middlesex st. is a very busy place. This company makes a specialty of all kinds of metal and machine repairs.

Lowell Welding Co.

The Lowell Welding Co., 61 Leverett street, will weld and repair any part of any kind of metal. Their specialties are carbon removing, welding and cutting and they are most efficient in these branches of repair work. Their shop is open evenings for the convenience of patrons.

McIntosh Machine and Welding Co.

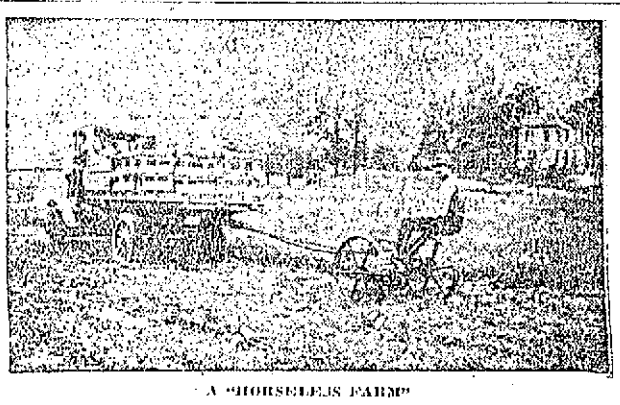

The McIntosh Machine and Welding Co. is another prominent local firm, with a plant at 148 Warren street. At this shop they perform all manner of auto repairs, and general machine work.

Sullivan Auto Livery

The Sullivan Auto Livery makes a very favorable report as to the state of the business at their establishment at this time, and are pleased with prospects of the future.

The New Briscoe Car Here

The new Briscoe car, an attractive and powerful machine, has arrived in Lowell, and is now being demonstrated by the Sackley Motor Car Co., 483 Merrimack street. The car is good to look at, embodying the latest style of construction and being built in lines of grace. It has also that "crouchy" appearance which implies high power. It is light and equipped with the very newest and improved starting and lighting devices, having several exclusive features. The car has been in Lowell but a short time, and has been seen and admired by very many interested people. Mr. Sackley is confident that it will prove to be popular and all comment thus far has been highly favorable.

A "HORSELESS FARM"

In Ingham county, Michigan, dwells a farmer who believes in applying progressive ideas to his business. During a recent hot spell he lost two horses while in the midst of haying. His Reo motor truck was pressed into service with excellent results, as the accompanying photo shows. He cut two acres of hay in one hour and forty minutes, and says he can beat that record the next time he tries it.

Mr. W. H. Porter, owner of the truck, has plowed with it and says it beats horses for this work. He proposes to do all of his fall plowing by this means.

Since it hauls his material, grains, potatoes and does other work his horses used to do, he says he intends to completely motorize his farm, as soon as he perfects a whinnying attachment to keep the "hands" from getting too lonesome for the Clydesdale and the Percherons.

JOSEPH A. PLANTE

Returned From Convention of A. C. F. Montreal, Today

Joseph A. Plante, secretary-treasurer of Branch St. Marie, A. C. F., returned this morning from Montreal, Que., where he attended the national convention of the Artisans Canadiens Francais, as a delegate for the second Massachusetts district, which comprises Branches St. Andre, St. Joseph, St. Louis and St. Marie of this city and branches in Lawrence, Amesbury and Newburyport.

Mr. Plante had the honor of serving on the committee of divers business and he was the promoter of the motion which was adopted by which it was voted to keep the Canadian soldiers who are members of the society on the society's roll, irrespective of whether they pay their fees, and also in case of death to pay their beneficiaries the amount of their insurance.

In the course of the convention, which lasted several days it was voted to hold the convention every four years instead of every other year and to elect general officers for a term of four years. There were 72 delegates present at the convention, the men coming from all parts of the states and the Dominion.

While in Canada Mr. Plante took occasion to visit his birthplace, Napierreville, Que., which he had not seen for 30 years. He said he found things changed to such an extent that he was unable to recognize even the place where he was born. He said Canada is prosperous and a good sign of this is that farmers are hiring men on the farms, paying them $3 a day, whereas 30 years ago all the farm help wanted could be hired for $6 a month.

From Napierreville, Mr. Plante returned to Montreal, where he spent a few days with a former Lowell man, J. Adelard Gauthier, who is now a prosperous business man, being at the head of a large electrical concern. Mr. Gauthier left Lowell some six years ago for the Canadian metropolis, where he opened an electrical establishment. He is now owner of considerable real estate property and conducts a very successful business.

SCHOOL BOARD

000 with which to purchase this property. The papers, it was stated today, will be passed tomorrow. The money was borrowed at 5 per cent., 1 per cent less than the water department loan for $90,000. This money will be passed over to the city on Friday of this week to be used in connection with the erection of a filtration plant at the boulevard and 6 per cent. is about the highest rate of interest the city has ever paid.

School Teachers in Europe

Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, has received a letter from Miss Jennie M. Bennett of the Grand street school. The letter was mailed in London and Miss Bennett hopes to be able to reach Lowell by Sept. 1. In March the school committee granted Miss Bennett leave, of absence until Sept. 1, and she asks in her letter that if she should fail to reach Lowell as early as Sept. 1, that her leave of absence be extended. Her home is at 81 Gates street.

Miss Bennett is the only Lowell teacher known to be abroad whom Mr. Molloy has heard from. It is definitely known, however, that two separate parties of teachers are in Europe. In the first are Misses Mary H. and Myrtle Killpartrick and Mrs. Emily Craven. They were booked through the Murphy steamship agency, and sailed from Boston for Naples. Their original itinerary covered Rome, Naples, Lucerne and brought them to Paris on August 13. If they maintained their original plans, they sailed from Holland Saturday, Aug. 22, but this is not probable. No word whatever has been received from this party since it sailed abroad.

The Second Party

The second party, which sailed at the same time as the party already mentioned, consisted of Miss Flora Owen, Miss Ellen Stillings, Miss Sadie Dean, Miss Carrie Bailey, and Mrs. Sophie White Wing, the latter an employe of the Lowell Gas Light company's office. They, too, had booked return passage on the Laconia, sailing from Liverpool Sept. 1, although their itinerary did not carry them northwards in Europe. Miss Ida Clark, another teacher, was also to return on the Laconia.

The Cumnock Party

Word has been received by F. A. Bowen of the Appleton Mfg. Co. to the effect that the Cumnock party was due to sail for New York on the Neapolitan line, from Naples, on August 20. The boat taken was a 10-day one, and they should be in Lowell by Sept. 1. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cumnock, Misses Grace and Eva Cumnock and Mr. and Mrs. John Blodgett, the latter of Grand Rapids, Mich.

This party was in Switzerland before the outbreak of the war.

Granolithic Sidewalk Petitions

A number of petitions for granolithic sidewalks sent in last year, it was stated today, will probably be acted upon this year, and there's a reason. Last year the abutter had to pay the total cost and that wasn't as the ordinary abutter would like it. This year the city pays half the cost and that is, the abutter thinks, as it should be. Just for that several old petitions have been trotted out and sidewalks to be laid this year, it is stated, will include the Fellows property and the Marks property in Central street. The new sidewalks will take in numbers 22-24-26-28 and 10. Tyler Stevens had also petitioned for a granolithic sidewalk in front of the Central block in Central street and this work will be attended to this year. The work of laying the new granolithic sidewalk in front of the Y. M. C. A. building in Merrimack street is being pushed with all possible haste. Mr. Gallagher, who keeps a fruit and confectionary store near the Y. M. C. A. building, said today he was in hopes that the new side-walk would extend to Shattuck street, but it seems that the owners of intervening property did not want it.

Street Not Accepted

There was some controversy at city hall today as to whether Billerica street was an accepted street at the point near the scene of the sad drowning accident on Sunday. The city engineer was consulted and he stated that Billerica street was accepted only as far as Eugene street and that is quite a way this side of where the accident happened.

Entrance to Boulevard Closed

The entrance to the boulevard, at this end, has been closed for a week or more on account of the repairs that are being made there. The entrance to the boulevard has been in tough shape for a long time and automobilists and others who use the boulevard will be glad the repairs have been completed. It was stated today that the work would be completed this week.

Improve Dracut Range

Commissioner Donnelly and Francis Connor, superintendent of buildings, went to Wakefield yesterday and met Capt. J. Keough of the state ordnance department. Capt. Keough accompanied the Lowell men to the Wakefield rifle range and pointed out features that he thought would improve the Dracut range. Commissioner Donnelly stated today that the Wakefield range is right up to the minute and that he had decided on several changes to be made at the Dracut range. The alterations and improvements will include target changes.

Industrial Accident Board

The industrial accident board will come to Lowell tomorrow afternoon and will give a hearing in the aldermanic chamber at 1.30 o'clock. The board always notifies the city messenger when its representatives are coming to Lowell, but the notice does not include any reference to the case to be heard. The board will give another hearing on Sept. 29, at 10.30 a. m.

Two Band Concerts

The last of the municipal concerts will be given this week, the first on Thursday night by the National band, on the North common, and the second by the Cadet band, Sunday night, on the South common. The hour for the concert is 8 o'clock.

Permit for Dwelling

Recent building permits issued at the office of Commissioner Donnelly included one to William England for the erection of a dwelling at 112 Upham street. The building will be 25 by 30 feet, 7 rooms, pantry and bath, two stories and the estimated cost is $2500.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

A celebrated law suit of a quarter of a century ago, involving local firms, was that of Foss & Co. vs. Howe Bros., contractors, which grew out of a contract relative to the construction of the Washington mills, of Lawrence.

Concerning an early feature of the case the old Sun has the following:

"The auditor's decision in the case of C. F. Foss & Co., vs. John F. and Henry C. Howe to recover the amount due or claimed to be due for work as sub-contractors in the construction of the Washington mills of Lawrence, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court, at Cambridge. The auditor awards Charles F. Foss, who is now the only member of the firm, the sum of $30,439.63 with interest from January 27, 1887. The party agreed upon by the plaintiff and the defendants to arbitrate in the matter before the suit was commenced, fixed the amount due at about $18,000. The award of the auditor is not fully up to the claim of the plaintiff which was, including interest and all other accounts in the vicinity of $40,000. George F. Richardson appeared for the plaintiff and J. N. Marshal and F. T. Greenhalge for the defendants.

Officer Molony on Jury

Said the same issue of The Sun:

"John Boyle, John A. McIntire, Henry Pratt and Thomas A. Molony were chosen traverse jurors for the coming session of the superior civil court to be holden in this city on the first Monday of September."

A few evenings ago upon meeting Police Officer Thomas A. Molony, I inquired if he was the man referred to as the juror of a quarter of a century ago. In reply he said: "I am the man, and I remember the session very clearly for I sat on the longest civil case ever tried in Middlesex county up to that time. It was that of Foss & Co. vs. Howe Bros., an action brought to recover for work done on the Washington mills in Lawrence. We opened the case on a Monday morning and finished on Friday evening, just three weeks later. If I remember rightly the jury confirmed the finding of the auditor."

Mellen Wins Boat Race

Last week I referred to Hugh Mellen, proprietor of the St. Charles hotel, as the manager of Jim McCusker, the swimmer, and an athlete and promoter of athletic events himself, 25 years ago. Mr. Mellen was also an oarsman of some prowess and the old Sun tells of a boat race that he won with $100 as the stake, as follows:

"Fourth of July when the four-oared lap-streak boat race was ended there was considerable discussion among the crews as to which had the more science. A couple of challenges were exchanged, but the whole discussion sifted down to an agreement between Hugh F. Mellen and John F. Harrigan to row a single scull race for $25 a side and this was afterward raised to $50 a side. The race came off Wednesday afternoon on the Yesper course on the upper river. Daniel D. Driscoll was referee and starter. The start was made at just six o'clock after considerable time had been spent in getting the boats into line. The water was in fine condition for boat-racing. Harrigan got the best start and exerted himself much to keep the lead for the first half, Mellen taking his work more easily and apparently being in better condition. Harrigan had the Dracut shore and turned the upper stake first in 7 minutes, 30 seconds. The turn was a wild one in both cases. On the home stretch there was a great contest the first half of the distance, but Mellen passed his opponent by earnest and telling efforts and was two lengths ahead when half way down the course, continuing to widen the gap to the close. He won in 15 minutes, 20 seconds."

There were oarsmen galore in Lowell in those days, while most every section of the city had its four-oared crew. Among the crack racers of quarter of a century ago were Daniel D. Driscoll, John Quinn, John Tweed, Jim Walker, Daniel "Doc" Sullivan, Mike Kennedy, Newell Goodrow, "Shaun" McCarthy, John Harrigan, Hugh Mellen, Henry Redmond, Police Officer Jim Boyle and his brother Tom. Herbert Bisbee, who could also play a cornet, and John T. Donohue, who along with being an oarsman used to make racing sculls over in Centralville. And yet today there are many big boys in Lowell who have never seen a single-scull racer.

Another Local Poet

Lowell was never at a loss for poets, good and bad, and quarter of a century ago James Perkinson was the genius who held the boards for I find in the old Sun the following:

"Mr. James Perkinson of this city, poet, musician and bosom friend of John L. Sullivan has written another ode to the champion. Mr. Perkinson asks the Sun to call the attention of his Lowell admirers to his latest roundelay and we do so with pleasure. The verses are great and Mr. Perkinson's success as a ballad writer is assured."

As the old Sun neglected to print the verses I assume that in referring to them as being great, the editor referred to their volume rather than to their quality. Mr. Perkinson antedated Joe Bickford by a few years, but he had nothing on Joseph as regards talent. Oh, those local poets of days gone by, how they did haunt the old Sun office with their effusions, each courting the muse as did Milton in his L'Allegro, in happy, care-free mood:

"Haste thee, nymph and bring with thee
Jest and youthful jollity,
Quips and cranks and wanton wiles,
Nods and becks and wreath-ed smiles."

They carried their effusions to the editorial wastebasket in person in the old days for the worst fate that could be visited upon them was a drop of two stories, via the window or the stairway; but now as they measure the awful distance from the roof to the street floor and then learn with dismay that the editor is to be found on the tenth floor they quietly steal homeward and invest in a one-cent stamp, the more prosperous ones, in a two, and send their sonnets by mail—and they never came back.

Temperance Society Picnic

Says the old Sun:

"St. Patrick's Temperance society picked out a fine day for their picnic at Willow Dale. Wednesday was a delightful day and they were loaded down with friends of the society who helped to make the picnic a success. Everybody had an enjoyable time, the members of the society doing everything in their power to make the events move smoothly. Quite a number joined in the dance in the pavilion where John H. Ring was floor director and Temple's orchestra furnished music. Thomas Connors won the 100 yard dash and sack race. The doughnut race was won by James O'Connor of North Chelmsford. In the tug-of-war which was long and exciting, the St. Patrick's team won against a picked team. James O'Sullivan was general manager."

For many years James O'Sullivan and the late John Ring were the leading spirits of the old St. Patrick's Temperance society and no event was complete without them. Both were forceful debaters and men of executive ability, but from what the old Sun says Mr. Ring had one thing on Mr. O'Sullivan for as floor director, he must have been somewhat of a dancer, although a man of heavy build, while local history contains no mention of Mr. O'Sullivan as a terpsichorean artist. Thomas Connors, who won the 100 yards sack race is former Supt. Connors of the city wood yard where, until the coming of the present administration, he conducted that department, of which the slogan is "Say nothing but saw wood," and the only department in which the superintendent does as much manual labor as his working force—one man, with eminent success. Mr. Connors is a product of the North common and in his more youthful days was a good all around athlete. In justice to James O'Connor of North Chelmsford, now one of Hyde Park's leading citizens, who from his earliest days was possessed of a gorgeous appetite and a build that gave evidence of the fact, it should be stated that the doughnut race was not a contest in which the doughnuts were consumed by the contestants, though had it been he would still have been a top-heavy favorite in the betting. Dr. O'Connor after completing his studies at Allegheny college went to medical school and upon receiving his "M. D." emigrated to Hyde Park where, starting in a total stranger, he has been a success in his profession from the start.

O'Donnell & Gilbride's Outing

The well known firm of O'Donnell & Gilbride was in its infancy a quarter of a century ago, but it had already established a most friendly relationship between employer and employes. I find in the old Sun the following:

"Employes of O'Donnell & Gilbride held a picnic at Willow Dale, Tuesday evening. Several persons not in the employ of the company were invited and all told there was a large and lively party. The company went out on the electric cars at 6 o'clock. John O'Hearn was general manager and at the supper James H. Kelly was toastmaster. There were several short speeches and vocal solos by Misses Nellie and Mamie Gorman. Dancing followed. Four young men got left and were obliged to walk to Lowell reaching here at midnight."

The Sun charitably omits mention of the quartet who hiked it home. Mr. John O'Hearn who at that time was manager of the O'Donnell & Gilbride store and subsequently a member of the clothing firm of O'Hearn and Dowd, located where Mitchell the tailor now holds forth, is now a resident of Ashmont, Mass., and Mr. Kelly is managing with great success the mammoth department store of Dan A. Donahue, at Salem, Mass.

Married in Balloon

Because the sporting editor of The Sun recently made a trip in a hydroplane at Lakeview there are certain people uncharitable enough to put him down as a "nut." But such is not the fact. It was a part of his job and he went through with it all right. It would be interesting to hear their comment upon the following story of a Lowell man, which appeared in The Sun of 25 years ago:

"The most unique event in New Hampshire for a long time and the crowning feature of the four days' state fair in progress in Manchester, the marriage of a young couple in a balloon, took place Thursday afternoon. The driving park, in which the affair was held, contained fully 30,000 people, representing every part of the state, and many were attracted from across the boundary line. The principals were Mr. Joseph F. Boyd, an employe in the Amoskeag mills, and formerly a resident of Lowell, and Miss Addie Brooks, whose father is a blacksmith in Bedford. The groom is twenty-six years old and the bride 21. The ceremony was performed with the couple standing in the basket, Hon. Hiram D. Upton, speaker of the New Hampshire house of representatives, officiating, and the rites were followed by a terse lay sermon on the duties of the husband and wife delivered in the speaker's best vein. Arthur Murphy of this city served as best man and Miss Ida Brooks as bridesmaid. The ceremony was succeeded by cheers from thousands of throats and in the the midst of the demonstration the balloon was set loose, moving skyward slowly, with the bridal couple, Prof. Allen and Hon. Herbert F. Norris aboard. Among the gifts bestowed was an outfit worth $200 from the New Hampshire Agricultural society. Mr. Boyd is a member of Court Merrimack, A. O. F., of this city. Miss Brooks said the presents did not form any inducement to her being married in so public a manner, but she had long desired to make a balloon ascension, and so gladly welcomed this opportunity. Prof. Allen stated that this was the third couple only who had ever made their bridal tour in a balloon, the first occurrence of the kind occurring at Dayton, O., in 1876, and the second at Providence, R. I., in 1888, when 35,000 witnessed the ascension. The balloon used is a new one, of extra large size, capable of carrying 700 pounds weight besides the passengers. It is 86 feet from tip to tip, and contained 45,000 feet of gas.

"The balloon came down at 5 o'clock in Goffstown. The balloon was that used in Lowell last Fourth of July."

Alex. Was Cool

Says The Sun of a quarter of a century ago:

"It was so cool Tuesday evening that Conductor Alex. Rountree had to put on an extra pair of suspenders."

Alex., whose first name is Alexander, I assume to be the present member of the park commission, who with the responsibility of public office on his shoulders, has shifted the old-time galluses for a belt. Commissioner Rountree has proven himself to be a successful conductor of political affairs, having been a member of the board of aldermen and subsequently connected with the park commission. From the reports of some of the meetings of the park board, one would infer that if Alex. were now wearing suspenders he would be more inclined to take them off than to put on an extra pair.

The Old Barkes

Says the old Sun:

"At a meeting of the Burke Temperance institute Tuesday evening it was voted to observe Father Burke's birthday which falls on next Sunday. The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to make arrangements: William A. Hogan, William H. Stafford, John McGuinness, M. J. O'Connell and John H. McNabb. At the next meeting a board of trustees will be elected. The election of a marshal for the Fr. Mathew parade on October 10th was laid on the table for two weeks."

Twenty-five years continuous traveling on the water-wagon is some record and yet if today you were to ask any of the gentlemen above-mentioned to have a drink you would do so without fear of any liability being attached for they're still on it.

THE OLD TIMER.

BOARD OF TRADE TRIP

PROSPECT THAT THE ANNUAL OUTING WILL BE A GREAT SUCCESS

Secretary John H. Murphy announced this morning that all arrangements for the annual outing which will be held Thursday at Nahant are completed and he said he believes the event will be the best ever conducted by the organization. Nearly 100 automobile owners have pledged their machines for the excursion and it is the belief of the committee in charge that over 300 men will take part in the affair. This morning a large batch of handsome pennants were received and one will be placed on each car leaving city hall for Nahant Thursday morning. The pennants are of red and white and bear the following inscription, "Lowell B. of T."

BACK ON THE JOB

The many friends of Clyde McArdle, the popular treasurer of the Merrimack Square theatre, will be pleased to hear that he is back at the box office. He and Manager Carroll are the right men in the right place, and every patron of the theatre under the management of these men may be always sure of receiving courteous treatment.

Mr. McArdle has just finished a 14 weeks' engagement as manager of Lexington Park and yesterday assumed his old position as assistant to Manager Carroll. He made a great hit, not only with the patrons of the park, but also with all who labored under him, and before leaving for Lowell was presented a traveling bag with all the assessories by the employes of the popular summer park. Despite the fact that this was an off year for summer resorts, Mr. McArdle had a most successful season.

Summer Foods as Cause of Dyspepsia

Many Also Get Diarrhoea—What To Do in Either Case

Summer ought to be the months of most perfect health, but owing to contaminated water and milk, unripe fruit, germs and insects the average of health is not good at this time of the year. There is much skin trouble from acid fruits, and much dyspepsia and diarrhoea from cold foods and iced beverages.

The skin trouble is easily stopped by discontinuing fruit for a few days, and by the use of a mild laxative to clean the bowels and tone the blood. The dyspepsia is likewise corrected by the use of a laxative that has combined with it the elements of a digestive tonic. Hence the best remedy to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, as its name indicates, is a pleasant laxative combined with the virtues of pepsin, which we all know is the best cure for indigestion.

Use Syrup Pepsin also for summer diarrhoea. Avoid astringents, physics and cathartics, as they are unnecessarily harsh. Thousands of good American families prefer Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, among them those of Mrs. W. A. Taylor, Beloit, Wis., who finds she can give it to her baby without causing cramps or pains, and Mrs. Wm. O. Richter, Clayville, Va., who considers it a laxative tonic absolutely unexcelled. They know of no pleasanter cure for constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, summer diarrhoea, etc. It is valuable to all the family from infancy to old age. Children like its taste. All druggists sell it at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington st., Monticello, Ill.

The organization occupied the Sherlock property but the owners have decided to convert it into a dwelling house and the changes will be made at once.

SOLDIERS IN LIEGE FORT SLEEPING LIKE LOGS AFTER FIGHTING NIGHT AND DAY AGAINST GERMANS

This is one of the first pictures to reach America from the war in Europe. It was taken in one of the forts which surround Liege, Belgium, and which offered such a remarkable resistance to the assault and bombardment of the German troops. Utterly exhausted after continuous fighting for thirty-six hours, night and day, these soldiers flung themselves upon the straw and slept like logs. The picture was smuggled out of the prison by a soldier who was sent with dispatches to Brussels.

FLEE FROM FIRE

All Buildings at Island Park, Portsmouth, R. I., Destroyed by Fire

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., Aug. 25.—All the buildings at Island park, an amusement resort conducted by the Bay State Street Railway company were destroyed by fire early today. Several employes who had sleeping quarters in the upper part of one of the buildings were forced to leave without dressing. The immediate financial loss was not large.

To Peel Off Freckled, Tanned or Muddy Skin

To remove tan, muddiness, freckles, blotches or any complexion difficulty, the best thing to do is to remove the skin itself. This is easily, painlessly and inexpensively done by the application of ordinary mercolized wax, procurable of any drug-store. The wax peels off the defective outer skin, a little each day, gradually bringing the cuticle or second layer of skin to the surface. The pores are unclogged and the face breathes in the life-giving oxygen. The new skin is beautifully soft, clear and white, bearing the healthy glow of youth. Just apply the wax as you would cold cream, only not rubbing it in. In the morning wash it off with warm water. It's the most effective treatment known for a soiled, discolored or aged complexion.

AMONG THE TOILERS

At the Osgood mills, Andover, Mass., several of the departments have been working overtime four nights a week.

Many girls employed at the Lawrence hosiery returned this week from vacations spent at the various beaches.

The Lawrence Manufacturing company baseball team will play the C. M. A. C. aggregation at Spaulding Park Saturday.

The Continental Worsted Co., Providence, R. I., has leased the sewing room at 20 Stokes street, which will accommodate 30 workers.

Many of the union members would like to witness a 100 yards race between Pete Ledoux, president of the Millmen's union and Michael A. Lee, business agent for the carpenters.

The taking over of the Faulkner mills, Billerica, by the recently incorporated, North Billerica company, is good news to the residents of the town.

In North Adams, Mass., it is said that the woolen and worsted business is in fine shape, most of the mills running to capacity. Even better conditions are expected later.

Business Agent Hall, of the Machinists' union, is some disciplinarian even outside of his regular duties. He proved this fact clearly at the outing held Saturday, when he umpired the baseball game.

The plant of the West Boylston Manufacturing company, Easthampton, Mass., is again operating on a six day schedule owing to large orders received. The company until a short time ago had been running but four days a week.

Mike Wrenn of the Bigelow Carpet Co., ran in the 100 yards event at the Bunting games Saturday and although he did not get placed he gave a good account of himself. Mr. Wrenn, who weighs close on to 220 pounds, was placed at scratch.

Frank Burke, of the Lowell Electric Light corporation, will ever hold in mind the memorable ride of the Hinky Dinks to Revere beach. Mr. Burke, who is of small stature, stood his ground like a man, and it is said that he even refused an umbrella when it was offered to him.

New Construction

Treasurer Arthur R. Sharp, of the Hamilton Manufacturing company, of this city, states that the report is incorrect that they are to commence work immediately upon the second section of Mill No. 4, the first section of which was completed two years ago, and is fully equipped with Whitin and Draper looms.

United States Bunting Co.

The United States Bunting company, like all great manufacturers of woolen goods, is awaiting with expectation the outcome of the present dye-stuff difficulty. This important material is most essential and, therefore, affects the woolen mills more than the cotton plants. It is said that there is not more than from four to six months' supply on hand in this country at the present time. The company is running fair at present and in the event of the dyestuff tangle being straightened out satisfactorily the management looks for increased business.

Mill News

The knitting mill, formerly the old Switz Conde mill, at Oswego, N. Y., which it is proposed to take over in the reorganization of the Frisbie and Stansfield Knitting company, will not, it is understood, be operated for the present at least. The mill's electric power will be sold to the Standard Spinning company, whose plant is on the other side of the Oswego river.

The National Crash company, Millbury, manufacturers of tapes, announces that it has issued $35,000 worth of stocks and 20-year gold bonds. It is explained that the money is needed because of the tying up of future orders. It is also said the mill made a profit of $27,000 last year, but that it all went into new machinery.

On Aug. 1, the office of the treasurer of the Arlington mills will be transferred from Boston to the mills at Lawrence, where all the financial and accounting business of the corporation will be transacted from that date.

The Great Falls Mfg. Co., Somersworth, N. H., reports as of April 30 current assets $1,712.50, and current liabilities $44,285, an excess of $1,668,216 current assets, equivalent to nearly $167 per share on the stock, which is selling at $170.

Work of replacing mules at Natick, R. I., mills of H. B. and R. Knight with spinning frames, which has been in progress for some time, is now near completion, these being only about seven pairs of mules left installed.

The officials of the Draycott mills of New Hartford, Conn., owners of the Touraine company of the same place, now undergoing bankruptcy proceedings, have instructed Aaron N. Watson, agent for the trustees, to keep all the help in town by giving them free rent until adjustment of the affairs of the Touraine.

Responsible Positions

Stephen C. Lowe, American and Canadian agent for John Hetherington & Sons, Ltd., Manchester, England, builders of cotton machinery, has handed in his resignation to take effect Oct. 1 next. He has been representing this company for about 14 years. Although Mr. Lowe states that he is not in a position to make any plans public, it is thought he will remain in the cotton trade. He is president of the S. C. Lowe Supply company, New Bedford.

Frederick W. Greenhalgh, who has been connected with the Peace Dale (R. I.) Manufacturing company for 25 years as second hand and 15 years as boss weaver, has left the employ of the company. Harold Taulder, who comes from Yorkshire, England, has succeeded him.

William Richardson, during the past seven years assistant superintendent of Putnam Manufacturing company, Putnam, Conn., has been selected to fill the position of superintendent. This is a well merited advance for Mr. Richardson.

George B. Wooley, who resigned recently as overseer of weaving at the Butler mill, New Bedford, was visited at his home by a number of his associates from the weave room and presented with a purse of gold. Music and a general good time followed and the gathering broke up at a late hour.

W. B. Baldwin, superintendent of the underwear department of the Lebanon mill, Pawtucket, R. I., during the past five years, has handed in his resignation.

F. C. Hall is now assistant superintendent of the Dan River cotton mills, Danville, Va. Mr. Hall at one time was with the New England Cotton Yarn company, department 13, Taunton.

Noyes D. Farmer has resigned from the plant of the U. S. Bobbin and Shuttle company, at Manchester, N. H., where he has worked for over 12 years, the last two as superintendent. His new position will be the supervision of factory accounting for a Boston concern.

James Dunn is now filling the position of overseer of ring spinning at the plant of the Manville company, Georgiaville, R. I.

Loomfixers Held Meeting

Carpenters' hall, in the Runels building, was packed to overflowing last evening when the members of the Loomfixers' union met in regular session. Considerable routine business was transacted and reports from the various committees were accepted as read. Two new members were admitted and one proposition received. Several of the members spoke on the good of the union, while others spoke on attendance at meetings. These talks were listened to attentively by the members and at the conclusion of each speaker's address he was applauded. The secretary reported the union to be in a flourishing financial condition and all members working.

SAFETY FIRST CAR

TO TOUR COUNTRY—NEW YORK SOCIETY MEMBERS PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Pursuing its aggressive campaign for greater safety in motoring, and general use of the public highways, the Safety First society of New York has hit upon a decidedly original and unique idea. This is to be a nation-wide touring campaign with an automobile equipped with reliable devices, which tend to make motoring safe.

Within the next ten days this car will be started on an extended tour of the Eastern states and later continue on through the south and far west. It will carry representatives of the Safety First society, who will use unique methods of preaching the gospel of caution and carry the message of "Safety First" to motorists and other users of the highways along the entire route. The members of the expedition will call on city officials and prominent citizens in each city visited, with the object of inspiring interest and closer co-operation in the cause. In many cases aid and suggestions will be offered by the society's representatives to communities that are interested in co-operating by forming local Safety First societies. Suggestions as to traffic regulations, the eight-foot rule in passing trolley cars, uniformity of speed laws, muffler cut-out ordinances, street cars dimming headlights when approaching automobiles and other precautionary regulations now enforced in numerous cities, will be advocated.

Lectures will be delivered by the society's representatives, and as the tour will be given wide publicity it is hoped that it will directly result in more intense interest in the great national campaign to curb recklessness and to minimize the number of preventable automobile accidents and fatalities.

Such cities as New York, Boston, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Chicago, Toledo and St. Louis have perfected safety first organizations and many more cities are expected to promote similar bodies.

States to be covered by the tour include New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Virginia, Washington, D. C., and later into the northwest and Pacific coast.

That such a campaign will do much of decided benefit to the public at large as well as to the automobile industry in obvious and there is practically no limit to the field of operation.

THE KASINO

Lowell people will make the Kasino their objective tonight, when an exhibition introducing all of the modern steps will be given by Mr. McWilliams and Miss Warner of Lowell, and Mr. Murningham and Miss Callahan of Boston. These artists need no introduction. They have been dancing throughout New England the present season, and their work has been a hit everywhere. Added interest is given the appearance of the quartet tonight by the rivalry existing. The exhibition is to take the form of a contest, and the winning couple will receive a substantial prize. Miner's orchestra will play the music, and there can be no question of the quality of the entire entertainment.

GERMAN ARMIES NOW MOVE TOWARD PARIS

German Embassy at Washington Notified of Severe Defeat of French Troops and English Cavalry by Germans—Reverse to Allies Admitted by English and French Papers—30,000 Germans Attacking Malines—Kaiser's Mighty Army Took Namur Under Eyes of Allies—Defeat of Allies Reported to be Overwhelming—Belgian Minister Tells of Terrible Atrocities Committed by Germans

Namur, the Belgian fortress, has fallen into German hands, according to an announcement made by the official press bureau in London.

Details of the fighting around the fortress are not given but the English newspapers regard the fall as inexplicable.

Berlin despatches say five of the forts of Namur and the city itself have fallen and the capture of the remaining four forts is imminent.

A reverse to the forces of the allies is generally admitted by the English and French newspapers which say today's news is decidedly bad, while plainly expressing disappointment at the failure of their forces, they declare the retrograde movement toward the line of strong defensive works near the frontier to have been carried out in good order.

THE ALLIES ARE FALLING BACK

It is assumed that the allies are falling back on their first line of defensive works running from Maubeuge in a southeasterly direction by way of Hirson, Mesieres, Montmedy, Verdun, St. Michien, St. Michel, Toul and Epinal, all of which are strong fortresses and are interspersed with smaller works at such places as Ayrvelle, Genicourt, Troyon, Les Paroches, Lianville, Gironville and Jony-Sous-Les-Cotes. Behind these lies another strong line of fortifications.

The English newspapers declare that both the French and Russians are determined to fight to a finish whatever the outlook may be at present. They say the possession of Namur was vital for Germany and that it "was a fine stroke for the Germans to have rushed the place under the eyes of the allied armies."

FIGHTING CONTINUES IN BELGIUM

In other parts of Belgium fighting is still in progress and a report from Ostend says thirty thousand Germans have attacked Malines, 13 miles from Antwerp.

Charleroi also has been the scene of hot fighting, this time between the French and German troops and a fresh encounter is believed to have begun there today.

Twenty-five thousand Germans have been surrounded between Courrai and Ansiman, according to an Ostend despatch to the London Daily Express.

ADVANCE OF RUSSIAN ARMIES

Brussels has been left by the main body of German troops who have proceeded on their way to the front.

Russian reports relate the advance of the Russian armies in eastern Prussia and the surprisingly rapid movement of the troops.

A Swiss business man reports the garrison of Strassburg to have sustained an appaling total of casualties at Schirmeck, where of 5500 Germans who went into the engagement only 1800 returned.

AERIAL BOMBARDMENT OF ANTWERP

A German dirigible balloon which had flown over Antwerp yesterday was brought down by Belgian artillery today and 15 of its occupants taken prisoners, according to a newspaper despatch. Another telegram says bombs dropped from the balloon caused several deaths and one of the missiles struck a hospital, which however, was occupied only by the medical and nursing staff.

GERMAN VICTORY OVER FRENCH AND ENGLISH

A wireless despatch from the foreign office in Berlin to the German embassy at Washington records a severe defeat of the French troops by the Germans in a battle which raged from August 17 to 21 and in the course of which more than 150 field guns and 10,000 prisoners were captured. It says Luneville was taken by the Germans and the army of Gen. Jeoffre, the French commander-in-chief, was broken up, making probable a concentric advance of all the German army toward Paris.

The wireless despatch adds that the Duke of Wurtemberg's German army, marching through Belgium, has completely crushed the advancing French army and captured numerous guns, flags and prisoners among whom were several generals while another German column defeated an English cavalry brigade to the west of the river Meuse.

SCHOOL BOARD WILL ELECT 11 TEACHERS

At Tonight's Meeting — Pension Act and Overflow at High School Make Many Vacancies—School Teachers in Europe

The school board will meet in regular session this evening and by all accounts the meeting will be an important one. Owing to the addition to the high school and the pension act which took effect July 1, the board will have to elect at least 11 teachers, including four or five for the high school. The teachers to be pensioned, it was stated today, include Miss Webster of the high school and two principals, Miss Eliza Crowley of the Central street school and Miss Mary E. Drew of the Ames street school.

The entering class for the high school will number 637. Of this number 279 will be cared for in the old Southworth house, known as the Varnum property, in Kirk street. The city has succeeded in borrowing $30,-

FRENCH SOLDIERS SPEAK HIGHLY OF BRAVERY OF GERMANS

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 25.—News has reached here that a French force of Turcos, zouaves and Senegalese during the fighting in upper Alsace, entered and almost destroyed the towns of Flachslanden, Jugsdorf, Landser, Brunnstatt, Heiweiler and Morschweiler.

Wounded French soldiers who have crossed the Swiss frontier and are interned here speak highly of the bravery of the German troops. They say the German soldiers evidently think nothing of their lives in their efforts to gain a victory over great odds. Their one desire, they say, appears to be to do the most foolhardy things to serve their cause and when captured or overwhelmed they accept their fate stoically.

FIERCE FIGHTING AT OSTEND

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch from Ostend to the Evening News says fierce fighting by the Belgian gendarmerie and the German cavalry is occurring in the outskirts of the city. Wounded are being brought in.

50,000 BELGIANS WOUNDED BY GERMANS

THE HAGUE, Aug. 25.—A camp for interned Belgians, of whom there are about 2000 in Holland, is now being constructed at Oudenirdum in Friesland. It is understood here that the Belgians wounded in the fighting against Germany up to the present time number about 50,000. The first casualty list published contains the names of two thousand Belgian dead. Conservative estimates made here place the total number of dead at about 16,000.

RUSSIANS ROUT AUSTRIANS; MOVE ON TOWARD LEMBERG

PARIS, Aug. 25.—A despatch received here from St. Petersburg sets forth that Russian troops following up their advantages in Galicia have captured several passes south of Tarnopol on the Sereth river. Tarnapol is 80 miles to the east of Lemberg. A division of Austrian cavalry has been routed in Galicia at a point close to the frontier. The Russians captured two batteries of artillery and 200 prisoners.

FRANCE LOST 10,000 MEN

Taken by Germans—Advance of All German Armies Toward Paris is Probable

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A concentric advance of all the German armies toward Paris is probable, the Semois River, Longwy and the greater part of the Belgian-French frontier being in German hands, according to a wireless despatch to the German embassy from its foreign office received today via Sayville, L. I. It says:

"The German troops facing the French troops defeated them in battle from Aug. 17 to 21. Numerous ensigns, more than 150 guns and 10,000 prisoners have been captured. Luneville has been taken and the army of General Joffre, broken up, is no more capable of action. The German crown prince's army has chased the French west of Longwy. The army of the Duke of Wurtemberg, marching through Belgium, has crossed the river Semois, completely crushing the advancing French army. Numerous guns, ensigns, prisoners and several generals were captured. The German troops advancing west of the river Meuse toward Maubeuge defeated an English cavalry brigade. The river Semois, Longwy and the greater part of the Belgo-Franco frontier are in German hands. A concentric advance of all the German army toward Paris is probable."

LATE WAR BULLETINS

ALLIED FLEET WRECKED CATTARO FORTIFICATIONS

MILAN, Aug. 25.—5.10 a. m.—A news despatch from Cattaro says that all of the fortifications there have been destroyed by the allied fleet. The Austrians did not have time before the attack to strew the gulf of Cattaro with mines.

VIENNA TO BE PUT IN STATE OF DEFENSE

PARIS, Aug. 25.—6.20 a. m.—A Fournier's agency despatch from Rome says that an official message from Vienna states that Emperor Francis Joseph has signed a decree ordering the capital to be put in a state of defense.

Travelers from Trieste state that the Austrians are concentrating for the defense of the Adriatic at Pola and Sevenico. The population of the latter have been sent inland. All the Austrian fleet has been assembled in the Fasana canal at Pola.

"WILLIAM II, EMPEROR OF EUROPE"

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Handelsblaad says that since Monday no Germans have been in Brussels. Arrivals from Liege state that many houses there were burned last week. German soldiers have inscribed on the walls of the city "William II, Emperor of Europe."

GERMAN CAVALRYMEN CLOSING IN ON ALLIES

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Central News circulates a despatch from Paris saying that an official communication given out in that city declares that German cavalrymen belonging to an independent division are operating on the extreme right and on the extreme left of the position of the allies.

$4,000,000 TOWARD WAR INDEMNITY PAID

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Times from Flushing says that $4,000,000 towards the war indemnity of $40,000,000 demanded of the city of Brussels by the Germans already has been paid.

It is reported that the Germans in Brussels blew up a tramway station because the directors of the street railway refused to grant certain requirements.

GERMAN ZEPPELIN FLIES OVER ANTWERP

FIRST ACTION OF ENGLISH TROOPS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—4.03 a. m.—The French correspondent of the Associated Press says the British troops came into action for the first time on Friday and Saturday. It was only an affair of outposts and scouting but interesting because of the light it threw on the exhausted condition of the German advance guard.

The correspondent continues:

Detachments were scouting in the country to the westward of Brussels and south as far as Charleroi. Exhausted though the German cavalry were known to be as a whole their success lay in continued rapid advance and it was obvious that they would push on at the first possible moment.

So while the Belgians were sullenly falling back toward the north the English cavalry were busily employed feeling for the inevitable German advance while the French horse, foot and artillery came up from the south and west.

GERMANS WIN FIRST GREAT BATTLE—ALLIES FORCED TO RETREAT

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Kaiser's armies have gained a material victory in the great battle on Belgian soil, and today finds the allies in retreat and the invaders pushing down across the French frontier.

This is taken as the explanation of the announcement of the French war office, which declared that while the allies had held their own against the Germans on the extreme west of the battle line, they had been forced back to "covering positions."

The allies are resting on the advanced lines of the French border defenses, it is believed.

All day yesterday there were conflicting rumors of the progress of the mighty struggle, and great crowds await patiently in front of the newspaper offices for some authentic announcement.

There came from Berlin by way of the United States the report of a great victory over the French at Neufchateau, where a German army under Grand Duke Albert of Wurtemburg had been battling three days with the army of the republic.

This was supplemented by an announcement of the official news bureau that the English, who had taken the offensive in front of Mons, were merely holding their own; and again, later in the day, came news from Paris indicating that the French were throwing their reserve forces into lower Belgium and calling upon the English to send aid from the western wing.

Serious Reverses

It was not until late evening that the setback for the allies was officially admitted by the Paris war office. In this, the first real test of strength between the combatants, the Germans have shown their power, and are sure to push their campaign with increased determination.

The French announcement of yesterday afternoon, which gave the first inkling that things were not going well for the allies, read:

"The general engagement continues today with desperation. Already both sides have suffered serious losses.

"Our armies had absolutely taken the offensive between the Moselle and Meuse, in Belgium. A general battle is now being fought in Upper Alsace, upon the Vosges mountains, and along the river Meurthe. The main body of troops is under the command of Gen. Pau. These forces hold the front heretofore indicated.

"An army from the north of Wavre is approaching Neufchateau, and is attacking the German forces which have defiled through Luxemburg and are now upon the right bank of the Semois.

Severe Fighting in Ardennes

"Another army from the direction of Sedan has crossed the department of Ardennes and is engaging the German army corps which has been proceeding between the river Lesse and the river Meuse.

"A third army corps from the neighborhood of Chimay is advancing to attack the German right between the river Sambre and the river Meuse. This third army is supported by an English army which has come over from the vicinity of Mons.

"The movements of the Germans who sought to pass our left wing were followed step by step, and their right now finds itself attacked by the left wing of our army, which is working in conjunction with the English.

"From this side the battle continued vigorously for more than 24 hours, the field extending over the remainder of the front."

Russians Won Great Battle

The long promised Russian invasion of Germany has begun, and already the Czar's troops have fought a great battle and are reported in possession of cities on three important railroads leading into the heart of East Prussia.

The Rome correspondent of the Central News has telegraphed that a dispatch received in the Italian capital from St. Petersburg has gone to the headquarters of the Russian army, which has taken the offensive in full strength.

If affairs on the French border are as serious for the allies as is believed, Russia will be looked to for a powerful effort that shall serve as a diversion and compel the movement of German troops over from the French to the Russian boundary.

FALL OF NAMUR GREAT BLOW TO ALLIES—GERMANS TO MARCH ON PARIS

LONDON, Aug. 25. 5:10 a. m.—Commenting on the fall of Namur before the Germans the Times says it is one of those inexplicable events which makes war the gamble that it is. That Namur should have fallen in two days will require a deal of explanation, the Times adds.

The Times military expert says that it is too early to say that the line of the Meuse south of Mezieres must be abandoned but the outlook is not favorable and the development of the situation in the next few days will be watched with legitimate anxiety. He continues:

There are reports that the townspeople and even the garrison of Namur were less well disposed than the men of Liege to offer a strenuous resistance and so bring upon their town the punishment meted out by Germans to Liege. There is undoubtedly some slight feeling among the Belgians that they have not been adequately supported by the allies and that they have borne the whole brunt of the war in the north but we cannot believe that the Belgians did less than their duty and we expect to hear that they were attacked by overpowering numbers.

The possession of Namur was vital for Germany and it was a fine stroke for the Germans to have rushed the place under the eyes of the allied armies. We still hope and believe that our counter-offensive in the north is only postponed and not abandoned.

Reviewing the general situation, the Times military expert points out that the allies in Belgium are meeting the full shock of the German army. He says that it is essential for Germany that she should deal a paralyzing blow in this quarter in order to gain time to detach troops to resist the Russian attack on the Prussian frontier.

Commenting on the loss of the Belgian stronghold, the Chronicle says:

The news today is decidedly bad. It adds that if the allies losses have been heavy "we may yet see before long the Germans march in earnest upon Paris."

Namur is a fortress of great strength which its defenders could possibly hold several months.

BRITISH, RUSSIAN AND FRENCH EMBASSIES FLYING JAPANESE FLAG

TOKIO, Aug. 25—10 a. m.—The British, Russian and French embassies are flying the Japanese flag as symbolic of the alliance. Vice-Admiral Tomosabure Kato has been appointed commander-in-chief of the first squadron.

Vice-Admiral Sadakichi Kato, commander of the second squadron, and Rear Admiral Touchiya, commander of the third squadron.

Contradictory reports are in circulation of a battle between British and German warships but there has been no confirmation.

The German ambassador, Count von Rex and staff are completing arrangements for sailing on the steamer Minnesota for San Francisco.

CARDINALS AT ROME

PREPARATIONS FOR APPROACHING CONCLAVE—CARDINAL FARLEY EXPECTED TOMORROW

ROME, Aug. 25.—In preparation for the approaching conclave to elect a successor to Pope Pius X the printing bureau of the Vatican is getting out maps which are to be distributed to the cardinals showing each one where his apartments are to be located.

Owing to their feebleness several of the cardinals will be permitted to occupy rooms in the rear of the Sistine chapel obviating the necessity of climbing stairs to the chapel twice daily to cast their ballots. Other cardinals have been notified that they may celebrate mass in their own rooms instead of going every morning to the Pauline chapel.

Cardinal Farley, archbishop of New York, has reached Milan from Switzerland. He is expected at Rome tomorrow. The condition of his health is excellent.

The hope is entertained here that the American cardinals, Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell will succeed in reaching Rome in time for the conclave. It is felt that insomuch that they are outside the influences of the European war they will be able to bring an impartial view to the election of the new pope.

REPORT RUSSIAN VICTORY

Defeat of Three German Army Corps in Northeastern Prussia Converted Into Rout

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg says:

The German defenses in east Prussia is based on four parallel and strongly fortified lines running north and south. Each is supported by natural obstacles. The foremost three lines are distinct groups of numerous lakes. The fourth and strongest defense line is the Vistula river, extending from the Russian frontier to the Baltic. Outside these defense lines the Germans have on the northeast the very strong fortress of Konigsburg with fortified advance positions at Libau and Tapiau.

The foremost three defense lines are extensively fortified. There are important and permanent fortifications at Allenstein and Boyen and the whole is filled with lakes, leaving only comparatively narrow defiles for the advancing troops. The country is full of fortifications partly provisional and partly field works, most of which are armed with heavy guns. A frontal attack would be a very difficult task.

The Vistula, from 500 to 1000 yards wide, is guarded by six fortresses.

A man entitled to rank among the first as an organizer of victory is compelled to remain far from the battlefield. He is Gen. Soukhomlinoff, the Russian Kitchener, who is now reorganizing the Russian armies. Through him the armies have been irreproachably equipped and the spirit of the men is the same as the spirit of the nation.

Defeat of Germans in Russia

The defeat of three German army corps in northeastern Prussia was converted into a rout by the timely arrival of another army coming from Warsaw in the rear of the enemy's position. The Warsaw army, which was very powerful, completely turned the German position at the Mazur lakes and while extending its operations over a wide front westward, headed towards Allenstein. The German 20th army corps thus became a nut between stout crackers.

In Galicia the theatre of Russian strategy will be on a level with the victorious plan adopted further north. The Austrians in Lemberg probably will be taken in a similar way.

The Austrian force retreating from Vladimir, Volhynski, Russia, 17 miles from the frontier towards Sokal in Galacia, Austria, probably has been cut off. Grand Duke Michael, the emperor's brother, has returned from abroad and is going to the front.

The Russian embassy in London, while pleased over the victory at Gumbinnen, states that it feels bound to warn the English press not to exaggerate the consequences of the victory.

GERMANS DESTROY MANY VILLAGES

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Daily News from Paris says that the Germans bombarded Charleroi between noon and two o'clock Saturday. They came into the town by way of the left bank of the Sambre river. That same evening French troops arrived but as the Germans kept up a fire from the houses in the lower part of the town, the French were forced to bombard it and that portion of the place was soon in flames. On the same day, the Germans set fire to a whole series of outlying villages, destroying Marchinnes, Monee Au Sur Sambre, Anderlues and Chaclet.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT'S UNFAVORABLE REPLY TO AMERICAN PROPOSAL NOT FINAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The French government's unfavorable reply to the American proposal for recognition of the neutality of belligerent ships carrying refugees from Europe was not a final decision, Secretary Bryan said today. The proposal was made in connection with the plan to charter Hamburg-American liners to bring United States citizens home. The decision of France indicated its disapproval, contending it would be an advantage to German shipping.

With the return to Washington of Jules Jusserand, the French ambassador it was understood negotiations on the subject would be renewed. The American government is anxious to establish the principle that ships chartered to carry the citizens of neutrals may be regarded as on a mission of philanthropy, one of the circumstances according to the second Hague convention, under which vessels are exempt from capture. At present Americans are able to leave Europe through other arrangements.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT IN NORTH RESUMED, REPORTS PARIS

"The German offensive movement in the north, which was stopped yesterday appears today to have been resumed.

"In Lorraine after the counter attacks of yesterday the right of the French forces withdrew to the river Mortagne which is a continuation of the Meurthe, from Luneville to Nancy.

"In Alsace French troops repulsed a number of German attacks directed against Colmar.

"The report of the recapture of Muelhausen by the Germans is without foundation. Moreover, the theatre of operations in Alsace is becoming of secondary importance."

$2500 FOR RING

Lowell Pitcher Sold to the New York Americans

This will not be such a bad year for the Lowell team financially after all for this afternoon at Riverside park, Lawrence, Manager Gray sold his star pitcher, Jimmie Ring, to the New York Americans for the sum of $2500.

The deal was made by Arthur Irwin, scout for the New York Americans who was present at yesterday's game at Spalding park and was completed at Lawrence this afternoon.

Ring was procured from the Brooklyn club early in the season after Ebbet's team had given him a tryout and then discarded him. From the first his pitching for the local team was remarkable.

He had a bad slump, however, in the middle of the season and was pounded off the rubber on several occasions. As it was just the time of the year when the scouts from the majors were making a tour of the minor league parks he was overlooked for that reason.

Ring's greatest asset is his spit-ball. When he is in form his wet offering is almost impossible to solve and the heaviest stickers in this league have been mowed down with it.

Jimmy is but nineteen years of age. He is a tall, slim chap, weighs 170 pounds and is fast on his feet. He is also a good fielding pitcher as his work last Saturday readily showed when he made ten assists and one putout without a misplay.

LORD KITCHENER TALKS

TOLD HEARERS IN HOUSE OF LORDS WAR WOULD STRAIN FORCES AND ENTAIL SACRIFICES

LONDON, Aug. 25, 5.30 p. m.—Lord Kitchener made his first speech as minister of war in the house of lords today. He told his hearers that this war undoubtedly would strain the forces of the empire and entail big sacrifices. He laid emphasis on the fact that his position in the cabinet involved adherence to neither party. He said:

"The terms on which I am serving here are the same as those under which some of the finest portions of our manhood, now so willingly stepping forward to join the colors, are engaging. That is to say, my term of office is for the duration of the war, or for three years if the war should last longer than that.

"It has been asked why this period has been limited. It is because if this disastrous war be prolonged, and no one can foretell for a certainty its duration, that after three years of war others will take our places and see this matter through. There will be serious conflicts which undoubtedly strain the forces of our empire and undoubtedly considerable sacrifices to our men will be entailed. These will willingly be borne for our honor and for the preservation of our position in the world, and they will be shared by our dominions, who are now sending contingents and giving assistance of every kind to the mother country.

"Our expeditionary force has taken the field on the French northwest frontier and advanced to the neighborhood of Mons (in Belgium.) Our troops already have been for 36 hours in contact with the superior forces of the German invader. During that time they maintained the best traditions of the British soldier and behaved with the utmost gallantry. The movements they have been called upon to execute have been those which demanded the greatest steadiness of a soldier and skill in the commanders."

DROPPED LOOT ON LAWN

WORCESTER, Aug. 25.—The home of Harold Parker, former chairman of the state highway commission in South Lancaster was entered by a burglar this morning, who gathered $2,000 worth of silverware in a bag and was getting away with the booty when he was frightened and dropped it on the lawn. His visit netted him only three dozen silver spoons, which he probably carried away in his pockets.

Occupants of the house heard the burglar and turned on the electric lights, causing him to drop his loot and make his escape in the darkness.

RICHARD ALLEN THE RESCUER

The name of the man who rescued Mrs. Bishop yesterday when she jumped into the canal is Richard Allen of Whiting street. He is a machinist employed at the Entwistle shop. He deserves much credit for jumping into the water at great peril to himself without waiting to divest himself of shoes or clothing. Such deeds of daring in saving human life are always to be commended.

GERMANS ENTER PROTEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Several senators received protests today from the German-American Alliance of Holyoke, Mass., against the reported sale of arms and ammunition by an arms company of Hartford, Conn., to the Canadian government. The protests averred that such sales were in violation of the spirit of American neutrality.

TERRIBLE ATROCITIES

Committed by Germans Against Belgian Women and Children, Says Belgian Minister

PARIS, Aug. 25, 3.20 p. m.—The following announcement was given out today by the official information bureau:

"The Belgian minister in London has made the following statement:

"'In spite of the solemn assurance of good will and treaty obligations of long standing, Germany has made a savage and utterly unwarranted attack upon Belgium. However, sore pressed we may be, Belgium will never fight unfairly; she will never stoop to infringe the laws of legitimate warfare. She is putting up a brave fight against overwhelming odds. She may be beaten; she may be crushed; but to quote the words of our noble king, she never will be enslaved.

"'When German troops invaded our country, the Belgian government issued a public statement which was placarded in every town, village and hamlet, warning all civilians to abstain scrupulously from hostile acts against the troops of the enemy and the Belgian press has daily published similar notices broadcast through the land.

"'Nevertheless the German authorities have issued statements lately containing grave imputations against the attitude of the Belgian civil population and threatening us at the same time with dire reprisals. These imputations are contrary to the real facts and as to threats of future vengeance no menace of odious reprisals on the part of German troops will deter the Belgian government from protesting before the civilized world against the fearful and atrocious crimes committed wilfully and deliberately by the invading hosts against helpless noncombatants, woman and children."

"'Long is the list of outrages committed by the German troops. The appaling details of these atrocities are vouched for by a committee of inquiry recently formed by the Belgian minister of justice and presided over by him. This committee comprises the highest judicial and university authorities of Belgium, such as Chief Justice Van Ingehem, Judge Nys, Professors Cotter, Wodon, etc. Instances and particulars have been established by careful investigation based in each case upon the evidence of reliable eye-witnesses.

"'German cavalry occupying the village of Linsman were attacked by some Belgian infantry and two gendarmes. The German officer was killed by our troops during the fight and subsequently buried. At the request of the Belgian officer in command not one of the civilian population took part in this fight at Linsman. Nevertheless the village was invaded at dusk on Aug. 19 by a strong force of German cavalry, artillery, infantry and machine guns.

"'In spite of formal assurance given by the burgomaster of Linsman that no peasants had taken part in the previous fights two farms and six outlying houses were destroyed by gunfire and burned. All the male inhabitants were then compelled to come forward and hand over whatever arms they possessed. No firearms which had recently been discharged were found. Nevertheless, the invaders divided these peasants into three groups. The men of one of these groups, numbering 11 were bound and placed in a ditch, where they were found afterward with their skulls fractured by the butts of German rifles.'"

TO TAKE TUMBLE

Prices are About to go Down—Edibles on the Toboggan

Say what you want to, but things are looking up in the line of life's necessities, and perhaps, in a week or two, the European war bogie will not appear to the naked eye as such a dire catastrophe as it seems now to those who pay the butcher, the baker, the grocer and the gas and electric light companies. Just to show that something bright and cheery take the current quotations on sugar admitted by the American Sugar Refiners company and it will be noticed that that company has reduced the wholesale price of sugar just 25 cents per 100 pounds.

While the difference in price is not huge and does not amount to a panic, nevertheless it is a help. The other sugar producers are selling along the old flat rate of $7.50 for 100 pounds, but retailers say that with the largest company shaving the price it is safe to look for a backdown on the part of the others.

Then flour, they say, is not as cheap now as it is going to be. The millers cannot explain away that enormous wheat crop that is being harvested throughout the west and northwest. It must go somewhere and as it cannot go to Europe, for a while at least, it will make its way into American homes eventually, and, according to the optimistic dealers, at sane prices somewhat at variance with the quotations of from $6.50 to $8.00 a barrel that prevail at present.

The first large demand for flour which came from anxious householders, fearful lest the war sweep away all chances to get flour, has subsided somewhat. Shortly after the war was declared the late John Saunders sold 1500 barrels of flour in four days. He told the anxious purchasers that there wasn't any occasion for a run on flour, but they insisted upon having it and they got it from Mr. Saunders cheaper than they could get it elsewhere. Mr. Saunders had 4000 barrels of flour on hand when the war was declared and while others made an increase in price of $1 a barrel, Mr. Saunders asked only 25 cents a barrel extra. He told his customers that flour would be cheaper in a little while. He knew the flour market as very few men knew it and he didn't want the poor people to pay a big price when conditions didn't warrant it. Now the wholesalers say that flour will be cheaper before it is more expensive.

Nature has been good to the American buying public by inducing excellent yields in the orchards and fields. Vegetables were never cheaper than at present, peaches are dirt cheap and the indications are that the apple crop is going to be a thrifty one.

Sweet corn, tomatoes and cucumbers remain more or less a drug on the market, and may be had at very low prices. Potatoes are beginning to come in and are now selling at about $1 a bushel. This price will receive a closer shave within a week or two.

Another encouraging note has been heard at the meat line. During the past few days prices on meat have fallen from 2 to 4 cents a pound, retail, and it is expected that it will go even lower. Lamb also has suffered a tumble in price. Chops cost about 38 cents a pound for the best, and the mediums may be had from 22 cents upwards. Veal costs from 30 to 40 cents a pound; pork chops from 24 to 30 cents, and sliced ham from 32 to 40 a pound.

In the fruit line the only variety that has taken the air route is the cantaloupe, which now sell from three to six for 25 cents, which, while higher than a week ago, is not so much higher as to cause apprehension.

Here is another cheerful note: the price on baked beans is going down, and those who continue on the old fashioned ideas for a Saturday evening and Sunday morning meal, have cause to rejoice. Cheer up!

EX-GOV. JORDAN DEAD

WAS CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE FROM 1901 TO 1903

LANCASTER, N. H., Aug. 25.—Ex-Gov. Chester B. Jordan died at his home here yesterday at 6.10 after an illness of about a year, aged nearly 75. Last fall he underwent an operation at a Boston hospital and since then had been slowly growing weaker.

Chester Bradley Jordan was born in Colebrook Oct. 15, 1839, youngest of the 10 children of Johnson and Minerva Buel Jordan. His early educational advantages were limited and on attaining his majority he sought to improve them by his own efforts. He was graduated from Kimball Union academy, Meriden, in 1866.

He taught school for 18 terms and was principal of Colebrook academy in 1868, when he was appointed clerk of the Coos county court, which position he held until 1874. He was admitted to the Coos county bar in 1875 and in May, 1876, became a law partner of Ossian Ray and Irving W. Drew. He remained in that firm until his retirement on his 70th birthday.

He was governor from 1901 to 1903.

"YESTERDAY DAY OF BAD NEWS AND MORE MUST FOLLOW"—LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 25.—"Yesterday was a day of bad news and we fear more must follow," the Times says today in an editorial article on the fall of Namur. "In the first phase of the great battle," the paper continues, "the Germans appear to have won ground all along the line save in the area held by the British. We were prepared for the ebb and flow of the conflict but not for the fall of Namur. We have to face this situation with unshaken confidence. We have to remember that the battle is not yet over. The Germans have not yet burst their way through to France. We have to remember that this is only the first great encounter of a war which, plainly, is destined to be a long one. For the allies it is a phase; for the Germans it is vital. They are dealing their blows with tremendous vigor; but the issue in Belgium still hangs in the balance, in spite of the unfortunate events at Namur. Whatever be the upshot Great Britain and her allies will face the outlook with dogged determination and continue the war until the spirit of Prussian militarism is routed out of Europe."

ADDRESS OF CONDOLENCE

ON THE DEATH OF POPE DELIVERED BY AUSTRIAN AMBASSADOR AT ROME TODAY

ROME, Aug. 25.—The fifth congregation of cardinals was held today in the consistorial hall. The meeting was short, owing to the diplomatic reception which immediately followed. The diplomats were headed by Prince Schoenburg-Hartenstein, the Austrian ambassador, who is the dean of the corps. Other countries at present engaged in warfare were represented by the ministers to the Holy See from Prussia, Bavaria, Russia and Belgium. The only other European country represented was Spain, the remainder of the diplomats being from Latin-American countries.

The Austrian ambassador delivered an address of condolence on the death of Pope Pius. Reply was made by Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli.

MRS. SAWYER INDICTED

EDITOR OF WOMAN REBEL IS CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF POSTAL LAWS

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The federal grand jury today returned an indictment charging Mrs. Margaret Sanger, editor of the monthly called the Woman Rebel with violating the postal laws through the mailing of the magazine which has been debarred by Postmaster Morgan.

The Woman Rebel is circulated as a periodical seeking the emancipation of the weaker sex from man-made laws.

SCARCITY OF GOLD COIN

CONSTANTINOPLE PAPERS CONTAIN TEXT OF NEW LAW PROVISIONALLY DECREED

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Constantinople newspapers of Aug. 4 and 5 received by the American board of commissioners for foreign missions today contain the text of a new law provisionally decreed by the imperial government to meet the difficulties caused by the scarcity of gold coin.

The law proclaims that the acceptance of bank notes of the Ottoman imperial bank at the same standard as specie is obligatory in all parts of the Ottoman empire for all payments, expenses and transactions, whether between the state and private individuals or between individuals themselves.

Failure to comply with the law is punishable by either fine or imprisonment.

The ministers of justice and of finance are in charge of the execution of the present law which became effective from the date of its publication and which will be submitted to the approval of the general assembly at the next session.

VALORIZATION OF CROPS

PROPOSAL EMPHATICALLY DISAPPROVED BY SECRETARY McADOO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—Secretary McAdoo emphatically disapproved of the proposal for a valorization of crops because of the European war at today's conference of cotton and tobacco growers.

He appealed to the conference to "get down to a practical basis."

"Any issue of currency by state banks is utterly unnecessary," said Secretary McAdoo, "and it is a waste of time to talk about it. Enough national bank currency is authorized by present law to handle the cotton and all the other crops in the country. There is authorization in law for enough currency to wreck the whole country. The secretary of the treasury has wide discretion in the issue of this currency. I intend to see that all currency issued is safe because I tell you gentlemen that you cannot do anything worse than to inflate the currency to a point where you will wreck the credit of the country."

Eugene Hebert and Miss Eva M. Blais were married this morning. The ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock at Notre Dame de Lourdes' church by Rev. Joseph Magnan, O. M. I. At the close of the ceremony the party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, 418 School street, where a dinner was held followed by a reception.

FOR POPE PIUS X

A solemn high mass of requiem for the repose of the soul of the late Pope Pius X will be celebrated at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Joseph's church. A similar service will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning at Notre Dame de Lourdes' church.

THREE FINGERED BROWN QUITS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—Mordecai Brown, deposed manager of the St. Louis Federals, has quit baseball according to a statement given out today by an official of the St. Louis team. According to the official, Brown will return to his home in Terre Haute today. Next winter he will go to California to look after his mining interests.

BILE AND BILIOUSNESS

Bile is manufactured in the cells of the liver. It assists digestion and prevents putrefaction in the intestines. Bile is necessary to life but excess of bile is poisonous.

The effects of excessive secretion of bile and failure to eliminate it from the blood, which is also a function of the liver, are white-coated or brown-furred tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, indigestion, headache, lack of appetite, constipation and weariness.

This is a condition popularly called biliousness and points directly to the need of something to regulate the liver. For this purpose the claim is made that Pinklets, the new laxative, are greatly superior to old-fashioned liver medicines which over-stimulate the liver and, when their use is stopped, leave the liver more torpid than before. That over-stimulation debilitates the liver is as certain as anything known in the science of medicine. Pinklets are tiny, sugar-coated pills, dainty to take, easy in action and they do not upset the stomach nor cause griping. Given a thorough trial they really correct chronic constipation.

Your druggist sells Pinklets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free

RESERVE BANKS

All Will Open Simultaneously—The Board Makes Decision

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—After many days' consideration the Federal Reserve board has decided that it will open all 12 reserve banks at the same time.

This decision was reached after discussion of a suggestion that the New York, Boston and possibly other banks in the east be opened first. The board felt that such a plan would be unwise.

The board is expected to take up tomorrow the selection of Class "C" directors of the 12 banks. As soon as these officers are chosen the banks will take the remaining steps to choose their officers, obtain quarters, pay their assessments and be ready to open when the word is given.

The selection of directors may keep the board busy for several days, but enough probably will be chosen in each district before the end of the week to make organization of the banks possible.

DIRECTORS OF BANKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—As one of the final steps to set in motion the nation's new currency system, the federal reserve board today took up consideration of men from whom will be selected Class C directors of the twelve regional banks. A sufficient number of the new officials would be chosen in each district before the end of the week, it was believed, to make possible the organization of the banks.

Election of Class A and B directors was completed by the member banks some time ago. The board has determined that the twelve banks will be opened simultaneously.

MURDER OF 2 WOMEN

ALLEGED THAT MEAT GRINDER WAS USED TO DISPOSE OF BODIES

EUGENE, Oregon, Aug. 25.—Victor Innes and his wife, charged with the murder of Mrs. Eloise Dennis and Miss Beatrice Nelms, left here today for San Antonio, Texas, in charge of a Texas deputy sheriff.

Accompanying the prisoners is a large meat grinder found in the Innes home. This is being taken to Texas in an effort to prove that it was used in disposing of the bodies of the murdered women.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Margaret and Elizabeth Rice, 26 and 13 years old respectively, and an unidentified man who tried to rescue them, were drowned at a bathing beach in Lake Michigan today. The girls were caught in an undertow and dragged 50 feet from shore.

FRANCIS JOSEPH DYING

DEATH OF AUSTRIAN EMPEROR SAID TO BE ONLY A MATTER OF HOURS

"The condition of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, according to telegrams received today, is much worse. His death is a question of hours."

CARDINAL AGLIARDI

When the cardinals meet in conclave on August 30 to elect a successor to the late Pope Pius X, an effort will be made to have the European nations now at war declare a truce and attempt to settle the difficulties without further bloodshed. Cardinal Agliardi heads the movement to have the sacred college ask the rulers of the belligerent nations to end the hostilities. He is also mentioned for selection as the new pope.

PFEFFER OF THE SUPERBAS IS THE BEST PITCHER ON ROBINSON'S STAFF

BROOKLYN, Aug. 25.—The most dependable pitcher that Manager Robinson has is "Hussen" Pfeffer, a young man from whom little was expected at the beginning of the season. Rucker has been in bad condition all season and has shown nothing like his usual form. Pfeffer, with a weak team back of him, is up among the leaders in games won, and as he is a young player he is expected to be even better next year.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LAKEVIEW PARK

Five graceful and pretty young women and two men, billed as the Seven Leedys, are doing remarkable "stunts" on the wire at Lakeview Park this week, having been engaged by the management as the extra out-door attraction at this popular resort. They dance, turn somersaults, carry each other on their shoulders, jump over chairs and perform all manner of seemingly impossible feats on the wire, regardless of how hard the wind blows. The act is one of the kind one sees with the big three ring circus and one of the best of the kind ever presented here. In their handsome blue and purple dresses, the men dressed in satin knickerbockers, they present a neat and pleasing appearance and work with a vim and dash that is characteristic of the "big time" vaudeville performer and another mark may be made to the credit of the management for giving the patrons of Lakeview something new and of a character well worth a trip to this popular resort to witness. The Leedys appear on the open air stage every afternoon at 3.45 and every evening at 9 p. m. during the present week.

At the theatre the usual excellent program of pictures may be seen, five reels of the latest releases, including both comedy and dramatic features as well as the mutual weekly, a pictorial review of current events of the day. As the end of the season at this popular resort approaches large crowds are taking advantage of every warm and pleasant day for a visit to one of New England's most pleasant summer resorts.

CANOBIE LAKE

Perhaps it was the splendid weather or perhaps it was the return of the old favorites that made it so but anyway Canobie Lake Park theater was filled to its capacity last evening when the Homan's Musical Revue offered the seventh edition of their big musical show and fairly swept the audience off its feet with a variety of the most original, novel and fascinating numbers that it has been the good fortune of the patrons to enjoy in a number of weeks.

Eddie Dowling, after a few weeks of much needed rest, was there as big and lively as ever, skating, sliding and falling all over the stage in his delight to be back again with the people who have grown so fond of him and with whom he has found it quite impossible not to reciprocate warmly.

Bob Jewett and Hap Pendleton, that clever pair of dancers who have won such a reputation hereabouts, are back too, and are offering one of the best dancing specialties of their entire repertoire, one that won the applause and enthusiasm of the audience last evening in a most positive manner.

Walter Morrison, he with the ragtime voice, had the entire audience swaying to the melodious swing of his ragtime offerings, and while there was an abundance of enthusiasm for all of the numbers in the show, the applause for him was second to none.

Walter Bergeron and Betty Farrington offered something more on the high class order and they, too, were generously applauded, as in fact, all of the acts were, even the chorus girlies being appreciated for their snappy work.

THE OWL THEATRE

"In the Bishop's Carriage," with Mary Pickford and the Frohman Players, was received with enthusiasm at both of yesterday's performances, and the same performance will be repeated today. Miss Pickford as Nancy, has added another laurel to her well-earned reputation. Her impersonation of the little waif of the underworld, who finally wins love and happiness, through a series of mishaps, is marvelous and her winning personality is again displayed at every hand, while her acting disarms any criticism that could be offered. The supporting cast of players, are also to be complimented on the handling of their respective roles. They play with a naturalness that is good to the eye. Among the other photoplays to be shown besides this fine feature today, will be "The Feud at Beaver Brook," a special two-part drama, "In Peril's Path," a Keystone comedy, and others. Vocal selections will be rendered at each performance, while the sliding roof will afford comfort during the hot summer days.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

They certainly do come back, especially when a first class burlesque show comes to town to awaken them and bring them back. Last night at the Academy of Music at the initial performance of the season which marks the return of burlesque to Lowell, nearly all the first-nighters were in attendance, although a few skeptics remained away to hear the verdict of the early birds before taking a chance. It's a good bet they'll all be there tonight or tomorrow for the performance was replete with the real goods, and it recalled the good old days of Harry Morris, Roble and his Bohemians with Edna Aug and Emma Carus, and a host of merrymakers of the "Big Wheel" who in Manager Boody's time packed them away at the Academy. Of course with this show there is an added attraction in the shape, and I say shape advisedly, of Larry Crane, the celebrated Irish magician who first saw the light of day in that romantic part of Ireland known as the "Acre," or to the politicians as old ward one. Like the guy who "shined" them up so carefully that now he is the ruler of the Queen's navee," Larry is now the lord of the domain of legerdemain, or something like that, magic, sleight-of-hand, etc., with a native born wit and flow of soft talk into the bargain. Larry can make any old thing disappear but flesh, and he's added a lot of that to his makeup since his last appearance though it doesn't hinder him in the least in his work. His act is the big feature of the show and he is ably assisted by Miss Grace Andrews, a charming blonde who disappears and reappears in several most mystifying stunts. Hermann and Keller had their day but this is the day of Larry Crane and anything that they did Larry can do and also a few stunts that weren't known in their day, while Larry has it on them inasmuch as he is a wit and adds to the enjoyment of his act by his merry prattle. Larry is a member of Lowell lodge, B. P. O. E., and tonight the members of the lodge to the number of 300 will attend and Lawrence will draw upon his fund of wit and humor to give them a little additional entertainment. In the closing burlesque last evening Larry worked up a funny little dialogue playing on the name of Marty Halloran, of the Arlington hotel, who was among the spectators, and it made a big hit.

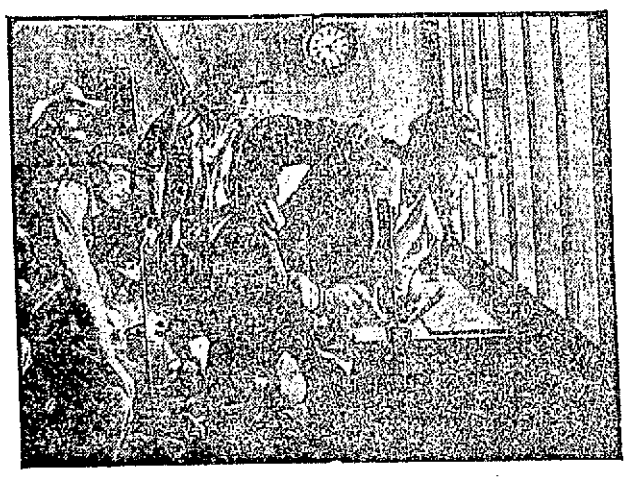

The burlesque company is headed by Richy Craig, a German comedian who scrambles the English language most ridiculously. Craig is much in evidence throughout the show and he is a hit at all times. His specialty between the burlesques is something entirely new to Lowell and was a most attractive offering. With a graphaphone as his assistant he carried on a very funny rapid-fire dialogue and so precise was he in his talk that one would imagine that he were holding a face to face conversation with a companion rather than with a metalic record. The novelty of this act alone would make it a success, but it is not only novel but real funny. Mr. Craig also gives a couple of most acceptable solos on the saxaphone. The opening burlesque entitled: "That Funny Janitor" introduces in the cast, Mr. Craig, Harry Seyon, Dorothy Blodgett, Flo Julene, Artie Lewis, Billie Leonard, Ethel Weston and Tiny Russell and a chorus of 26 young comely and graceful girls. The blizzard-faced beauty of uncertain age who once was invariably to be found in the burlesque line-up was conspicuous by her absence. The costumes were all brand new and very attractive, the dialogue was amusing and clean throughout. Six solos with choruses were given while the finale "I Love the Whole U. S. A." by Miss Dorothy Blodgett, a strikingly comely young woman, and the entire company aroused the patriotic enthusiasm of the audience. In addition to the offerings of Larry Crane and Richy Craig, the olio included Artie Lewis and Billie Leonard, "The Two Hicks" and Harry Seyon and Flo Julene in a comedy sketch. The concluding burlesque was entitled "From Broadway to Atlantic City" including the entire company and was even funnier than the opening sketch. The shows are well staged and elaborately costumed and there is nothing to be seen or heard in the entire production that would offend the most exacting critic. The Craig burlesquers will appear twice today and twice tomorrow.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The Merrimack Square theatre has had many excellent productions by its stock company, but none better than "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," a four act drama now being presented twice daily with great success. It is the production made popular by Douglas Fairbanks. It has all the elements for an enjoyable play, excitement, travel, love, comedy and climaxes following in quick succession. The cast of characters last night was as follows:

Augustus III.....Wm. B. Freeman
Prince Vladimir.....Clifford Hastings
Count Ivan Paulovic.....Arthur Fox
M. De Witz .....Ted Brickett
Col. Nadulski.....C. A. Bickford
An officer of guard .....Robert Lee
M. Frederick, proprietor of the casino
Malcolm Clifford
Reporter on the Borrovina Scimitar
Kenneth Fleming
Anthony Hamilton Hawthorne, an American .....Sam A. Meharry
Rodney Blake, his friend, Senator Thomas Ballard, Kate Ballard, his daughter, tourists
Eugene Desmond, Joseph Thayer
Miss Marjorie Rendel
Princess Irma, Augusta Elizabeth Oberitch, the king's daughter
Miss Eva Marsh
Miss Fite Hardings Smythe, an English governess....Miss May B. Hurst
Officers, Soldier, Officials, Civilians

A young American and his chum are leading characters in the plot. After breaking the bank at Monte Carlo, they visit a supposed kingdom in the south of Europe, where great commotion is caused from the fact that the king is financially "busted." The young American arrives in time to avert a crisis by his timely assistance in meeting the royal obligations. Naturally the American falls in love with the king's daughter and to make possible their marriage the king proclaims his dominions an independent state. The various complications in the development of the plot afford ample opportunity for the introduction of comedy that keeps the audience in a merry state of mind throughout. Sam A. Meharry in the title role did excellent work, proving equal to the varied requirements of his part, whether grave or gay, but mostly the latter. As "Rodney Blake," Mr. Eugene Desmond proved an able comedian, giving excellent support to the leading character. Eva Marsh as Princess Ballard, played the role with dignity and grace. Miss Marjorie Rendel as daughter of a U. S. senator, looking for a rheumatic cure, emphasized her Americanism in a pleasing manner, while the other gentry, Mm. H. Freeman, Clifford Hastings, Arthur Fox, as Augustus III., a prince and count respectively, assumed aristocratic airs with due decorum. Malcolm Clifford as reporter of the "Scimitar," displayed his journalistic proclivities as if he had had experience. The other characters were all very good, and the performance is well worth seeing. If given in a Boston theatre it would have large audiences. It will be repeated afternoon and evening this week.

ROGER PECKINPAUGH IS ONE OF THE BEST MEN FRANK CHANCE HAS FOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Roger Peckinpaugh, shortstop and field captain of the Yankees, is one of the best men Frank Chance has added to the team since he took the management. Peck is playing an excellent game in his difficult position, and he has recently been doing timely batting. He was regarded as a good player when Chance got him from Cleveland, and he has developed rapidly this season. He was the first infielder Chance found that fitted into place. He is deservedly popular with the fans, who treat him fairly when he makes the occasional slips that any player will make.

LATE WAR BULLETINS

GREAT BATTLE IN PROVINCE OF HAINAUT

LONDON, Aug. 25.—A despatch to the Express from Ostend says: A great battle has been in progress in the prince of Hainaut on the southern frontier of Belgium since Friday evening. French and British troops have been engaged in desperate conflicts north of Charleroi and Fleurus with Germans who crossed the Meuse at Huy.,

Saturday French troops which had spread from Lille met the German right in East Flanders.

Desperate fighting between outposts took place at Oudenarde and Renaix. The losses were heavy on both sides Monday. Twenty-five thousand Germans have been surrounded between Courtrai and Anseghem, a town six miles west of Oudenarde. Fighting was progressing Sunday at Peronnes, between Mons and Pinche and between Waiegem and Oudenard.

GERMANS WIN FIRST GREAT BATTLE

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The German army has won the first great battle of the great war. All along the 100-mile front of battle the allies have been driven back, not slowly and stubbornly, but so swiftly that the defeat seems so catastrophic that it might better be termed a rout.

SAW SOLDIERS SHOT DOWN BY THE DOZEN

PARIS, Aug. 25.—A traveler who has come to Paris from Charleroi was a witness of part of the fighting at that place. He has related his experiences to a reporter of the Petit Parisien as follows:

"I was at Fore, 15 miles from Erquelines. This region is covered with a thick growth of trees. From where I was stationed I could see passing for hours column after column, of German infantry. They were subjected to a veritable hurricane of iron from the French artillery and they went down by the dozen.

"At Solere Le Chateau I saw a German aeroplane brought down by a well directed shot and I was told that another such machine had met the same fate at Norles."

DIFFICULT TO RESTRAIN SERVIANS FROM MEASURES OF REVENGE

PARIS, Aug. 25—1.15 p. m.—That Servia is prepared to wage a war of no quarter to her enemies is indicated in a note sent by Servia to the French government protesting against the alleged order from the headquarters of the Austrian army to burn Servian crops and to fire Servian villages all along the Austrian line of march. His note says further that in view of Austrian cruelties to Servian troops it will be very difficult to restrain the Servians from measures of revenge and that the Servian government finds itself constrained to take all measures of reprisal compatible with international law.

KING ALBERT PROMOTES GEN. BERTRAND FOR EXCELLENT CONDUCT

ANTWERP, Aug. 25—An official announcement issued today sets forth that King Albert has promoted Lieut. General Bertrand to the rank of full general, as a reward for his excellent conduct before the enemy.

500 BELGIANS ARRIVE AT NAMUR AFTER 20 DAYS OF FIGHTING AND MARCHING

LONDON, Aug. 25.—4.25 a. m.—The Antwerp correspondent of the Morning Post tells a vivid story of the adventures of 500 men of the Belgian army at Liege who arrived at Namur Saturday afternoon after 20 days of fighting and marching.

At the opening of the war their post was between the Liege forts, Chaudfontaine and Embourg.

On Wednesday night of the first week of the war, orders were given them to evacuate their position but the orders never reached this battalion, which became isolated by the Germans. The Germans were aware of their presence but did not know their strength and the Belgians, entrenching, were able to hold out eight days after the retirement of the main Belgian field force and repulsed constant German attacks. Finally when their rations run short, they succeeded in breaking through the German lines and after many hair breadth escapes reached Hairan. Later they got to Namur.

PARIS ADMITS DEFEAT BY GERMANS—ALLIES RETIRE TO COVERING POSITIONS

PARIS Aug. 25.—The French war office says:

The French and English, the plan of attack having failed owing to unforeseen difficulties, have retired on the covering positions.

SAY GERMANS FORCED BELGIAN MINERS TO MARCH AT HEAD OF ADVANCE

PARIS, Aug. 25—2.30 a. m.—A despatch to the Havas agency from Ostend, Belgium, says that at Charleroi, the German troops obliged ten Belgian miners who had just come out of a mine with lamps in their hands to march at the head of their advance. All the miners were killed.

Similar tactics, according to the same authority, were employed at Mount Sur Marshienne in the province of Hainaut.

INHABITANTS OF FRENCH VILLAGES AIDED THE GERMAN TROOPS

PARIS, Aug. 25.—4.25 a. m.—A despatch received here from Bourgais gives the recital of a French officer, wounded in Lorraine. He relates how the Germans were aided by the local inhabitants, who had prepared for every eventuality. The officials of villages of Lorraine fell upon the necks of the French soldiers when they came into town and greeted them as saviors. No sooner had they done this than they would go to the edge of the village and hang out French flags, big white sheets, etc. to indicate to the enemy the exact position of the French soldiers. The mayor of one village taped a French field telephone wire for the benefit of the enemy, after having offered a room in his house for the installation of the station. A local schoolmaster corrected the range of the German guns by moving the hands of the church clock. At Dieuze the French were persuaded they would meet no opposition. Despite these assurances, however, they came upon concrete trenches filled with German troops and supported by quick firing guns. After they had stormed the trenches with the bayonet and were resting they heard the strains of Chopin's funeral march played by a military band in the distance. This music served as a prelude to a storm of shells from a masked battery.

AERIAL BOMBARDMENT

Zeppelin Airship Dropped Bombs in Antwerp — Several Killed — Hospital Wrecked

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The correspondent at Antwerp of the Evening News telegraphs that a Zeppelin airship which flew over Antwerp last night was brought down by Belgian artillery fire at Hemixem, six miles outside of Antwerp. The crew of 15 men were taken prisoners. This despatch evidently refers to the same airship reported earlier in the day from Antwerp as having flown over the city last night.

Another despatch from Antwerp says this Zeppelin before it was brought to earth succeeded in dropping seven or eight bombs into Antwerp. One of the houses wrecked by these missiles was situated only 300 yards from the palace of King Albert. Seven persons were killed and six seriously injured by this explosion. Some other houses were demolished by the falling bombs.

One bomb partly wrecked the hospital of Saint Elizabeth but fortunately there were no patients in the building. The explosions threw the inhabitants of Antwerp into a condition of semi-panic.

There is intense indignation in Antwerp at the attack upon the hospital which was flying the Red Cross flag.

John Pollard, fireman, also fell and was injured, but is expected to recover. Both men were overcome by smoke. The house was not badly damaged.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The agents of the six Italian steamship lines with offices in New York have received notice from the Italian government not to book passage on any steamer for any person of belligerent nationality, according to announcement made today by one of their agents. The purpose of the order, it was said, was to emphasize the neutrality of Italy.

FRIENDS OF YORE NOW NO MORE

Roommates in Court, One Charged With Larceny by the Other

Mrs. Bishop Sent to Jail for a Rest—Boston Couple Arraigned

Schoolmates and friends in the good old days of long ago, Arthur Brooks and William Paquin, faced each other in police court today, the former as accuser and the latter as defendant in a larceny case.

Inspector Walsh arrested Paquin and piloted him toward Market street when his erstwhile chum, Brooks, complained of missing several articles from his room. A clarinet, razor, clock and other articles had been removed by William, so the complaint read.

In summing up the case at the conclusion of the evidence introduced it looked very bad for William even if he did contend strenuously that he was not guilty of such a wicked act.

The defendant acknowledged that he took the articles but stated emphatically that it was only a temporary loan and not a theft. Brooks, it appears, took pity on his old friend when he found him without funds and in no fair way of procuring anything to eat and gave him shelter in his room and board in his eating house.

However, William thought that his friend could afford to use him a little better and that the loss of a clock, clarinet and razor wouldn't be much anyway. It proved to be too much, however.

When Supt. Welch turned the searchlight on Paquin's past the bright glare of the record books evidently hurt the defendant's eyes for he refused to be taken back over the route he had previously traversed. He did admit, however, that he had deserted from the army on one occasion and that he now has a wife and family of four children living in Nashua and that he doesn't support them. That was all that he cared to admit but that was sufficient. William will hear the little birdies sing from one of Sheriff Eveleth's bay windows during the next three months.

An Erring Couple

Sadie Roth and James Philips got into grave trouble on Middlesex street last night when they made the mistake of thinking that Lowell was a bad city and that they could do wicked things here without being brought to task. Sadie and James came up from Boston yesterday afternoon.

To begin with, they were drunk, very drunk. This morning the probation officer was on the point of turning them loose when Supt. Welch stepped into the arena and began to ask questions. The third degree proved too much for the pair and the truth burst forth.

Sadie at first stated that she was married to Jimmy but later confessed to a hubby and child in Beantown. James, in a moment of abstraction, murmured that his wife resided in Greece. The curtain then arose on the second act—a tragedy for James and Sadie.

The pair were arraigned this morning on a statutory charge and held over for trial until tomorrow. No one appeared to bail them out.

But here is the funny part of the case: Philips came to Lowell, leading a blind compatriot. When the pair were yanked by the cops last night, the blind man was left locked in his room. Finally the woman realized his predicament and made the fact of his imprisonment known and a trusty friend hastily hustled to his rescue. The blind man is in a fine predicament with his guide under lock and key.

Mrs. Bishop Sent to Jail

Annie Bishop, the woman who was charged with carrying a concealed weapon, later released on probation and who then attempted to end her life by leaping into the canal, was brought to the police station again this morning on a capias. The change in the appearance of the woman from that of yesterday was remarkable.

Bedraggled, hatless and looking years older, the unfortunate woman sobbed quietly on the bench while her case was being discussed by Lawyer Donahue and the court. While the sympathy of everyone in the courtroom was deeply touched by the sad case, both judge and attorney were of the opinion that the woman would undoubtedly commit suicide were she released today. She was led from the court room in a half frantic condition when Judge Enright ordered her sent up to jail for three months.

If the Bishop woman's case was sad, that of Charles Roberts' was just the reverse. Charles was about the best comedian that has stepped into the local court in a long time.

Was Charles guilty of being drunk? Well, I guess not. Huh, Officer Leighton must have had a very nasty dream. Yes, he was arrested all right, Judge, but what was that? That didn't mean that he was drunk because the cop might have made a mistake. Such was the text of the quiet little talk given the court by Sir Charles.

"Why, Judge," shrilled the little old man as Deputy Downey took the witness stand, "he called me 'Dingbat.' Isn't that horrible? I might be drunk sometimes, but I am not a Dingbat." It was several minutes before the court officers could restore the decorum of the court-room.

Charles allows that his home is in Alfred Bay, although it has been a long time since he has seen the place. He promised faithfully, as he fondly stroked the few locks remaining on the top of his head, that he would shake the dust of Lowell from his boots at once and kick out for Alfred Bay. He didn't know where Alfred Bay was, but he knew it wasn't anywhere near Baffin bay.

Stanislaw Mazoule and Wladyslaw Pelot got into a wrangle yesterday and hied back to primitive methods. Officer Ganley happened along while the pair were busily engaged in swapping haymakers and collared them both. They were charged with drunkenness this morning and each one forked over a V as his penalty for the muss.

Another of the inmates of the Tewksbury infirmary was silly and tried to get back into the institution after absconding therefrom. John D. Nicolson readily pleaded guilty and was awarded the usual state farm appointment.

There were several other complaints of various nature heard and dealt with by Judge Enright this morning but none of them was of any special interest or significance.

EXPLOITING BLIND MAN

Peculiar Case in Court—Man Arrested Had Been Using Blind Man to Get Money

An unusual aftermath came about as the result of an investigation into the history of James Philips, who appeared in police court this morning. The blind companion of Philips and another young Greek from Boston told the police an amazing story.

Philips, it appears, is a cousin of the blind man who has been totally blind for the past six months. The scheme which Philips has worked thus far with his blind cousin has been very simple and has also proved very lucrative.

The blind man would be led into a town by Philips where the Greek population was large and then paraded before the eyes of his countrymen as an object of pity. Alms of all descriptions were forthcoming as a rule and then the pair jumped for the next city which contained enough of their countrymen to hold out a prospect of good pickings.

Such is the story told by Philips' companions through Interpreter Harry Demaris. Philips himself tried to lay the blame of everything upon the blind man.

This morning Mr. Demaris informed Supt. Welch that he thought he saw signs of trachoma, a contagious eye disease, upon the blind man and Dr. John Donovan was called in to examine the man. The physician gave it out as his opinion that the man was suffering from trachoma and should be removed to the Tewksbury hospital at once.

The blind man gave his name to the police as Peter Drivas of 347 33d street, New York City. When asked about the loss of his eyesight the unfortunate man said that he had suffered with pains about his eyes for years before completely losing his sight. He will be kept at the Tewksbury hospital until the New York authorities can be notified and some permanent arrangement made for his isolation from everyone.

The bombardment of Cattaro was conducted by a fleet of the allies.

ECONOMY OF CLEAN MILK

That the Massachusetts milk situation is by no means unique is proved by a review in the Providence Tribune which runs over some considerations that are deserving of study both by milk producers and consumers. Throughout this entire section the need for clean and wholesome milk has been borne in on the people consistently and persistently for years and if any of our people have shown a tendency to forget they have been reminded of the importance of the subject by the many legislative laws of recent seasons—laws which too often aroused opposition and engendered confusion without remedying any condition permanently.

The Tribune reminds its readers that the past indifference of many people concerning milk has proved very expensive to the community while the agitation for clean milk, though it may have resulted in a higher first cost, has engendered economy in its widest sense. Milk that is unclean and unsanitary may cause a great loss in money and health while clean milk is not apt to cost any more than the amount one pays the milkman. As the Tribune remarks: "A higher price for clean milk will be cheap insurance against some form of sickness."

In a recent Farmers' Bulletin, the federal Department of Agriculture laid down some simple points that are necessary in the production of clean and healthy milk. Cows must be clean and healthy and kept in clean, well-ventilated buildings; stables must be cleaned frequently, barnyards must be drained adequately and all utensils used in milking and storing must be thoroughly sterilized; those who handle the milk in all stages must be healthy; small-top milking pails must be used; milk must be kept in separate building. The matter of temperature is also most important. Bacteria multiply rapidly when the milk is above 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and therefore the milk should be cooled immediately after milking and kept at a low temperature until delivered.

It is fortunate for Massachusetts that many of these recommendations of the government department have been incorporated into state statutes, but still, laws are never so effective in achieving ends as intelligent co-operation. When milk producers realize that the public demands clean and sanitary milk and when on the other hand the public realizes that the best way to secure it is by patronizing the producer who is modern and progressive we will have good milk invariably and there will not be need for the disappointing and often conflicting state laws that do not achieve their ends.

From the farmers' point of view the most serious element in the milk situation is the increasing cost of production which soars in relation to the public demand and the legislative demand for higher quality. Labor problems have increased the financial burden of the farmer and the cost of feed has become somewhat of a hardship. He is not, therefore, always in the best attitude when the state and the federal government make their demands, but he can better conditions by educating the public to realities. Clean milk is the cheapest milk in the long run and when the public becomes cognizant of realities, most people will be ready to pay a little more rather than run any risks of disease. Just as clean milk is by far the cheaper so dirty milk is dear at any price.

BUSINESS IMPROVING

So far as one may judge from the signs of general industry and from the public announcements of some of the leading financiers and manufacturers of the country, American business is already showing marked improvement and some of the prosperity so generally predicted is throwing its shadows before. Since the war broke out the stagnation of world commerce has resulted in a partial paralysis of business here, but international trade is being restored as much as one may expect; as a result the demand for American commodities is increasing. Henry Clews predicts probable freedom of traffic across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean, two routes which, he says, capture most of the international trade of the world.

The restricted passenger traffic, though a source of anxiety and serious inconvenience, has had little to do with general trade conditions in this country but the affected freight service has had serious results. Now, the first effects are wearing off and the most serious obstacles are being removed. Since the passing of the emergency bill, many ships have been chartered for the American merchant marine service, and the government stands ready to provide trade facilities in case of necessity.

There are two main reasons why American commodities will soon command a ready market in many points of the earth; other nations cannot get along without our supplies and they cannot get them elsewhere. There is a strong demand for American wheat and American cotton in Europe, and England is showing readiness to conquer war obstacles in supplying her necessities with our natural and artificial products. Germany will not be able to secure American goods whether raw or manufactured, but England controls the sea so far and she cannot last long without supplying her needs from this side of the Atlantic. Even the pressing need for war materials will turn a great deal of trade here if the war is prolonged, because the former sources of supply are choked off.

With the opening of an adequate merchant marine service many other foreign points will depend on America for the foods and manufactured products which were supplied by Germany, England and France heretofore. Even should the war come to an end in a short time it will be long before trade conditions become normal and the damage to European commerce promises to be serious and to some degree permanent. This country has not yet fully felt the industrial stimulus which is so generally expected, but it is difficult to argue away the views of those who see a great boom for America in the unfortunate world conditions of the present time.

THE PARK QUESTION

Hoodlumism in parks such as Lowell has had reason to complain of at times during the present season seems to be quite prevalent in many other points, judging from the example of Boston, Lynn, Brockton, Worcester, etc. In all of these places, sundry abuses have drawn out some degree of public protest, and reports from many sections indicate that Lowell is by no means the worst sufferer. Luckily, the increased vigilance of the park department has had beneficial results and if the recently-framed regulations are insisted, on by the park and police officials, we may hope for permanent benefits.

A correspondent to the Worcester Telegram recently made references to conditions in that city that are very pertinent in Lowell. Following is an excerpt:

"It has been my pleasure in the past to visit this park frequently, and have always found the conditions there ideal for a restful hour. Today, however, due to the withdrawal of the caretaker by order of the park commissioners, all this has changed. Bums and rowdies infest the park, making it a rendezvous for drinking bouts, fights and brawls, and by their disgusting actions and language have driven away the mothers and children who frequent the park. Situated as it is in the midst of a crowded tenement district, Crompton park has in the past been a haven to mothers of the neighborhood, to which they could send their children to play and rest safe from the many accidents and dangers of the streets."

Treating the same subject editorially the Brockton Enterprise asks some pointed questions that reveal the very illogical conduct of park thugs in its true light. It says:

"These park thugs are not people of wealth. The people who habitually visit parks are not wealthy. Why, then, should men and boys of poor families seek to make breathing places impossible for women and children of their own rank in life? Why should they make it hard for their own mothers, sisters, aunts, and in a few instances sweethearts, to get a little pure air and clean and healthful enjoyment out of life? Why do they want to put everything and everybody down to their own dead level of wretchedness and comparative misery?"

When authorities in so many different sections comment unfavorably on this modern tendency, it is time for wise people to pause and ask if the greater liberty of the present is not responsible for the greater license? Boys and young men have always been fun-loving and to a certain extent mischievous but they did not display their evil characteristics as brazenly and as persistently as they do today in those centers where the privilege of public parks has been so much abused.

TRUST FUND REVELATIONS

Commissioner Carmichael does the honorable thing in declaring that the municipal council as a whole is just as much responsible for the unwise juggling of the library and Edson cemetery trust funds as is any member, and the apparent desire of a few members of that body to deny connection with it, is proof sufficient of the unsoundness of the transaction. The citizens of Lowell are very much interested in the fiasco, not necessarily because they feel that there was any dishonesty intended but because the explanations that followed its collapse were far from convincing. The scheme was favored on condition that it was legal. It was proved otherwise and had to be abandoned.

The European war has curiously affected some peoples that are not directly interested in the struggle, and in very different ways. Contrast, for instance, the effect on Belgium and Poland respectively. Belgium has been converted from a peaceful, prosperous and happy country to an enormous battlefield; Poland has been promised, and seems to be realizing much of the liberty for which she has fought tenaciously through weary years. In like manner scarcely a nation or state in Europe but will be affected by the struggle—for better or worse.

The latest reports from the front first!

Get out that extra blanket. Safety emphasize the futility of news censorship as a means of keeping facts out of sight. It is difficult to believe now that the French and English who were driven over the Belgian border won all these preliminary skirmishes and battles. Small defeats could be covered up but great ones tell their own story in spite of officially colored cables. Still, one battle or ten will not be decisive in this titanic conflict.

SEEN AND HEARD

WHERE PILGRIMS LANDED

My friend, the doctor, is very much in love with Provincetown and when I told him that during my vacation I had visited the first landing place of the pilgrims, he was very anxious to ascertain what I thought of that quaint old town. The doctor, however, was generous enough to keep on telling of his own impressions of the place and they were so much more interesting than my own that I continued to listen, nodding my acquiescence at selected intervals. The doctor drew a beautiful word picture of the fine old fishing town at the extreme end of Cape Cod. He told of living there in a rusty little cottage for weeks at a time subsisting on fish that he himself assisted in catching. He told of the beautiful effect of the moon and stars upon the water; how they showed the way across in silvery streams, and then he launched out on a fishing story. It was a simple story, but the doctor is a splendid embellisher and he made a very pretty yarn of it. He fished at close and break of day and told of the phosphorescent gleam of the nets in the rays of the early morning sun. Yes, indeed, the doctor fairly worships at the shrine of Provincetown and when I had the temerity to mention that I enjoyed the automobile ride "about town" his face took on a sad expression. "Yes," he said, "the town is becoming sophisticated and that will eventually spoil the real beauty of it."

I have no quarrel with the doctor as to his great love for Provincetown and I think that the sail from Boston is simply beautiful. I cannot imagine a finer sail. Fifty miles each way and points of interest everywhere. But the doctor can have the whole of Provincetown for all of me. I would not take the silver hammer from the plush case, but no Provincetown, as steady diet for yours truly. The streets are too narrow and the houses too squatty and, besides, its too far from any place where things are doing. The doctor will tell you that the harbor is a good one, that the boating and fishing facilities are unexcelled, especially deep-sea fishing, and that is all very true. He will also tell you that the chances for recuperating one's health by a sojourn in this quaint old place are so sure, that hundreds upon hundreds who are ailing or really upon the sick list, try it and very frequently repeat it, to great advantage. This also is true, yet I cannot share the doctor's love for Provincetown. The sail on the bay from Boston gives one rest, exhilaration and new life and the magnetic influence of the ocean has a revitalizing influence, but Provincetown as a vacation hangout, to me, is absurd.

But when you mention Plymouth, the land of the Mayflower, I'm there with the boost. There is much to see, so much to admire and so much to study during the hours allowed the tourists who take the trip on the steamer, that every minute of the stay is precious. I labored under the impression that Plymouth was a little country village with its wealth of historic features as its only attraction, and was surprised to find a thriving town of from 15,000 to 17,000, with prosperous manufacturing industries. The cordage works at North Plymouth are the largest in the world. Then there are woolen and worsted mills, nail and tack factories, iron foundries and other industries too numerous to mention. Cranberry culture is on an extensive scale, and there are five or six hundred acres of bog annually yielding a crop valued at a half million. These manufactories have replaced the town's former chief industry—fishing, which flourished 50 years ago, when Plymouth boasted of a fleet of fishermen that was unequalled anywhere in the United States. To the tourist Plymouth rock is, of course, the most interesting sight. The rock is in the same position now as in 1620 except that it has been raised about eight feet. It is carefully guarded to prevent unscrupulous relic-hunters from chipping pieces. Then there is Cole's hill, the first burying ground of the Pilgrims, and then Town square, historically interesting, as it was here that part of Plymouth rock rested for nearly 60 years before being taken back to its first site. The Gov. Bradford building marks the site of the first meeting house built in 1638, and the home of Gov. Bradford. Then there is Pilgrim hall, the Myles Standish monument, the William Harlow house, built in 1677, the court house, the Standish house, site of watch tower and various other places of great historic value. If you have time to go but either place, Plymouth or Provincetown, go to Plymouth. That's a straight tip free of charge.

GENERAL JOSEPH JOFFRE IS WITH HIS TROOPS ALONG FRANCO-GERMAN BORDER

GEN. JOFFRE DISCUSSING WAR MOVES

General Joseph Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French army, is seen at the right in this picture discussing war moves with an aid. General Joffre is with his troops along the Franco-German border.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Slowly but surely the German lines were driving the allied forces back across the border. A brilliant charge made by the Uhlans had crumpled an entire battalion of French troops and the German artillery held the British infantry at bay. In the distance a military aeroplane was dropping bombs into the trenches occupied by sharpshooters. The conflict waged for nearly an hour.

An aide-de-camp rode out from the German field headquarters and addressed the general in command:

"The boss says that will be enough for today," announced the aide-de-camp. "Put the cameras in his auto and take them over to Hackensack. And tell the boys to all be here at 8 in the morning. We're going to start the siege of Liege film."

Do you remember the old-fashioned burlesque show that always closed with a "grand walk around" in which every member of the company took part?

A woman blames living expenses on what her husband eats. A man blames it on what his wife wears.

Lots of good people who wouldn't think of touching liquor think nothing of going on a gossip jag.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who wasn't ashamed to wear a big broad gold band that everybody knew was a wedding ring?

If a man invents something that makes the impossible possible and performs miracles, a woman never hears of it for six months. But if some one invents a new way to do up the hair a woman learns all about it the day after it is invented.

Love is what makes a sane man marry a girl who wears a red hat, a purple waist, a green skirt trimmed with yellow, a blue sash and brown stockings, and let her purchase his neckties.

And the high cost of living wasn't so blamed high when a boy would be on his good behavior for six months to get a pair of red-topped boots.

THE NEW LOCHINVAR

O, a new Lochinvar has appeared on the scene,
His steed a wild cycle that drinks gasoline;
He cares not for citizen nor for police,
And a voice calling "Halt!" simply bids him increase
The speed of his racer, the best of its kind,
Till the fast-flying bullets fall lagging behind.

Beware, O ye fathers of maidens, beware,
For this young Lochinvar is as bold as she's fair;
It will not avail that she ride not a wheel,
Love has new devices for him who would steal,
And the maid, though you think not, will go just as far
As the romantic bride of the first Lochinvar.

This dashing young lover will ride to your home
When the hot summer day is beginning to gloam;
He'll swing the fair maiden behind on his wheel,
And away to the parson's for woo or for weal.
You may pull up a mountain or drag down a star,
But you'll ne'er catch the maid and her young Lochinvar.

GOV. GLYNN'S CHANCES

Gov. Glynn of New York will be a candidate for the democratic nomination, to which he professed indifference a short time ago. He will have no particular trouble in obtaining it. The governor has some things in his favor and there are others which will operate against him. But unless the anti-democratic elements are essentially united on election day his chances of election for a full term will be good.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

JAPAN GOES TO WAR

The occasion of Japan's war on Germany is her British alliance. Its moving spirit is revenge for Germany's ousting her from the Liaotung peninsula in 1895. Its unavowed purpose and probable effect is trade and military advantage.

Americans are not called upon to idealize a campaign so void of any excuse of self-defense. The onslaught of the Japanese in overwhelming force upon an enemy's outpost will win no such praise as the heroic stand of the Belgians for their own homes; it simply shows how the flames of war, once lighted run round the world.—New York World.

SMALL LOCAL NEWS

How small an automobile accident looks and how inconsequential our local politics. This explains why the newspapers have so little except the war. To its scale everything else has been adjusted.—Boston Herald.

FAIR PAPERS

From the exchanges that come to our desk it appears that outside of Manhattan there are many papers which are eminently fair in the present struggle. We advise our readers to patronize no paper that insults their intelligence and their race. We strongly advise them to rally around papers like the Milwaukee Free Press, which is making itself the champion of their cause. The Brooklyn Eagle, one St. Louis, one Albany and one Philadelphia paper likewise deserve special mention in our roll of honor. Space forbids to enumerate all in this issue. We shall, however, add from time to time to the list.—The Fatherland.

NEW BEDFORD'S TAX

The contention that the removal of the $12 tax limit and the restrictions on the purposes for which cities may incur indebtedness are responsible for the increase of $3 per $1000 in New Bedford's tax rate is not borne out by the analysis made by the city treasurer.

The fact is that the increase was caused, in about equal proportions, by the increase in appropriations for running expenses, and by the increase in the debt requirements. The increase due to the state tax is 11 cents, that due to the city tax, $1.50 and that due to the city debt requirements $1.60, the increase on the three items being $3.21 per $1000. The reductions in the county, grade crossing and overlay requirements amount to 21 cents, leaving the net increase in the rate just $3.—New Bedford Standard.

HENRY IN THE HOLE

PARK COMMISSIONER CARR SHY $137.50 ON HIS PLAYGROUND CAMPAIGN—PLEDGES NOT PAID

Park Commissioner Henry F. Carr would like to have those contributors who have not made good their promises to his playground fund, to ante up. Henry is $137.50 to the bad, but he says that if he had all the money promised him he would have a balance on the right side of the ledger.

Mr. Carr has issued the following statement:

"Early in the year I endeavored to raise a fund for the summer playgrounds, doing considerable advertising and giving a few concerts and entertainments at some little expense.

"I started in circulation papers asking for funds, and would have met with fair success, had those, who subscribed, paid the amount to which they agreed.

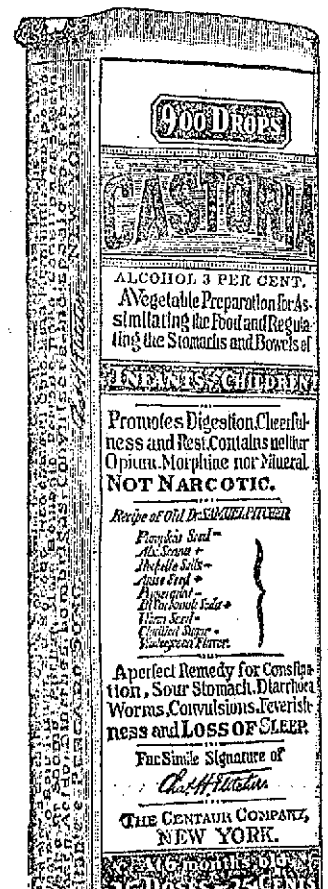

"Possibly, many who pledged themselves to me, contributed to the Salem sufferers and consequently found themselves unable to give anything towards the playground fund.

"Notwithstanding the reverses with which I have met in this very worthy cause, I have placed one teacher on the North common and one on the South common during the summer.

"I hope and trust that those, who pledged themselves to the playground fund, will submit their cheque, that I may be able to settle up the outstanding indebtedness.

"Very truly yours,
"Henry F. Carr."
Park Commissioner.

The outstanding bills contracted by Mr. Carr total $350, and he has on deposit in the Lowell Trust Co. the sum of $91. There was received from concerts on the streets $66.50, while other subscriptions totalled $55. This makes a total of $212.50 with which to pay off $350 indebtedness.

J. Wesley Tilly of (Box 673,) Selma, Cal., writes: Gentlemen:—"It gives me much pleasure to be able to send you a testimonial, if by its reaching some sufferer your medicines will do as much for him as they have for me. At the age of fourteen I was troubled a great deal with malaria and billiousness, accompanied with the worst sort of large boils. I was persuaded by my parents, who have always been strong believers in Dr. Pierce's remedies, to try the Golden Medical Discovery. I took one bottle and the boils all disappeared, but I did not stop at one bottle, I took three and the malaria all left me and I have had no more boils to this day, thanks to the 'Golden Medical Discovery' for my relief.

"Following an operation for appendicitis two years ago I was troubled very much with constipation and I have been trying Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets and they have rid me of the troublesome gas and have aided me in conquering the whole trouble; thanks again for the 'Pellets' and for the advice I have obtained from The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." U. S. BUNTING COMPANY WITHDRAWS ITS BID

Early this year the navy department at Washington asked for bids on bunting for the manufacture of United States flags and the lowest bids were made by foreign manufacturers, and it was believed that the contracts would be awarded them. Immediately a storm of protest was raised throughout the country against such a proceeding, and a resolution was introduced by John J. Gilbride, a young democratic representative from ward 4 in the Massachusetts legislature and passed by a roll call vote as being unwarranted, unpatriotic and improper. The next lowest bidders were the United States Bunting company, and the New England Bunting company, both of this city. The contract, however, was not awarded to them by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, but held up for the reason that the two concerns are alleged not to be two separate organizations. The United States Bunting company, then made a public statement to the effect that there was absolutely no collusion between the two companies, and that they did not know or seek to know the New England Bunting company's figures, also that it was a fact that their figures were higher than the English bid, due to the great difference in wages. Since that statement made last June, no further action has been taken, and last week, the United States Bunting company withdrew its bid, and the reason given was that prices had advanced recently from 5 to 7 per cent. which led to this decision.

TRIBUTE TO LATE POPE

Delivered by Mgr. Supple at Pontifical Mass Yesterday — Many Priests Attended

All of the local Catholic pastors and most of the curates attended the pontifical mass for the pope at the cathedral in Boston yesterday. There was a very large attendance of clergy and laity.

The mass began at 10 o'clock, and just before that hour a long line of priests marched slowly from the vestry, moving through the chapel of the blessed sacrament into the main auditorium. Following them came the monsignori, who took their places in the sanctuary, and last came the clergy who were to assist at the service.

Bishop Anderson was assisted by the Rev. Philip J. O'Donnell, pastor of St. James' church, as assistant priest; Mgr. John B. Peterson, president of St. John's Seminary, Brighton, as deacon, and the Rev. William H. Finigan of the Cathedral as master of ceremonies.

Absolution was pronounced by the Rev. Arthur J. Teeling of Lynn, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Denis J. O'Farrell of Roxbury, the Rt. Rev. Edward J. Moriarty of Jamaica Plain and the Rt. Rev. Mgr. George J. Patterson of South Boston.

In his eulogy "The Pope of the People," Mgr. Supple delivered a very eloquent discourse taking for his text:

"His remembrance shall be sweet as honey in every mouth. He directed his heart toward the Lord and in the days of sinners he strengthened Godliness." Ecclesiasticus xlix. 2-4.

He said in part: "A great pontiff is gone. A saintly life is come to an end. Surrounded during life by the love of the peoples of the earth for the gracious personality which stamped and gave character to his whole career, in death Pius X is encircled with the sorrowing tributes and grateful remembrance of the nations of the world.

Pope Loved America

"We are participants in a special way in this universal mourning. Pius X. loved America and her free institutions. He was an ardent admirer of her well-ordered liberty. He loved to dwell upon the vision of her hospitable shores receiving all the peoples of the earth. He looked upon her as the land of the promise. He never tired of praising her for the freedom of opportunity which the church enjoyed to carry out her salutary mission. He was America's sincere friend and well wisher. He gloried in prophecying the reign of religion and law within her borders. Speaking of the historic occasion of the conferring of the cardinal's beretta on our own beloved cardinal archbishop, he did not hesitate to apply to America the word of the prophet Isaiah, "but the Lord shall arise upon thee and His glory shall be seen upon thee."

Special Debt of Gratitude

"But Boston owes to the dead pontiff a very special debt of gratitude and her tribute to his memory should be one of particular regard and affection. He loved the see of Boston and its beloved cardinal-archbishop.

"Two great-hearted men met for the first time about one year after Pius X had occupied the throne of the Fisherman. Both were men of wide outlook and broad vision. Both were ardent champions of the church's cause. Both were types of robust and virile mould. Both faced situations with undaunted courage and sublime confidence. This likeness of character brought them at once into sympathy with each other and each conceived a wonderful liking for the other.

"When the following year the holy see determined to send an embassy to the imperial court of Japan, Pius X., breaking with all precedents, selected an American in the person of our present illustrious cardinal-archbishop, then bishop of Portland, as his special envoy. On his return from a great diplomatic triumph the Holy Father promoted him to be the coadjutor archbishop of this see, to which he succeeded as archbishop shortly afterward.

"The confidence of Pius X. in the new spiritual chief of Boston made him particularly interested in everything that was being done for the progress of the church. He took a keen interest in following the great movements of organization of which we have been the witnesses. When the time came to create new cardinals, impelled by his admiration of the steady progress of the church among us, but more because of his special affection for our beloved archbishop and his appreciation of his signal ability, by an act of his supreme power he conferred historic importance upon this see by raising it to a footing of equality with the great metropolitan and cardinitial bishoprics of Christendom.

"He was of the people and was preeminently the pope of the people. He was well prepared for his mission. He lived among the people all his life as a priest and bishop and his great heart went out to them to help them in all their wants.

"The faith of Pius X. will ever remain an example to the world. It was simple, sincere and strong. He stood firmly on the divine foundation of revealed truth. The word of God was to him sacred and inviolable and the traditional teaching of the church the providential bulwark of the faith. Novelty in doctrine is always heresy and modernism in religion is a pretence and human conceit without warrant of adequate foundation. His rich and fruitful life bears ample testimony to the depth and sincerity of his faith. Gracious by nature he was like a wall of adamant when there was question of tempering with the divine deposit of truth. The school of modernists who sought to introduce new rules of interpretation of the holy scriptures and of the dogmas of the faith which would divest them of their supernatural character found in him an invincible foe. The honest soul of Pius X. saw through all their devices. His insight was too keen to be deceived. He saw clearly that these men were attempting to substitute human inventions for the divine landmarks of religion, and standing on his throne of power with one blow he killed modernism in religion forever. He has become the benefactor of the human race by this defence of its most precious heritage and will be known to all posterity as the strong defender of the faith.

"What was the secret of his strength and character? He has himself told us in the deeds of his pontificate. Foremost among the titles which posterity will bestow on him is the Pope of the Blessed Sacrament. In this centre and source of spiritual strength and holiness Pius X. found the food that nourished his great soul and made him magnanimous, gracious and strong. So convinced was he of this that he sought in every way to extend this blessing among the people. His regulations concerning frequent and daily communion, his relaxing of the law of fasting in the case of the sick who wished to receive the Holy Eucharist, his law enjoining the giving of Holy Communion to children once they have reached the years of discretion, his approval and support of the great Eucharistic congresses—all these things plainly indicate his mind and point to his great solicitude that the faithful should be encouraged to eat frequently of the Bread of Life, in which he himself found his fortitude and consolation.

"And now the great heart that ever beat for the people's welfare and for the peace of nations is stilled. The man of peace unable to bear the sight of fraternal slaughter has gone to his reward. Long shall his memory live among the people. No one who has had the privilege of meeting him can ever forget the gracious amiability of that presence."

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE

DANIEL O'DEA WAS THE JOHNNIE ON THE SPOT THAT PUT OUT THE BLAZE

Although he is not a full fledged fireman and has no intentions of becoming one, Daniel O'Dea, an employe of the Lowell Automobile Co. in Appleton street, played the part of a fireman last night and extinguished a fire in a bed at the lodging house of G. W. Sheridan, 66 Appleton street. Shortly after 10 o'clock last night a fire was discovered in a bed in a house. An alarm from box 28 was sounded, but before the fire fighters reached the building, O'Dea armed with an extinguisher rushed to the house and put the blaze out. The damage was small.

OUGHT TO RESTRAIN JAPS

LONDON DAILY NEWS SAYS BRITISH GOVERNMENT SHOULD KEEP IT WITHIN STRICT LIMITS

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Daily News, commenting yesterday on Japan's declaration of war against Germany says:

"The immediate gravity of Japan's entrance into the war is its moral effect on American public opinion. Assuming that Japanese action is not limited according to her pledges, no sensible American will hold England to blame for an event she is quite powerless to prevent. The British government ought to use its influence to restrain within strict limits the forward policy of Japan."

NEW HAMPSHIRE WOMAN

COMMITTED SUICIDE IN PHILADELPHIA WHERE SHE HAD BEEN UNDER TREATMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—Eluding her maid, Miss Martha S. Tash, aged 45, of Dover, N. H., committed suicide here yesterday by jumping from a window of her apartment on the 14th floor of a hotel at which she had been a guest since last Friday.

Miss Tash had been in ill-health and was at one time a patient in a sanitarium in West Newton, Mass. The maid said she had been traveling with Miss Tash, who was wealthy, for the past four years.

The suicide left a rambling note, from which it was gathered that her maid was about to leave her and get married and that sooner than return to the sanitarium she had determined to end her life.

INFLUX OF CANADIANS

Many Coming to Lowell on Account of Business Depression and General Draft for Soldiers

Business is at such a standstill in Canada that many residents of the Dominion are leaving their homes and are coming to the states, where they hope they will be able to earn a dollar or two. Many families are settling in the state of Maine, where the men secure employment on farms, while several are coming to Lowell and other textile centres of the commonwealth.

At the railroad station in this city it is reported that for the past two weeks an average of about 60 families have come to Lowell each day and even this morning between fifty and sixty families alighted from the northern train.

It seems also that it was rumored in some of the country towns of the Dominion that soon a general draft will be made throughout Canada for soldiers to be sent across and this has been the cause of many able-bodied men coming to the states. A large number of them have stopped in the state of Maine, where they easily secure employment on farms but many others who have had some experience in cotton mills are coming as far as this city.

Among the many who alighted from the Montreal train this morning was a party of Greeks, who have just come across from Greece. The party was composed of a woman with five children, and six men. They remained in Lowell just long enough to board a train for Haverhill, where they will endeavor to secure work and make their home. It is reported that very few Lowellites are leaving for Canada, with the exception of the usual number of tourists.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

Fred Lake has one sweet ball player in Chet Sweatt. The Manchester second baseman is the real goods in every line. When his bat meets the ball the sphere travels like a rifle bullet no matter in what direction it may move. His three base hit yesterday, nevertheless, was accounted for by the way in which the Lowell outfielders played. Sweatt is a left field hitter as a rule and Swayne was playing well over toward Stimpson when the ball sped into right center.

Have the Braves cracked at last? That is the query which is being made on all sides today. Their 9-5 defeat at the hands of the Cubs yesterday, however, is no sign that they have weakened. Tyler and Rudolph were handled rather roughly by the Chicago batsmen.

If the Athletics could only lose a few games perhaps the Red Sox could squeeze up and make a contest in the American league. In spite of the fact that Carrigan's men piled up a win over Cleveland yesterday Connie Mack picked up another half game advantage by whipping St. Louis in both games.

Napoleon Lajoie, once the peer of all batters and lately relegated to the bench on account of his weak hitting, broke into the Naps lineup yesterday afternoon. Four hits, two singles, a double and a triple was Lajoie's contribution. It looks as though the old man was still good for a few more meal tickets on the road.

There was nothing to the first game when Reed faced Jimmy Ring and James proceeded to wet the pill. The day before the Manchester right fielder swung futilely at Ring's spitter and it was good judgment to send Jimmy in to pitch against him yesterday.

Joe Woodman has received several good offers for Sam Langford's services across the pond but Sambo can't see that game at all. He would rather take on what he can get in this country, he says, until this war is over. If Langford beats Kid Cotton decisively tonight he expects to take a trip south again.

Clyde Engle, who was released by President Lannin last night, has long been slated to go but his adaptability to any field position has kept him with the club. Engle and Yerkes had both outgrown their usefulness to the Red Sox club and their release was looked for long before it came.

Over $20,000 has been hung up in the purses of the three days' grand circuit meeting of the Niagara Racing Association, in Buffalo. The meeting promises to be one of the best held thus far this season and opened this afternoon.

The defeat which Lawrence suffered at the hands of the Haverhill club yesterday does not look as though there is any collusion between the two teams on the diamond. Lewiston won from Worcester so the difference between Pieper and Burkett remains unchanged.

ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

NO CHANCE OF ANYONE MAKING THE ENGLISH CHANNEL NOW—LETTER FROM WEIDMAN

If there are any people in Lowell who weren't satisfied with the explanation offered recently as to why Henry Sullivan, of this city returned to this country without attempting to swim the English channel, their doubts may now be set at rest by a letter received this morning by Mr. T. B. Sullivan, father of the swimmer, from Jack Weidman, of Dover, Eng., the English swimming trainer who looked after Henry's interests while he was across the pond. Mr. Weidman writes as follows:

Dover, Eng., Aug. 10, 1914.

Dear Mr. Sullivan:

Just a few lines to let you know that Henry left here for Liverpool on the 7th. He may go back by way of Canada. It will be some time before he reaches home. Then he will explain all to you.

The Germans have gone mad. When we have done with them there will not be many of them to nurse. I know that this was coming but I did not think it would be in our time. Anyhow we must make the best of it. I have put my name down for service as sailor. None knows how it will all end. I am sorry that Henry did not have a chance to swim the channel. All traffic is stopped in the channel which is full of mines and it is not even a fit place for a fish to live in. With best regards.

Jack Weidman."

Henry Sullivan, as was announced in The Sun, arrived safely in Montreal and is at present visiting friends in Amherst, N. S.

Dracut Man Gives Reasons Why He Wants Relief From High Taxes

A resident of Dracut who is also a tax payer there, in conversation with a Sun representative today said: "The time has come when the town of Dracut will have to do something to improve conditions for the taxpayers in the line of fire protection, roads and schools or else advocate annexation to Lowell. The people are paying higher taxes today in Dracut than are the residents of Lowell and getting little or nothing in return.

"The farmers as well as others who pay taxes merely upon their little homes are tired of the high taxes, high insurance and other charges such as paying for their children at the high or industrial school in Lowell.

"I am strongly in favor of annexation to Lowell for a great many reasons because, if citizens have to pay high taxes then they will get something for their money.

"Yes sir, you can put me down as in favor of annexing a large part of Dracut to the city of Lowell just as soon as that can be accomplished," said the Dracut man.

Mr. James McMannmon, the florist, favors the annexation of at least that portion of Dracut along the river where he lives in order that fire and police protection may be had as well as the other privileges going with citizenship in Lowell.

YOUNG BRIDE ARRESTED

GIRL OF 16 ELOPED WITH YOUNG MAN OF 23—CHARGED WITH BEING A STUBBORN CHILD

REVERE, Aug. 25.—Instead of being forgiven and receiving the parental blessings, Mrs. John D. Miller, aged 16, who was Beatrice Foster of 136 Bellingham avenue, prior to her elopement to Haverhill on Wednesday last with Miller, was arrested last night on complaint of her father, Ezekial Foster, who accused her of being a stubborn and disobedient child.

The bride was spared the humiliation of sleeping in a cell by Lieut. William E. Tappen of the local police force, who arrested her. Her husband did not have cash enough to bail her out, so the lieutenant put up $25 of his own money and the girl was released from custody pending her arraignment in the municipal court at Chelsea tomorrow morning.

Miller is 23 years old and has been employed as a clerk by a Boston hardware concern for some time. He has been very attentive to Beatrice. The Fosters were opposed to him and did everything possible to keep the two apart, it is said. For a time it was thought that this had been accomplished, but when Beatrice disappeared suddenly on Wednesday her father immediately suspected that she had eloped with Miller. He secured the warrant on that day and, acting on his information, Lieut. Tappen went to Haverhill, but could not find the couple, although he learned they had been there. There was no record of their marriage. Lieut. Tappen was in Haverhill again yesterday and hurried to Boston when he heard that the couple were in that city. He located them at the home of the bride's parents, where the couple were explaining.

The young bride wept when her father told Lieut. Tappen to arrest her, but the parent would not relent.

After Mrs. Miller had been bailed last evening her young husband took her to the home of his parents at 903 Winthrop avenue.

POLICE INVESTIGATING MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY IN THE PASHOIAN HOME, WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Aug. 25.—An investigation made by the police yesterday of the mysterious tragedy at 93 Bloomingdale road Sunday night, when Kashadoor Tishjian, also known as Kashadoor Balasalia, aged 26, and Mrs. Asnif Pashoian, wife of Charles Pashoian, aged 23, were killed, leads the officials to the conclusion that it was a case of murder and suicide, with Tishjian as the slayer of the woman and himself.

Mrs. Tishjian and other relatives of the victims declare that Tishjian undoubtedly committed the crime during a fit of insanity. They say that he had been acting queerly of late, owing to a long period of ill-health, and that he had threatened to kill himself. He procured a revolver some time ago, but Mrs. Tishjian succeeded in getting it from him and concealing it. He found the weapon last week and took it to an armorer to have some repairs made, the police learned today.

During his fits of melancholy, relatives of Tishjian say, he had to be restrained by force from doing harm to other members of the family. Yesterday afternoon, there were guests at the Pashoian home and when they started for home in the early evening, Mrs. Pashoian and Mr. and Mrs. Tishjian went to the trolley car with them. When they returned to the Pashoian home, there were only two chairs on the piazza and Mrs. Tishjian went into the house to get a third. While she was inside the shooting took place and the police believe that Tishjian attempted to shoot himself in the presence of Mrs. Pashoian, who was his aunt by marriage, and that in her efforts to restrain him, he shot her and then turned the revolver on himself.

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25.—When the democratic, republican and progressive state platform conventions assembled here today, only the progressives were prepared without an internal fight to take a stand favoring the proposed woman suffrage and prohibition state amendments, which are considered the main issues in the fall campaign for election of state, congressional and senatorial tickets.

STANLEY'S-ON-THE-MERRIMACK

This is to be a week of features at Stanley's-on-the-Merrimack, and tonight will be observed as "Circle Night." On Wednesday evening there will be witnessed a remarkable exhibition of modern dancers including the foremost dancers of New England. There will appear the Packards of Lynn, the Cunninghams of Boston, Haslers of Lowell, Malloys of Cambridge and the McWilliams of Portland. This should prove very entertaining and because of the very small admission fee, the attendance is expected to be large.

WARRANTS ARE ISSUED

BY SPEAKER CLARK FOR THE ABSENTEE MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Speaker Clark issued another batch of warrants of arrest yesterday for absentee members. Sergeants raided the baseball park, cool cafes and other resorts to bring enough congressmen so the house could go on with business.

"Writs have been issued for these absentees," thundered Speaker Clark from the rostrum after a long standstill during consideration of the Administration Power Conservation bill. "The absentees are not treating the house right and are not treating the people of the United States right by staying away, especially those who are loiling about town and are not home for any reason. Members do not seem to realize that these delays mean congress will stay in session much longer."

Later, Democratic Leader Underwood made a statement on the subject. "A large number of the members of this house," he said "are almost continually absent. I realize that some have been detained in connection with campaigning, but some members of this house have been neglecting their duties."

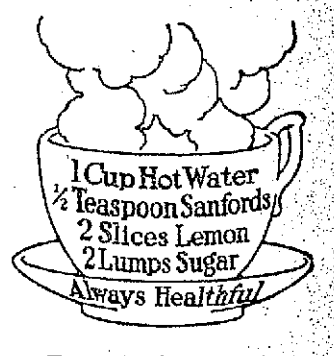

He gave notice that he would move tomorrow that the sergeant-at-arms be instructed to notify all absentees to return to Washington forthwith.

These four servants came through the country of their enemy under the protection of the Stars and Stripes. All of them wore American flags.

BIG DEMAND FOR AUTOS

Auto Men Believe Hostilities in Europe Will Help American Manufacturers

Prominent automobile men have expressed the opinion that after the termination of the European war there will be a tremendous demand in Australasia and South Africa for all goods of American manufacture, and particularly for automobiles and trucks, for the reason that most of the factories in continental Europe will be either destroyed or badly crippled by the loss of workmen who now have to fight in the contending armies, so that even if the war does not last more than a few weeks, the industries of continental Europe will be badly crippled for a very considerable time, and it will probably be a year, two or perhaps even three years, before they will regain normal conditions, during all of which time this country should have decided preference in all lines of manufactured goods.

Up to about a year ago Australia and New Zealand have been buying practically all their trucks from either England or continental Europe, and it is only quite recently that they have paid some attention to American trucks, but if European or English trucks will not be available to them for some time to come, it is only natural to assume that they will have to draw their supplies from the United States. It is, therefore, pretty safe in predicting that within the next two years the volume of business in American trucks of good makes will greatly increase.

The local automobile dealers are at present making the very best of the favorable weather conditions and other circumstances. The number of prospective buyers appear to be quite large and the salesmen and demonstrators are kept very busy.

Used Cars at Dana's

A fine record has been made during the past few weeks at the salesrooms of Mr. George R. Dana & Son in East Merrimack street. During a few weeks Mr. Dana sold and delivered seven new cars, and a large number of used cars. These enterprising dealers had enjoyed great success with the Hudson and the Stevens Duryea, and have a number of orders at present. Just now Mr. Dana has for sale several used cars of good quality and in good running order which he offers for sale in an advertisement on this page at prices which cannot help but attract the notice of the readers. He invites persons interested to call and inspect them and enjoy a demonstration.

Ford Profit Sharing Plan

Doubtless the profit sharing plan of the Ford Motor Co., mentioned in the adv. of the Lowell Motor Mart on this page will hold interest for a large number of prospective purchasers.

The Ford Co. should they reach a maximum factory efficiency and production and a minimum cost as they expect to during the 12 months from Aug. 1, 1914, to Aug. 1, 1915, will pay a dividend to retail buyers of Ford cars. The Lowell Motor Mart will furnish further interesting particulars upon request.

Donovan Harness Co.

The large line of curtains, autotops, cushions, and other equipment which the Donovan Harness Co. has in stock has been appreciated by local and out of town motorists and as a result, the Donovan Co. always has on hand a car or several of them to be equipped for added comfort and convenience. Motorists will find pleasure in looking over the stock at the store in Market street.

Upton and Gilman Co.

The above company is doing a large volume of business in Oxy Acetylene Welding, of which interesting process a description appeared on the automobile page of The Sun a week ago. Their shop at 587 Middlesex st. is a very busy place. This company makes a specialty of all kinds of metal and machine repairs.

Lowell Welding Co.

The Lowell Welding Co., 64 Leverett street, will weld and repair any part of any kind of metal. Their specialties are carbon removing, welding and cutting and they are most efficient in these branches of repair work. Their shop is open evenings for the convenience of patrons.

McIntosh Machine and Welding Co.

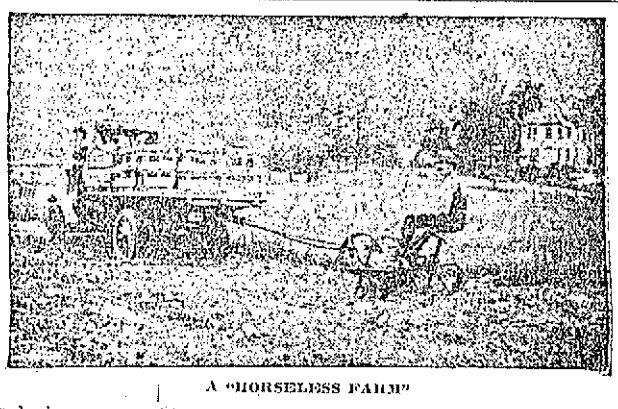

The McIntosh Machine and Welding Co. is another prominent local firm, with a plant at 148 Warren street. At this shop they perform all manner of auto repairs, and general machine work.

Sullivan Auto Livery

The Sullivan Auto Livery makes a very favorable report as to the state of the business at their establishment at this time, and are pleased with prospects of the future.

The New Briscoe Car Here

The new Briscoe car, an attractive and powerful machine, has arrived in Lowell, and is now being demonstrated by the Sackley Motor Car Co., 483 Merrimack street. The car is good to look at, embodying the latest style of construction and being built in lines of grace. It has also that "crouchy" appearance which implies high power. It is light and equipped with the very newest and improved starting and lighting devices, having several exclusive features. The car has been in Lowell but a short time, and has been seen and admired by very many interested people. Mr. Sackley is confident that it will prove to be popular and all comment thus far has been highly favorable.

A "HORSELESS FARM"

In Ingham county, Michigan, dwells a farmer who believes in applying progressive ideas to his business. During a recent hot spell he lost two horses while in the midst of haying. His Reo motor truck was pressed into service with excellent results, as the accompanying photo shows. He cut two acres of hay in one hour and forty minutes, and says he can beat that record the next time he tries it.

Mr. W. H. Porter, owner of the truck, has plowed with it and says it beats horses for this work. He proposes to do all of his fall plowing by this means.

Since it hauls his material, grains, potatoes and does other work his horses used to do, he says he intends to completely motorize his farm, as soon as he perfects a whinnying attachment to keep the "hands" from getting too lonesome for the Clydesdale and the Percherons.

JOSEPH A. PLANTE

Returned From Convention of A. C. F. Montreal, Today

Joseph A. Plante, secretary-treasurer of Branch St. Marie, A. C. F., returned this morning from Montreal, Que., where he attended the national convention of the Artisans Canadiens Francais, as a delegate for the second Massachusetts district, which comprises Branches St. Andre, St. Joseph, St. Louis and St. Marie of this city and branches in Lawrence, Amesbury and Newburyport.

Mr. Plante had the honor of serving on the committee of divers business and he was the promoter of the motion which was adopted by which it was voted to keep the Canadian soldiers who are members of the society on the society's roll, irrespective of whether they pay their fees, and also in case of death to pay their beneficiaries the amount of their insurance.

In the course of the convention, which lasted several days it was voted to hold the convention every four years instead of every other year and to elect general officers for a term of four years. There were 72 delegates present at the convention, the men coming from all parts of the states and the Dominion.

While in Canada Mr. Plante took occasion to visit his birthplace, Napierreville, Que., which he had not seen for 50 years. He said he found things changed to such an extent that he was unable to recognize even the place where he was born. He said Canada is prosperous and a good sign of this is that farmers are hiring men on the farms, paying them $3 a day, whereas 30 years ago all the farm help wanted could be hired for $6 a month.

From Napierreville, Mr. Plante returned to Montreal, where he spent a few days with a former Lowell men, J. Adelard Gauthier, who is now a prosperous business man, being at the head of a large electrical concern. Mr. Gauthier left Lowell some six years ago for the Canadian metropolis, where he opened an electrical establishment. He is now owner of considerable real estate property and conducts a very successful business.

SCHOOL BOARD

000 with which to purchase this property. The papers, it was stated today, will be passed tomorrow. The money was borrowed at 5 per cent., 1 per cent less than the water department loan for $90,000. This money will be passed over to the city on Friday of this week to be used in connection with the erection of a filtration plant at the boulevard and 6 per cent. is about the highest rate of interest the city has ever paid.

School Teachers in Europe

Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, has received a letter from Miss Jennie M. Bennett of the Grand street school. The letter was mailed in London and Miss Bennett hopes to be able to reach Lowell by Sept. 1. In March the school committee granted Miss Bennett leave of absence until Sept. 1, and she asks in her letter that if she should fail to reach Lowell as early as Sept. 1, that her leave of absence be extended. Her home is at 81 Gates street.

Miss Bennett is the only Lowell teacher known to be abroad whom Mr. Molloy has heard from. It is definitely known, however, that two separate parties of teachers are in Europe. In the first are Misses Mary H. and Myrtle Killpatrick and Mrs. Emily Crayen. They were booked through the Murphy steamship agency, and sailed from Boston for Naples. Their original itinerary covered Rome, Naples, Lucerne and brought them to Paris on August 13. If they maintained their original plans, they sailed from Holland Saturday, Aug. 22, but this is not probable. No word whatever has been received from this party since it sailed abroad.

The Second Party

The second party, which sailed at the same time as the party already mentioned, consisted of Miss Flora Owen, Miss Ellen Stillings, Miss Sadie Dean, Miss Carrie Bailey, and Mrs. Sophie White Wing, the latter an employe of the Lowell Gas Light company's office. They, too, had booked return passage on the Laconia, sailing from Liverpool Sept. 1, although their itinerary did not carry them northwards in Europe. Miss Ida Clark, another teacher, was also to return on the Laconia.

The Cumnock Party

Word has been received by F. A. Bowen of the Appleton Mfg. Co. to the effect that the Cumnock party was due to sail for New York on the Neapolitan line, from Naples, on August 20. The boat taken was a 10-day one, and they should be in Lowell by Sept. 1. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cumnock, Misses Grace and Eva Cumnock and Mr. and Mrs. John Blodgett, the latter of Grand Rapids, Mich.

This party was in Switzerland before the outbreak of the war.

Granolithic Sidewalk Petitions

A number of petitions for granolithic sidewalks sent in last year, it was stated today, will probably be acted upon this year, and there's a reason. Last year the abutter had to pay the total cost and that wasn't as the ordinary abutter would like it. This year the city pays half the cost and that is, the abutter thinks, as it should be. Just for that several old petitions have been trotted out and sidewalks to be laid this year, it is stated, will include the Follows property and the Marks property in Central street. The new sidewalks will take in numbers 32-34-36-38 and 40. Tyler Stevens had also petitioned for a granolithic sidewalk in front of the Central block in Central street and this work will be attended to this year. The work of laying the new granolithic sidewalk in front of the Y. M. C. A. building in Merrimack street is being pushed with all possible haste. Mr. Gallagher, who keeps a fruit and confectionary store near the Y. M. C. A. building, said today he was in hopes that the new sidewalk would extend to Shattuck street, but it seems that the owners of intervening property did not want it.

Street Not Accepted

There was some controversy at city hall today as to whether Billerica street was an accepted street at the point near the scene of the sad drowning accident on Sunday. The city engineer was consulted and he stated that Billerica street was accepted only as far as Eugene street and that is quite a way this side of where the accident happened.

Entrance to Boulevard Closed

The entrance to the boulevard, at this end, has been closed for a week or more on account of the repairs that are being made there. The entrance to the boulevard has been in tough shape for a long time and automobilists and others who use the boulevard will be glad the repairs have been completed. It was stated today that the work would be completed this week.

Improve Dracut Range

Commissioner Donnelly and Francis Connor, superintendent of buildings, went to Wakefield yesterday and met Capt. J. Keough of the state ordnance department. Capt. Keough accompanied the Lowell men to the Wakefield rifle range and pointed out features that he thought would improve the Dracut range. Commissioner Donnelly stated today that the Wakefield range is right up to the minute and that he had decided on several changes to be made at the Dracut range. The alterations and improvements will include target changes.

Industrial Accident Board

The industrial accident board will come to Lowell tomorrow afternoon and will give a hearing in the aldermanic chamber at 1.30 o'clock. The board always notifies the city messenger when its representatives are coming to Lowell, but the notice does not include any reference to the case to be heard. The board will give another hearing on Sept. 30, at 10.30 a. m.

Two Band Concerts

The last of the municipal concerts will be given this week, the first on Thursday night by the National band, on the North common, and the second by the Cadet band, Sunday night, on the South common. The hour for the concert is 8 o'clock.

Permit for Dwelling

Recent building permits issued at the office of Commissioner Donnelly included one to William England for the erection of a dwelling at 112 Upham street. The building will be 25 by 30 feet, 7 rooms, pantry and bath, two stories and the estimated cost is $2500.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

A celebrated law suit of a quarter of a century ago, involving local firms, was that of Foss & Co. vs. Howe Bros., contractors, which grew out of a contract relative to the construction of the Washington mills, of Lawrence.

Concerning an early feature of the case the old Sun has the following:

"The auditor's decision in the case of C. F. Foss & Co., vs. John F. and Henry C. Howe to recover the amount due or claimed to be due for work as sub-contractors in the construction of the Washington mills of Lawrence, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court, at Cambridge. The auditor awards Charles F. Foss, who is now the only member of the firm, the sum of $30,430.63 with interest from January 27, 1887. The party agreed upon by the plaintiff and the defendants to arbitrate in the matter before the suit was commenced, fixed the amount due at about $15,000. The award of the auditor is not fully up to the claim of the plaintiff which was, including interest and all other accounts in the vicinity of $40,000. George F. Richardson appeared for the plaintiff and J. N. Marshal and F. T. Greenhalge for the defendants.

Officer Molony on Jury

Said the same issue of The Sun:

"John Boyle, John A. McGuire, Henry Pratt and Thomas A. Molony were chosen traverse jurors for the coming session of the superior civil court to be holden in this city on the first Monday of September."

A few evenings ago upon meeting Police Officer Thomas A. Molony, I inquired if he was the man referred to as the juror of a quarter of a century ago. In reply he said: "I am the man, and I remember the session very clearly for I sat on the longest civil case ever tried in Middlesex county up to that time. It was that of Foss & Co. vs. Howe Bros., an action brought to recover for work done on the Washington mills in Lawrence. We opened the case on a Monday morning and finished on Friday evening, just three weeks later. If I remember rightly the jury confirmed the finding of the auditor."

Mellen Wins Boat Race

Last week I referred to Hugh Mellen, proprietor of the St. Charles hotel, as the manager of Jim McCusker, the swimmer, and an athlete and promoter of athletic events himself, 25 years ago. Mr. Mellen was also an oarsman of some prowess and the old Sun tells of a boat race that he won with $100 as the stake, as follows:

"Fourth of July when the four-oared lap-streak boat race was ended there was considerable discussion among the crews as to which had the more science. A couple of challenges were exchanged, but the whole discussion sifted down to an agreement between Hugh F. Mellen and John F. Harrigan to row a single scull race for $25 a side and this was afterward raised to $50 a side. The race came off Wednesday afternoon on the Vesper course on the upper river. Daniel D. Driscoll was referee and starter. The start was made at just six o'clock after considerable time had been spent in getting the boats into line. The water was in fine condition for boat-racing. Harrigan got the best start and exerted himself much to keep the lead for the first half, Mellen taking his work more easily and apparently being in better condition. Harrigan had the Dracut shore and turned the upper stake first in 7 minutes, 30 seconds. The turn was a wild one in both cases. On the home stretch there was a great contest the first half of the distance, but Mellen passed his opponent by earnest and telling efforts and was two lengths ahead when half way down the course, continuing to widen the gap to the close. He won in 15 minutes, 20 seconds."

There were oarsmen galore in Lowell in those days, while most every section of the city had its four-oared crew. Among the crack racers of quarter of a century ago were Daniel D. Driscoll, John Quinn, John Tweed, Jim Walker, Daniel "Doc" Sullivan, Mike Kennedy, Newell Goodrow, "Shaun" McCarthy, John Harrigan, Hugh Mellen, Henry Redmond, Police Officer Jim Boyle and his brother Tom, Herbert Bisbee, who could also play a cornet, and John T. Donohue, who along with being an oarsman used to make racing sculls over in Centralville. And yet today there are many big boys in Lowell who have never seen a single-scull racer.

Another Local Poet

Lowell was never at a loss for poets, good and bad, and quarter of a century ago James Perkinson was the genius who held the boards for I find in the old Sun the following:

"Mr. James Perkinson of this city, poet, musician and bosom friend of John L. Sullivan has written another ode to the champion. Mr. Perkinson asks the Sun to call the attention of his Lowell admirers to his latest roundelay and we do so with pleasure. The verses are great and Mr. Perkinson's success as a ballad writer is assured."

As the old Sun neglected to print the verses I assume that in referring to them as being great, the editor referred to their volume rather than to their quality. Mr. Perkinson antedated Joe Rickford by a few years, but he had nothing on Joseph as regards talent. Oh, those local poets of days gone by, how they did haunt the old Sun office with their effusions, each courting the muse as did Milton in his L'Allegro, in happy, care-free mood:

"Haste thee, nymph and bring with thee
Jest and youthful jollity,
Quips and cranks and wanton wiles,
Nods and becks and wreath-ed smiles."

They carried their effusions to the editorial wastebasket in person in the old days for the worst fate that could be visited upon them was a drop of two stories, via the window or the stairway; but now as they measure the awful distance from the roof to the street floor and then learn with dismay that the editor is to be found on the tenth floor they quietly steal homeward and invest in a one-cent stamp, the more prosperous ones, in a two, and send their sonnets by mail—and they never came back.

Temperance Society Picnic

Says the old Sun:

"St. Patrick's Temperance society picked out a fine day for their picnic at Willow Dale, Wednesday was a delightful day and they were loaded down with friends of the society who helped to make the picnic a success. Everybody had an enjoyable time, the members of the society doing everything in their power to make the events move smoothly. Quite a number joined in the dance in the pavilion where John H. Ring was floor director and Temple's orchestra furnished music. Thomas Connors won the 100 yard dash and sack race. The doughnut race was won by James O'Connor of North Chelmsford. In the tug-of-war which was long and exciting, the St. Patrick's team won against a picked team. James O'Sullivan was general manager."

For many years James O'Sullivan and the late John Ring were the leading spirits of the old St. Patrick's Temperance society and no event was complete without them. Both were forceful debaters and men of executive ability, but from what the old Sun says Mr. Ring had one thing on Mr. O'Sullivan for as floor director, he must have been somewhat of a dancer, although a man of heavy build, while local history contains no mention of Mr. O'Sullivan as a terpsichorean artist. Thomas Connors, who won the 100 yards sack race is former Supt. Connors of the city wood yard where, until the coming of the present administration, he conducted that department, of which the slogan is "Say nothing but saw wood," and the only department in which the superintendent does as much manual labor as his working force—one man, with eminent success. Mr. Connors is a product of the North common and in his more youthful days was a good all around athlete. In justice to James O'Connor of North Chelmsford, now one of Hyde Park's leading citizens, who from his earliest days was possessed of a gorgeous appetite and a build that gave evidence of the fact, it should be stated that the doughnut race was not a contest in which the doughnuts were consumed by the contestants, though had it been he would still have been a top-heavy favorite in the betting. Dr. O'Connor after completing his studies at Allegheny college went to medical school and upon receiving his "M. D." emigrated to Hyde Park where, starting in a total stranger, he has been a success in his profession from the start.

O'Donnell & Gilbride's Outing

The well known firm of O'Donnell & Gilbride was in its infancy a quarter of a century ago, but it had already established a most friendly relationship between employer and employes. I find in the old Sun the following:

"Employes of O'Donnell & Gilbride held a picnic at Willow Dale, Tuesday evening. Several persons not in the employ of the company were invited and all told there was a large and lively party. The company went out on the electric cars at 6 o'clock. John O'Hearn was general manager and at the supper James H. Kelly was toastmaster. There were several short speeches and vocal solos by Misses Nellie and Mamie Gorman. Dancing followed. Four young men got left and were obliged to walk to Lowell reaching here at midnight."

The Sun charitably omits mention of the quartet who biked it home. Mr. John O'Hearn who at that time was manager of the O'Donnell & Gilbride store and subsequently a member of the clothing firm of O'Hearn and Dowd, located where Mitchell the tailor now holds forth, is now a resident of Ashmont, Mass., and Mr. Kelly is managing with great success the mammoth department store of Dan A. Donahue, at Salem, Mass.

Married in Balloon

Because the sporting editor of The Sun recently made a trip in a hydroplane at Lakeview there are certain people uncharitable enough to put him down as a "nut." But such is not the fact. It was a part of his job and he went through with it all right. It would be interesting to hear their comment upon the following story of a Lowell man, which appeared in The Sun of 25 years ago:

"The most unique event in New Hampshire for a long time and the crowning feature of the four days' state fair in progress in Manchester, the marriage of a young couple in a balloon, took place Thursday afternoon. The driving park, in which the affair was held, contained fully 30,000 people, representing every part of the state, and many were attracted from across the boundary line. The principals were Mr. Joseph F. Boyd, an employe in the Amoskeag mills, and formerly a resident of Lowell, and Miss Addie Brooks, whose father is a blacksmith in Bedford. The groom is twenty-six years old and the bride 21. The ceremony was performed with the couple standing in the basket, Hon. Hiram D. Upton, speaker of the New Hampshire house of representatives, officiating, and the rites were followed by a terse lay sermon on the duties of the husband and wife delivered in the speaker's best vein. Arthur Murphy of this city served as best man and Miss Ida Brooks as bridesmaid. The ceremony was succeeded by cheers from thousands of throats and in the the midst of the demonstration the balloon was set loose, moving skyward slowly, with the bridal couple, Prof. Allen and Hon. Herbert F. Norris aboard. Among the gifts bestowed was an outfit worth $200 from the New Hampshire Agricultural society. Mr. Boyd is a member of Court Merrimack, A. O. F., of this city. Miss Brooks said the presents did not form any inducement to her being married in so public a manner, but she had long desired to make a balloon ascension, and so gladly welcomed this opportunity. Prof. Allen stated that this was the third couple only who had ever made their bridal tour in a balloon, the first occurrence of the kind occurring at Dayton, O., in 1876, and the second at Providence, R. I., in 1888, when 35,000 witnessed the ascension. The balloon used is a new one, of extra large size, capable of carrying 700 pounds weight besides the passengers. It is 86 feet from tip to tip, and contained 45,000 feet of gas.

"The balloon came down at 5 o'clock in Goffstown. The balloon was that used in Lowell last Fourth of July."

Alex. Was Cool

Says The Sun of a quarter of a century ago:

"It was so cool Tuesday evening that Conductor Alex. Rountree had to put on an extra pair of suspenders."

Alex., whose first name is Alexander, I assume to be the present member of the park commission, who with the responsibility of public office on his shoulders, has shifted the old-time galluses for a belt. Commissioner Rountree has proven himself to be a successful conductor of political affairs, having been a member of the board of aldermen and subsequently connected with the park commission. From the reports of some of the meetings of the park board, one would infer that if Alex. were now wearing suspenders he would be more inclined to take them off than to put on an extra pair.

The Old Burkes

Says the old Sun:

"At a meeting of the Burke Temperance institute Tuesday evening it was voted to observe Father Burke's birthday which falls on next Sunday. The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to make arrangements: William A. Hogan, William H. Stafford, John McGuinness, M. J. O'Connell and John H. McNabb. At the next meeting a board of trustees will be elected. The election of a marshal for the Fr. Mathew parade on October 10th was laid on the table for two weeks."

Twenty-five years continuous traveling on the water-wagon is some record and yet if today you were to ask any of the gentlemen above-mentioned to have a drink you would do so without fear of any liability being attached for they're still on it.

THE OLD TIMER.

BOARD OF TRADE TRIP

PROSPECT THAT THE ANNUAL OUTING WILL BE A GREAT SUCCESS

Secretary John H. Murphy announced this morning that all arrangements for the annual outing which will be held Thursday at Nahant are completed and he said he believes the event will be the best ever conducted by the organization. Nearly 100 automobile owners have pledged their machines for the excursion and it is the belief of the committee in charge that over 300 men will take part in the affair. This morning a large batch of handsome pennants were received and one will be placed on each car leaving city hall for Nahant Thursday morning. The pennants are of red and white and bear the following inscription, "Lowell B. of T."

BACK ON THE JOB

The many friends of Clyde McArdle, the popular treasurer of the Merrimack Square theatre, will be pleased to hear that he is back at the box office. He and Manager Carroll are the right men in the right place, and every patron of the theatre under the management of these men may be always sure of receiving courteous treatment.

Mr. McArdle has just finished a 14 weeks' engagement as manager of Lexington Park and yesterday assumed his old position as assistant to Manager Carroll. He made a great hit, not only with the patrons of the park, but also with all who labored under him, and before leaving for Lowell was presented a traveling bag with all the assessories by the employes of the popular summer park. Despite the fact that this was an off year for summer resorts, Mr. McArdle had a most successful season.

Summer Foods as Cause of Dyspepsia

Many Also Get Diarrhoea—What To Do in Either Case

Summer ought to be the months of most perfect health, but owing to contaminated water and milk, unripe fruit, germs and insects the average of health is not good at this time of the year. There is much skin trouble from acid fruits, and much dyspepsia and diarrhoea from cold foods and iced beverages.

The skin trouble is easily stopped by discontinuing fruit for a few days, and by the use of a mild laxative to clean the bowels and tone the blood. The dyspepsia is likewise corrected by the use of a laxative that has combined with it the elements of a digestive tonic. Hence the best remedy to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, as its name indicates, is a pleasant laxative combined with the virtues of pepsin, which we all know is the best cure for indigestion.

Use Syrup Pepsin also for summer diarrhoea. Avoid astringents, physics and cathartics, as they are unnecessarily harsh. Thousands of good American families prefer Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, among them those of Mrs. W. A. Taylor, Beloit, Wis., who finds she can give it to her baby without causing cramps or pains, and Mrs. Wm. O. Richter, Clayville, Va., who considers it a laxative tonic absolutely unexcelled. They know of no pleasanter cure for constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, summer diarrhoea, etc. It is valuable to all the family from infancy to old age. Children like its taste. All druggists sell it at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington st., Monticello, Ill.

This is one of the first pictures to reach America from the war in Europe. It was taken in one of the forts which surround Liege, Belgium, and which offered such a remarkable resistance to the assault and bombardment of the German troops. Utterly exhausted after continuous fighting for thirty-six hours, night and day, these soldiers flung themselves upon the straw and slept like logs. The picture was smuggled out of the prison by a soldier who was sent with dispatches to Brussels.

FLEE FROM FIRE

All Buildings at Island Park, Portsmouth, R. I., Destroyed by Fire

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., Aug. 25.—All the buildings at Island park, an amusement resort conducted by the Bay State Street Railway company were destroyed by fire early today. Several employes who had sleeping quarters in the upper part of one of the buildings were forced to leave without dressing. The immediate financial loss was not large.

To Peel Off Freckled, Tanned or Muddy Skin

To remove tan, muddiness, freckles, blotches or any complexion difficulty, the best thing to do is to remove the skin itself. This is easily, painlessly and inexpensively done by the application of ordinary mercolized wax, procurable at any drug-store. The wax peels off the defective outer skin, a little each day, gradually bringing the cutis or second layer of skin to the surface. The pores are unclogged and the face breathes in the life-giving oxygen. The new skin is beautifully soft, clear and white, bearing the healthy glow of youth. Just apply the wax as you would cold cream, only not rubbing it in. In the morning wash it off with warm water. It's the most effective treatment known for a soiled, discolored or aged complexion.

AMONG THE TOILERS

At the Osgood mills, Andover, Mass., several of the departments have been working overtime four nights a week.

Many girls employed at the Lawrence hosiery returned this week from vacations spent at the various beaches.

The Lawrence Manufacturing company baseball team will play the C. M. A. C. aggregation at Spaulding Park Saturday.

The Continental Worsted Co., Providence, R. I., has leased the sewing room at 20 Stokes street, which will accommodate 30 workers.

Many of the union members would like to witness a 100 yards race between Pete Ladoux, president of the Millmen's union and Michael A. Lee, business agent for the carpenters.

The taking over of the Faulkner mills, Billerica, by the recently incorporated, North Billerica company, is good news to the residents of the town.

In North Adams, Mass., it is said that the woolen and worsted business is in fine shape, most of the mills running to capacity. Even better conditions are expected later.

Business Agent Hall, of the Machinists' union, is some disciplinarian even outside of his regular duties. He proved this fact clearly at the outing held Saturday, when he umpired the baseball game.

The plant of the West Boylston Manufacturing company, Easthampton, Mass., is again operating on a six day schedule owing to large orders received. The company until a short time ago had been running but four days a week.

Mike Wrenn of the Bigelow Carpet Co., ran in the 100 yards event at the Bunting games Saturday and although he did not get placed he gave a good account of himself. Mr. Wrenn, who weighs close on to 220 pounds, was placed at scratch.

Frank Burke, of the Lowell Electric Light corporation, will ever hold in mind the memorable ride of the Hinky Dinks to Revere beach. Mr. Burke, who is of small stature, stood his ground like a man, and it is said that he even refused an umbrella when it was offered to him.

New Construction

Treasurer Arthur R. Sharp, of the Hamilton Manufacturing company, of this city, states that the report is incorrect that they are to commence work immediately upon the second section of Mill No. 4, the first section of which was completed two years ago, and is fully equipped with Whitin and Draper looms.

United States Bunting Co.

The United States Bunting company, like all great manufacturers of woolen goods, is awaiting with expectation the outcome of the present dye-stuff difficulty. This important material is most essential and, therefore, affects the woolen mills more than the cotton plants. It is said that there is not more than from four to six months' supply on hand in this country at the present time. The company is running fair at present and in the event of the dyestuff tangle being straightened out satisfactorily the management looks for increased business.

Mill News

The knitting mill, formerly the old Switz Conde mill, at Oswego, N. Y., which it is proposed to take over in the reorganization of the Frisbie and Stansfield Knitting company, will not, it is understood, be operated for the present at least. The mill's electric power will be sold to the Standard Spinning company, whose plant is on the other side of the Oswego river.

The National Crash company, Millbury, manufacturers of tapes, announces that it has issued $35,000 worth of stocks and 20-year gold bonds. It is explained that the money is needed because of the tying up of future orders. It is also said the mill made a profit of $27,000 last year, but that it all went into new machinery.

On Aug. 1, the office of the treasurer of the Arlington mills will be transferred from Boston to the mills at Lawrence, where all the financial and accounting business of the corporation will be transacted from that date.

The Great Falls Mfg. Co., Somersworth, N. H., reports as of April 30 current assets $1,712.50, and current liabilities $44,285, an excess of $1,668,215 current assets, equivalent to nearly $167 per share on the stock, which is selling at $170.

Work of replacing mules at Natick, R. I., mills of B. B. and R. Knight with spinning frames, which has been in progress for some time, is now near completion, these being only about seven pairs of mules left installed.

The officials of the Draycott mills of New Hartford, Conn., owners of the Touraine company of the same place, now undergoing bankruptcy proceedings, have instructed Aaron N. Watson, agent for the trustees, to keep all the help in town by giving them free rent until adjustment of the affairs of the Touraine.

Responsible Positions

Stephen C. Lowe, American and Canadian agent for John Hetherington & Sons, Ltd., Manchester, England, builders of cotton machinery, has handed in his resignation to take effect Oct. 1 next. He has been representing this company for about 14 years. Although Mr. Lowe states that he is not in a position to make any plans public, it is thought he will remain in the cotton trade. He is president of the S. C. Lowe Supply company, New Bedford.

Frederick W. Greenhalgh, who has been connected with the Peace Dale (R. I.) Manufacturing company for 25 years as second hand and 15 years as boss weaver, has left the employ of the company. Harold Taulder, who comes from Yorkshire, England, has succeeded him.

William Richardson, during the past seven years assistant superintendent of Putnam Manufacturing company, Putnam, Conn., has been selected to fill the position of superintendent. This is a well merited advance for Mr. Richardson.

George B. Wooley, who resigned recently as overseer of weaving at the Butler mill, New Bedford, was visited at his home by a number of his associates from the weave room and presented with a purse of gold. Music and a general good time followed and the gathering broke up at a late hour.

W. B. Baldwin, superintendent of the underwear department of the Lebanon mill, Pawtucket, R. I., during the past five years, has handed in his resignation.

F. C. Hall is now assistant superintendent of the Dan River cotton mills, Danville, Va. Mr. Hall at one time was with the New England Cotton Yarn company, department 13, Taunton.

Noyes D. Farmer has resigned from the plant of the U. S. Bobbin and Shuttle company, at Manchester, N. H., where he has worked for over 12 years, the last two as superintendent. His new position will be the supervision of factory accounting for a Boston concern.

James Dunn is now filling the position of overseer of ring spinning at the plant of the Manville company, Georgiaville, R. I.

Loomfixers Held Meeting

Carpenters' hall, in the Runels building, was packed to overflowing last evening when the members of the Loomfixers' union met in regular session. Considerable routine business was transacted and reports from the various committees were accepted as read. Two new members were admitted and one proposition received. Several of the members spoke on the good of the union, while others spoke on attendance at meetings. These talks were listened to attentively by the members and at the conclusion of each speaker's address he was applauded. The secretary reported the union to be in a flourishing financial condition and all members working.

SAFETY FIRST CAR

TO TOUR COUNTRY—NEW YORK SOCIETY MEMBERS PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Pursuing its aggressive campaign for greater safety in motoring, and general use of the public highways, the Safety First society of New York has hit upon a decidedly original and unique idea. This is to be a nation-wide touring campaign with an automobile equipped with reliable devices, which tend to make motoring safe.

Within the next ten days this car will be started on an extended tour of the Eastern states and later continue on through the south and far west. It will carry representatives of the Safety First society, who will use unique methods of preaching the gospel of caution and carry the message of "Safety First" to motorists and other users of the highways along the entire route. The members of the expedition will call on city officials and prominent citizens in each city visited, with the object of inspiring interest and closer co-operation in the cause. In many cases aid and suggestions will be offered by the society's representatives to communities that are interested in co-operating by forming local Safety First societies. Suggestions as to traffic regulations, the eight-foot rule in passing trolley cars, uniformity of speed laws, muffler cut-out ordinances, street cars dimming headlights when approaching automobiles and other precautionary regulations now enforced in numerous cities, will be advocated.

Lectures will be delivered by the society's representatives, and as the tour will be given wide publicity it is hoped that it will directly result in more intense interest in the great national campaign to curb recklessness and to minimize the number of preventable automobile accidents and fatalities.

Such cities as New York, Boston, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Chicago, Toledo and St. Louis have perfected safety first organizations and many more cities are expected to promote similar bodies.

States to be covered by the tour include New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Virginia, Washington, D. C., and later into the northwest and Pacific coast.

That such a campaign will do much of decided benefit to the public at large as well as to the automobile industry in obvious and there is practically no limit to the field of operation.

THE KASINO

Lowell people will make the Kasino their objective tonight, when an exhibition introducing all of the modern steps will be given by Mr. McWilliams and Miss Warner of Lowell, and Mr. Murningham and Miss Callahan of Boston. These artists need no introduction. They have been dancing throughout New England the present season, and their work has been a hit everywhere. Added interest is given the appearance of the quartet tonight by the rivalry existing. The exhibition is to take the form of a contest, and the winning couple will receive a substantial prize. Miner's orchestra will play the music, and there can be no question of the quality of the entire entertainment.
